AN APPEAL TO REASON. The workingmen have had an interview with the government and replied the Department of Labour by Canadian Manufacturers' Association At the time the association indulged in these attacks the Whig said it had ommitted a serious mistake, and ime has confirmed the conviction.

The three points pressed by Trades and Labour Council were: (1) the Manufacturers' Association cies of strikes, etc., and (3) that the labour department, in presenting the situation as they understood it, was

The reply of Sir William Mulock was full of meaning. He pointed out, regretfully, that the Manufacturers' Association had not fully appreciated the mission of the labour department and hence the unhappy criticism it. The act of 1900, which defined the department of Labour, also defined its work. It has to collect and dissinu ate statistical and other information of value to the employer and occur between capital and labour. Bu it has nothing to do with immigration-that belongs to the Department of Agriculture-"and it would be act ing illegally," said he, "if it undertook to deal with such a matter." Sir William Mulock defended
