CANADIAN CHEESE

Exports to England Have Vastly

A remarkable illustration of the growth of the Canadian cheese trade with Great Britain is afforded by an agricultural article in the London Times dealing with both butter and cheese. It states that the British im portations of foreign butter far exthe past ten years the imports of foreign butter have increased by 70, 000 tons, while those from the colo nies have only increased by 14,458 tons. In 1895 the import of butter from Canada amounted to 2,197 tons, while this year the amount of Canadian butter brought in figures 13,238 tons.
