THE PRACTICE WITH THE BURNSIDE RULES.

Play Was Quite Open And Mass Work Rare-The Game Quite Interesting From The Spectator's Standpoint.

The first exemplification of the Burn-Kingston took place Saturday aftersoon on the Royal Military College campus, when Limestones and Cadets tario. had a practice match. The military men were a little clever for the civilians, winning out by a score of mineteen to five. The Limestones scored their five points in the first half when they had the wind in their favor. When the cadets got the wind behin them they rapidly ran up the score The game was interesting to look at There was considerable passing, run ning and punting. If play can be kept y. This is a new idea and worth from developing into the old style mass work, the success of the Burn side rules is almost assured, as game will be more interesting when the ball is always is kept in sight There was quite a crowd from the city on the touchlines. W. Varney acted as referee in a very efficient manner.
