CAN MAKE MEN SOUND and STRONG

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New For The Cure Of Men's Diseases In Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only If Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method And Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day.

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from colleges and medical boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes, and so there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer.

DR. S. GOLDBERG. The possessor of 14 diplomas and certificates who wants no money that he does not earn.

will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their names and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subjects, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward avenue, Room W., Detroit, Mich. and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

LIBEL CHARGED AGAINST MONTREAL LABOR AGITATOR.

Published Statement That a Clothing Dealer Compelled His Employees to Contribute to Kishineff Fund. Montreal, Aug. 22.—A warrant was issued for the arrest of Bernard Rose, a labor agitator on the charge of libelling Harris Vinberg, a wholesale clothing dealer. Rose published an article in the Weekly Bulletin of the clothing trade, accusing Vinberg of compelling his employees to contribute to the Kishineff fund. Vinberg claims that his employees themselves asked to be allowed to work an extra half day, the money to go to the fund. One hundred and seventeen dollars was thus raised.

MOWAT ANECDOTES. Sallies Made by Sir Oliver Mowat on Public Occasions.

The authorized biographer of Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. C. R. W. Biggar, K.C., when seen recently, kindly related, from the extensive manuscript and collected material at his hand, several incidents not widely known among the Conservatives who are able to write at five years' old, and many Kingstonsians have told me of the picture, still fresh in their mind, of the little, curly-headed boy, sitting on the counter of his father's shop and feigning with a Scottish accent and much dramatic expression the letters of the Rev. Wm. Dunlop, published under the pen name of "Backwoodsman" in the Edinburgh Scotsman, recounting the early experiences of a Presbyterian in the backwoods of Canada.

After a short, respectful pause, he asked, "An' who's got de job now? Who'd de head now?" "Oh, Edward de King now. It's King Edward for de last three months."

"Edwards de King! Well, well, you don't tote me Edwards de King! He's a beg man in de lumber business, but I never expect to hear of him de King. What a pull dat man Edward must have with Laurier!"—Burlington (V.L.) Free Press.

Great Canal System. Canada's canals and waterways are perhaps unequalled in the world, and far ahead of anything possessed by the United States, the canal system of Canada permitting ocean steamers of large size to penetrate to the head of Lake Superior, or nearly one-half the distance across the continent, so giving Canada, with the St. Lawrence River and basin, an inland coast line unequalled by any other country, and of immense advantage in the way of cheap transportation between all parts of the country.

Canada's advantages from her waterways have not been taken sufficient advantage of in the past, but are now coming to the front, and it is amongst the probabilities of the future that through Canada will flow the bulk of the trade in grain and other produce requiring cheap transportation not only from the Canadian west but also from the western States of the United States.

A glance at the map will show, writes Mr. Robert Rford of Montreal in The Globe, that the great grain depots are situated on Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, etc., and that the shortest and most direct route of shipment to Europe is through the Canadian ports of Montreal and Quebec in summer and Halifax and St. John in winter.

Three of our great railways have come to recognize the fact that, with proper facilities, the trade of the west with Europe is in their hands, and they are now making arrangements for the cheaper and quicker carriage of grain by large freighters on the lakes to depots on the Georgian Bay, whence the grain is transported by rail to Montreal and Quebec, greatly shortening its transit, and port of shipment, and decreasing cost of same.

Passengers and the Icebergs. The comments of the passengers when an ocean steamer passes an iceberg are often curious. If the weather is fine and the distance sufficient for safety, while convenient for observation, the sight is taken as a spectacle arranged for the edification of the onlookers. Some are disappointed. They expected something more dramatic, perhaps, and when flat surfaces are seen or ragged edges where the waves may be sliding over smoothness. Others go into ecstasies of delight over the view. But the master of the ship looks on the berg as his natural enemy and calculates the chances of others being met with later on. When the passengers are sleeping the officers watch that harm comes not nigh, and this spring they have very numerous in the line of travel between Liverpool and Canada.

The littleness of man's work as compared with that of the Creator is nowhere more apparent than when the ship, perhaps a great ocean liner, falls in with a fleet of these leviathans of the ocean.

Our Field Sports. Field sports attract a large number of our people, says The Mail and Empire. If it were not in such a condition as its best friends, it is still the greatest of outdoor games, and occupies first place in the hearts of true Canadians. Baseball appeals to the masses with irresistible force. As a sport, the wheel is as dead as the discus, but hardly less of a necessity than the sewing machine. This country is none the worse for its love of sport. So long as our games and those who play them are clean they should be protected and encouraged. Education is not more important to Canadians than their outdoor life.

"WE SHALL NOT DIE." FOR AMBITIOUS YOUNG CANADIANS.

There is a Fortune in a Good Knowledge of French—Wholesale Men Require Linguists. How many of the younger men know that, if they will only grasp the French language, they are waiting their golden prize? It can be attained only by study; the study of French. The big wholesalers of Toronto are pushing their trade into Quebec, says The Toronto News. The manufacturers are doing the same thing. And the representatives of these firms, if they are to be successful in the French Province, must speak the language. French employers have had great difficulty in obtaining traveling salesmen who would be able to talk to the French-Canadian merchant in his own tongue. They had plenty of bright, alert, pushing young men, but they had only the language that their fathers taught them. All the things being equal, the young man who is full of water powers that will make her, in the near future, a quantity to be reckoned with when it comes to manufacturing. Where water powers are, there will be electric power. The French-Canadian development means positions for many young men who know something of that branch of engineering. Toronto is full of its students, many of them with good marks in French, and under them will be hundreds of French-Canadians. Will it not be easier for them to manage the business when they know the tongue of their employers? The man who has nothing but English at his command, will have to depend largely on his French-Canadian assistants or foremen to carry on the business. The engineer he is, the better. Still, a man who has attained middle age can "pick it up." Many a politician has gone to Ottawa knowing no word of French, but he has picked up a knowledge of it would help him in Parliament and, has commenced his study. People of our blood are notoriously slow learners, and it is very difficult in the task of acquiring a working knowledge of French. It is something that pretty nearly any man possessing a high school education should be able to achieve in six months. If he knows his Latin grammar pretty well, he will be immeasurably helped. But even if he has no Latin, he will do well to take up French. He will be richer financially and mentally.

One of Canada's Jurists. The Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, Sir Louis Jetté, who is to the front as one of Canada's jurists in the Alaskan Boundary dispute, is not known outside of his Province except by name. He is far more a judge than a politician, in temperament and attainments. The one episode in his political career which brought him fame was his defeat of the late Sir George Ross in Montreal East in the general elections of 1872. Then a young avocet, comparatively obscure, Jetté was brought out by the liberals against the French Tory leader, whose prestige and authority in Quebec were then similar to Sir John Macdonald's in Ontario. Cartier had deeply offended the church by declining to intervene in the separate schools for the New Brunswick Catholics. He had also incurred the hostility of the militia, and the late Colonel Ross, who was then Attorney-General of Ontario, and Colonel T. Denton, of Toronto, went quietly into the constituency and worked against him. Cartier was left in a minority of 1,200 votes—changing pictures presented to their view. But the master of the ship looks on the berg as his natural enemy and calculates the chances of others being met with later on. When the passengers are sleeping the officers watch that harm comes not nigh, and this spring they have very numerous in the line of travel between Liverpool and Canada.

But all over Ontario that vindictive and typhoid-propagating insect, the mosquito, is a pest. In rural and suburban districts, broken crockery, flower-pots and discarded vegetable and fruit cans in a back yard will often hold enough rainwater to attract an egg-laying mosquito. Of course, ponds furnish a larger problem, but not an insoluble one. With them drainage must be resorted to, and drains called for co-operation. For that matter, so do other methods of campaigning. Fighting mosquitoes is like shovelling snow. If Jones means to shovel, and Smith is negligent, the public loses the benefit of the former's diligence, and Jones is tempted to regret his own zeal. If one man cleans up his yard and denies the mosquito to his neighbor's place, and his neighbor does not, virtue is not adequately rewarded. Virtue is continually getting it in the cervical vertebrae, anyhow, but the fact is not ready to lose the fact can never hope to make an effective bluff in the direction of convincing his fellow-citizens that he desires to look on the high side of the high, clear ruling note that he should always have on tap.
