MAN CAUGHT THEN ARREST REVEALED A FINE ROMANCE

One of the Thieves Weds With Funds Stolen From Railroad Company - Another Has Money in the Bank.

Philadelphia, Aug. 28. - A conspiracy replete in romance and daring was brought to light yesterday when four conductors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company were held in $1,500 bail for court by Magistrate Smith. This marks the dissolution of a gang which has robbed the Traction company of thousands of dollars.

When Chief Silex of the company's force of detectives began an investigation into certain shortcomings in accounts he was not prepared to cope with an elaborate system of robbery. Little by little the pilfering of tickets evolved into evidence of a well laid conspiracy, which had been planned and carried out by employees far beyond the ordinary in intelligence.

The men arrested yesterday were H. Wood, Louis Aronchick, Bernard Aronchick and George W. Dipier. Each of the prisoners made a full confession, saying that they had been operating since April.

The scheme of robbery was so simple that it was thought to defy detection. Each man took a number of exchange tickets from his pad and carried in three cents for each ticket at the office of the line. This required some capital, but the returns seemed to be so sure that the outfit was regarded as a good investment.

Meanwhile, these tickets would be exchanged for the tickets of cross line. The cross town tickets were turned in as an equivalent for five cents, the profit on the transaction being two cents. There was nothing to mar the success of the plot for months. They had $1,500 in bank, and Louis Aronchick perfected his plans for his marriage. The four young men were not caught in their action, nor did they know of the plot for months.

The progress which the town has made within the last year or two is almost marvellous. There are about 300 buildings of one kind or another which are either finished or are in the course of construction this year. We have as fine schools, churches and commercial blocks as you will find in most of the cities of the Dominion and which would be a credit to any of them.

And all this building is but the result of the influx of people. The fact that six teachers, five in the public school and one in the high school, have been added to the staff since last Christmas is sufficient to show the enormous rate at which the people are flocking into the town, to say nothing of the surrounding country.

Not only is the town increasing in population, but it is also adding those enterprises which will materially assist in making it the commercial hub of the North West. We have saw mills, a woollen mill, a flour mill, foundry, sash and door factory and several other smaller industries.

A complete water works and sewerage system has been laid, and in the very near future we will have the street car service. Our town is very much alive with regard to the sporting element. Nearly every game imaginable is being played here. We have a skating and curling rink which will compare very favorably with any in the Dominion.

While the people of Manitoba generally are affected with a shortage of crop this year, we will have here good crops. The grain exhibit at Strathcona fair today was good, several samples measuring six feet and over. With a week or ten days of hot weather we will be able to give a good account of the grain crop.

The outlook in cattle does not appear so good. Beef is a little low at present, and the ranchers are holding on, thinking it may rise, but there is just the danger that they may hold out long when the line is busy with the grain traffic. As a result there will not be great enough demand for the cattle and they may have to sell cheaper or hold over, which is an expensive course if they are ready for sale. G. E. E.

HORNETS STING GIRLS. The Children Attacked by Infuriated Insects. Thousand Island Park, N.Y., Aug. 20. - Nellie and Fannie, two young daughters of Fred Marshall of Watertown, had an encounter with hornets, which might have ended fatally if it had not been for the prompt assistance of bystanders.

The two little girls were playing in the grass near the tabernacle when one of them accidentally stepped on the hornets' nest. Immediately the insects swarmed out and covered the heads and shoulders of the children. C. A. Whittier and others who were standing nearby were attracted by their cries and rushed to the aid of the girls, not, however, before they had been severely stung by the hornets, many of which became entangled in their hair and had to be picked out.

ON THE PLAINS. An Easterner Gives His Impression of Edmonton.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 18. - (To the Editor) - To one who has never seen this western country it would be about as difficult to initiate him into the life of the westerner as it would be to enlighten him with the mysteries of some of our secret orders. It is next to an impossibility for anyone living in a settled and conservative country like Ontario to form any adequate idea of the vastness and marvellous progress of this great west. Even the inhabitants of New Ontario would have to remodel his conceptions of the prairie and mountain region. Caesar could not conquer Britain without going there in person; neither can man form even a fair estimate of this country till with his own eye he has scanned the "wild and woolly" west.

Though Edmonton is at present the northern terminus of railway construction the time is not far distant when as a railway center, she will distribute to the north by rail, what she now does by other craft. At present she feeds the whole north country - Athabasca and McKenzie. The supplies are taken to Athabasca Landing by dog and horse, and thence by raft. The traders come in once a year, bringing with them their year's profits in furs and taking back their year's supplies.

Just this week Colin Fraser has come down from Fort Chipewyan, on Lake Athabasca, with a cargo of furs amounting to some 20,000 skins. Among them were 17,000 muskrat, 1,200 marten, 1,200 mink, beaver, fisher, mink, bears and all kinds of furs. Among the fox pelts were thirty-five silver grey, which are looked after as carefully as though they were South African diamonds or Klondyke nuggets. I spent a very interesting hour or two this morning looking through the stock after it had been sorted. After the buyers have examined the lot it will be divided into five or six lots and sold to the highest bidder, subject to a reserve bid. There are some very interesting stories connected with these fur traders, but they would be out of place here.

WHIPPED HIM REMARKABLE COURAGE BY A WELSH GIRL

She Prevented the Maniac From Slaughtering His Children - She Used a Broom - He Slew His Wife.

Cardiff, Wales, Aug. 20. - All Britain is discussing the extraordinary heroism of a young Welsh woman, who, armed only with a broom, confronted a maniac murderer after he had killed his wife, prevented him from slaughtering his children, and drove him to flight. The heroine's name is Anne Owens.

W. D. Evans, a veterinary surgeon, of Llanegw, Wales, living in an isolated cottage, was visited by a maniac, who became suddenly insane on Wednesday last. Seeing a knife, the maniac chased his wife into the yard and stabbed her to death, shouting out that he would kill all the children, too. As Evans started into the house Anne Owens confronted him at the kitchen door. The maniac attacked her, but undaunted, by the jabbering maniac, she seized a broom and drove him out of the yard. Surprised by the fierce onslaught, the maniac fled, and following the police, after a battle, the heroine told her story modestly to the coroner's jury, and the coroner commended her for her extraordinary bravery, saying, "The whole community are indebted to this brave girl. Few men would have had the courage to confront an armed maniac. Undoubtedly her bravery prevented the slaughter of the entire family."

At Lake Ontario Park. Despite an unfavorable black cloud which passed over the city between seven and eight o'clock last evening, a large crowd assembled at Lake Ontario park to be entertained by the company now performing there. Little Boris Egnworth so pleased the audience that she was presented with a bouquet. The vocal work of Rose and Drayton was admired; the pair are good singers. Elwood and Benton, fighting chance artists, are also prime favorites.

Currency For Crop Moving. Chicago, Ill., Aug. 20. - Shipments of currency to be for crop moving purposes have begun and it is expected there will be a steadily increasing demand from now until October. As yet shipments to the North-West have been limited to the two cities, Kansas and Nebraska. An indication of the size of the western movement, it may be stated that the First National is shipping nearly $200,000 a week. Other banks are shipping proportionate amounts. The movement is not altogether westward, however, as some of the country banks are shipping small amounts to Chicago. The Chicago banks are in excellent position to meet the demands that will be made on them this year for moving the crops. It is probable that New York reserves will be drawn on less this year than usual.

Dynamiters At Work. Belleville Ontario. Tuesday morning an attempt was made by some party or parties to blow up the Gananoque Water Power company's dam at Marble Rock. Luckily, however, no great damage was done, but had the structure been blown away, it would have caused untold damage to the country. The Chicago banks are in excellent position to meet the demands that will be made on them this year for moving the crops. It is probable that New York reserves will be drawn on less this year than usual.

The school-books to be provided by the Board of Education for the pupils are being labelled and made ready for delivery with the opening of the schools.

STORM AT THE FAIR. Tornado Swept It Flat. The Damage Was Slight.

St. Louis, Aug. 17. - The buildings of the exposition have been tested by the wind and not found wanting. A storm of hurricane velocity swept over the site and towers, minarets, cupolas, colonnades, all the beautiful works that go to complete the new city, had escaped. Yet there was loss, both of life and property, and the story of which has been set forth.

Electric lanterns, electric barges, Venetian gondolas and other small craft will ply the mile of waterways at the fair. The large boats will run over regular courses, carrying passengers between the buildings. The large gondolas reach every section of the main picture of the exposition. The intramural railroad and the miniature railway do not reach this district. The electric launch will carry twenty-two persons; the barges, seventy persons; and the picturesque gondolas, with singing and playing gondoliers, will carry from eight to twenty persons each. Besides these boats there will be operated a fleet of water craft of all nations, including the house-boat of China, the Baloo of India, the gull-rigger of the South Sea Islands, the surf-boat of Hawaii, the canoe and dug-out of the American Indian, and the Catamaran of Australia, besides novelty boats, designed to represent peacocks, swans, sea serpents and other real and fabled beings.

The sculpture for the decoration of the buildings and grounds is modelled in studios then enlarged and "built up" in a large workshop at Hopkins and at the fair grounds in St. Louis. Many of those employed are students and young sculptors, who thus obtain a livelihood while studying art. The preparation of the models is entrusted, besides ninety men, employed in enlargement. This activity goes on under Karl Bitter, who is assisted by an advisory.

Construction has begun at the world's fair of the "Galveston Flood," "Irish Village," began recently, and "The Pike." A feature of Iowa's dairy exhibit at the world's fair will be a state butter in butter of John Stewart, the pioneer creamery man of that state. Hives of bees with their living occupants making honey will be a feature of the Colorado exhibit at the world's fair. Ninety men will contribute to the collection. Among the vegetable curiosities in Missouri's display at the world's fair will be a cucumber two and a half feet long, weighing four and a half pounds.

A LYCHING IN BERLIN. Criminal Beaten to Death in Streets by a Mob. Berlin, Aug. 20. - Law abiding Berlin was shocked to learn, through the medium of a single paper, which printed the news, that Lynch law, for the first time in the history of the city, was applied to a criminal in a public square, the principal thoroughfare of the capital.

According to the published version of the affair, Karl Werner, a burglar, was caught robbing a downtown flat by an eighteen-year-old girl. Werner attacked his detector savagely with a dagger, and when several persons in the flat rushed promptly to her aid the criminal dashed through the streets, followed by a mob of men and boys.

The burglar sprang through a doorway in a store building, mounted the stairs, and attempted to hide himself in a loft. The mob pursued him, dragged him out to the street, mercilessly kicked him, beat him with clubs, and maltreated him in every way their ingenuity could conceive.

When the police arrived Werner had been beaten into unconsciousness and was rescued with difficulty from the hands of the mob. He died a few minutes after being taken to the police station. No arrests have been reported thus far.
