A PRINCE'S ACTS

HE CORRUPTED HIS JAILERS IN MARKED WAY. Had Quite a Social Time in Prison.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Prince Arenberg, sentenced to death two years ago for a series of cruel murders and atrocities perpetrated while he was a lieutenant with the colonial troops in Africa, but who brought to bear aristocratic influence enough to get his sentence commuted to fifteen years' imprisonment, has just been removed from the Hanover prison under remarkable circumstances.

He had so corrupted his jailers with bribes that he was enabled to give dinner parties to men and women and to have visitors stay with him in prison.

This state of things being discovered, the whole staff of the prison was dismissed and Arenberg has been transferred to the colonies, where he is to be kept in solitary confinement for three years.

A SULPHUR MINE

Found In The Volcano In Mexico. Page's Magazine.

A current report has it that negotiations are on foot for the transfer of the title of the famous volcano, Mount Popocatepetl, in Mexico.

Its present owner, Gen. Gaspar Sanchez Ochoa, received it from the government of Mexico in recognition of certain political and military services, and is said to have offered it for sale at merely $5,000,000—a bargain, considering the millions of dollars worth of sulphur it contains.

Two parties are declared to be bidding for it, one backed by John D. Rockefeller, and the other by John P. and Samuel Green, of Pittsburgh. There are two schemes by which it is proposed to work the sulphur mine.

The first is to tunnel into the volcano at about 600 yards below the crater, and to remove the sulphur by a mechanical agent in the form of a cable conveyor consisting of a one inch steel cable carrying buckets 100 feet apart.

These will dip into the red hot molten sulphur and bring it out, the buckets travelling at the rate of 200 feet per minute. The estimated cost of this equipment is about $300,000.

The other scheme proposes to send cog-wheel railways over the lip of the crater directly down into the sulphur lake, but it is questionable if sufficient foundation is available to sustain the heavy supporting members that would be necessary.

For many generations this sulphur has been mined in a crude fashion, as it is believed to be inexhaustible, as it is apparently replenished as fast as it is removed. Its market price at present is $40 per ton; but there is no danger of the price falling by over-production at this source if the rumoured speculators acquire the Mountain.

IMPROVED LOT OF WORKER.

Compared With Increased Earnings of Capital. Three years ago, there was much alarm over the organization of trusts.

To-day, this alarm is transferred to the organization of labor. The capitalization of trusts was estimated at $6,000,000,000, and the membership of unions has doubled since the trust era began.

The trusts put up the prices of commodities and the unions the price of labor. But it was found that the wages of unorganized labor have also been increased.

There is a difference between the two organizations. The price of commodities rose earlier and went higher than the wages of labor. But the wages have shown that the general level of prices rose forty per cent. from July, 1897, to November, 1901, and has been nearly stationary for a year and a half. But there are very few unions.

A BEAR HUNT. Exciting Sport Enjoyed Near Eganville. Eganville, Aug. 31.—Bear hunting in this section now is rare sport, for in late years bears have migrated to more unsettled parts, where less likely to fall a victim to the unerring aim of the settler's rifle, but once in a while they find their way to farms near by and usually considerable excitement among hunters is caused. On Tuesday a young bear furnished a couple of hours' exciting sport for Messrs. J. Surr and H. H. McCabe on Mink lake, Wilberforce, until he was finally disposed of by A. Sadler. The two former were sailing on the lake and noticing something in the water, some distance from them, called neighbor to investigate, when it was found to be a bear. And of course they had no gun. So, in order to keep him in the water, they sailed between him and the shore, manoeuvring in that way for over an hour, and at the same time calling to attract the attention of some one who could see a gun. Hearing their cries, A. Sadler went to the lake, and seeing the position of the men, got a rifle and was taken into the boat. Rowing out as near as possible to brain Mr. Sadler fired three shots, the last one entering the animal's head, killing him.

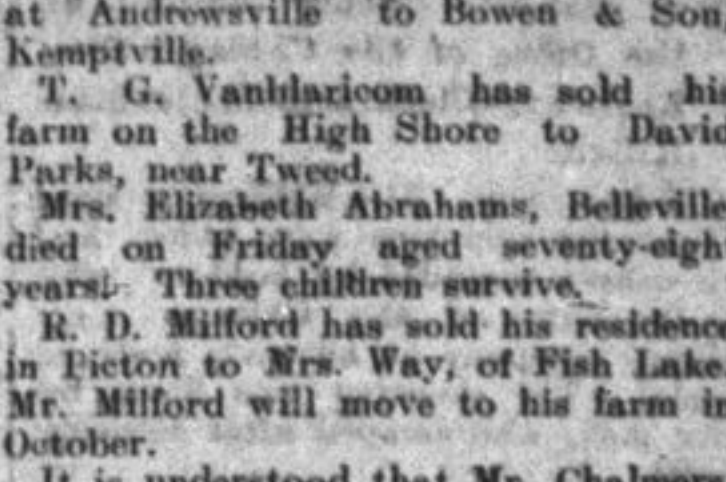

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. The Facts About The Wolfe Island Cheese Given. Wolfe Island, Aug. 29.—(To the Editor): I must ask permission to make a few remarks in regard to the discussion which arose at the cheese board meeting of last week. I would like to ask the board how one cheese sold for little better than culls when I was offered ten cents for them the day after the board met that being the highest figure bid for cheese made that day. Now if Mr. Crawford's house advised him not to buy cheese at that price the cheese are not responsible. Why was our cheese bought the following Thursday and passed on to G. E. F. Why did Mr. Crawford offer the cheese when he saw them at first? In regard to Mr. Horn sending his maker over in his place, Mr. Horn could do nothing else, providing Mr. Crawford was telling the facts of the matter no one but the maker could make any agreement about them. I had a Kingston buyer look the cheese over and passed them on to G. E. F. regarding to show being on the wharf that was an untruth. They never lay one night on the wharf.—S. W. GREER.
