WHAT WHIG CORRESPONDENTS TELL US.

The Tidings From Various Points In Eastern Ontario—What People Are Doing And What They Are Saying.

Violet Items.

Violet, Oct. 5.—Rev. Mr. Buckley, of Newburgh, preached here on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson, of Newburgh, are the guests of Mr. James Stevenson. George Foote is at home. D. Boice took first prize on general purpose team, also in colts, and special on dressed chickens, at the Odessa fair. S. Hogle took several prizes at the fall shows on pigs and colts. Violet was well represented at Odessa fair.

Back In Good Health.

Camden East, Oct. 3.—We are all glad to see Mrs. L. H. Stover returning home from Kingston hospital in perfect health again. Farmers are busy in their potato digging and report very few rotten. R. Perry, fireman, of the Sydenham branch, spent Sunday at his home. Quite a number attending the Odessa fair. William Carr has moved to Yarker where he expects to work on the Bay of Quinte railway. Eli Wager was moved to Larkins to work on the Bay of Quinte.

Charleston Events.

Charleston, Oct. 5.—Cedar Wark hotel closed on Tuesday after a most successful season. Charleston is getting more popular each year as a summer resort. A great many from this section attended both Delta and Lyndhurst fairs. C. J. Banta is having a cellar wall built under his house at the lake shore. Master B. Slack has returned from Long Point. Corn cutting, silo filling and potato digging keep the farmers busy. Potatoes are not a very good crop and a great many are rotten in this section.

Forfar Facts.

Forfar, Oct. 5.—Cows are milking very well. Live stock has gone down in value somewhat. Rev. Mr. Eagleson occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church on Sunday last. Fred T. Stafford, Westport, paid a flying visit here Sunday. Thomas Myers took in the excursion to Manitoba on September 29th. L. Le Wire is on the sick list. Alexander Whelan has a new boy. Dr. McFarland, V.S., of Carleton Place, has been in this section purchasing horses. The West End grocery is to in moved a few doors south. The ground is very dry, not much ploughing done yet. A. J. Flood, Delta, left a sulky plough at Maplewood on Saturday.

Stoco Affairs.

Stoco, Oct. 5.—Potato digging is beginning. Many report the crop as badly affected with rot, still others say they have but little to complain of. John Cassidy's new dwelling is well on the way towards completion. Daniel Cassidy is disposing of his farm to Thomas Whalen, the amount of purchase money being $5,000. People of the Stoco side of the lake were well represented at the Tweed fair on Friday. Some of the village young men, including Mike Findlan and Willie Keilty, have been engaged to work for Mr. Rayburn at the dam of the Tweed flour mill. John Johnston, inspector of public schools, is on his second semi-annual tour of inspection. The Foley brothers had some fine specimens of steers in the village this week, ranging in weight from 1,400 to 1,660 pounds. They are about to ship them to Montreal. John Hart's infant baby boy is not expected to recover. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy have gone on a visit to friends in Michigan. David Parks has purchased a farm in Prince Edward county.

Bishops Mills Items.

Bishop's Mills, Oct. 5.—Miss Lottie Alexander, of Kemptville, spent Sunday last at home. Miss Aggie Dougherty, of Oxford Mills, spent a few days last week visiting friends here. Dr. and Mrs. Redmond have gone to Toronto to reside. Rev. Mr. Follick, of Kingston, is visiting his many friends here, and preached in the Methodist church last Sunday. He was pastor of this circuit ten years ago. Mrs. Brown is visiting friends in Burritt's Rapids. Rev. D. A. McKenzie attended Presbytery meeting in Spencerville this week. Mr. and Mrs. Connell, of Roeback, visited their daughter, Mrs. J. T. Ferguson last week. Miss Hattie Bishop attended the teachers' convention in Carleton Place last Friday.

Long Lake Notes.

Long Lake, Oct. 5.—Missionary services were held here on the 4th. The pulpit was filled by Rev. Mr. Graves, Tamworth. The school teacher, Miss Aylesworth, Bath, has resigned to finish her course in Queen's college. Miss Chapman, Kingston, is engaged to teach the remainder of the term. Several farms are changing ownership. Thomas Fitzgerald has sold his farm to Joseph Stinson, of this place, and Daniel Cornwell, of Bedford, has purchased Joseph Stinson's farm. The owners will soon take up their new abode. Miss Mabel Smith has gone to Kingston to remain for a few months. Mrs. D. W. Cronk is much improved in health. Visitors: George Reid, Enterprise, at Coalman Cronk's; Miss Wilson, Toronto, and Mrs. D. Sly, Sharbot Lake, at I. M. Smith's.

His Health Improved.

Stella, Oct. 5. — Our agricultural show takes place Thursday, the 8th; a good exhibit is expected this season, in many of the classes, especially in the roots, vegetable and fruit lines. Rev. Mr. Ronan, visiting here a week, left to-day for college. The auction sale of Mr. Chown's has been postponed until the 8th. Mr. Neilson has been quite ill, but is a little better; as also Miss Moutray. Miss Gilbert, Kingston, has taken charge of No. 1 school, Miss Moutray has resigned. A nice little son has come to Mrs. J. Taylor. W. Wemp, who has been spending the summer in Manitoba, has returned, also Mrs. Walter Wemp. We are pleased to learn that good tidings are being received from Willie Gervin, who went to far Wyoming for his health, which is much improved, and he likes the country well.

Threshing Is Booming.

Sharpton, Oct. 1.—We are having a dry fall. The ground is dry and hard for ploughing. Considerable fall grain has been sowed. The potato crop is only middling, with a tendency to rot. As yet there has been no killing frost. This year so far beats the record in dairying. Stock generally commands stiff prices. Mr. McKnight, Bedford township, is doing a rushing business with his steam thresher through here. Grain is generally good. Mr. Spencer moves from Mrs. Gates' farm to Hay Bay. B. Parks has rented Mrs. Gates' farm. H. Taylor and wife, Owen Sound, were visiting his brother, E. Taylor. Miss M. Alcree, Cushendall, visiting friends. Mr. Wood, Brockville, at his daughter's, Mrs. F. W. Bell. Young Corcoran is helper with Mc Knight's steam thresher. Some think the good times have reached a climax and a change for the worse is not improbable. A visitor from Buffalo says that everything is run there by trusts, and that good beef is as high as eighteen cents a pound, and that it is simply astonishing the amount of jobbery and rake-offs there are in connection with all business under the corporation. F. W. Bell has his house well nigh completed. G. Saundercook has started ploughing on his new farm near Collins Bay. E. Mohan has started ploughing on the Miller farm, which he has purchased.

Bleeding Piles and Erysipelas.
Two Severe Cases Which Illustrate the Extraordinary Soothing, Healing Virtues of
Dr. Chases Ointment.
Scores of people do not think of trying Dr. Chase's Ointment for bleeding piles because they have used so many other treatments in vain and do not believe their ailment curable. It is by curing when others fail that Dr. Chase's Ointment has won such a record for itself. It will not fail to promptly relieve and completely cure any form of piles, no matter how severe or of how long standing.
James Uriah Pye, Marie Joseph, Guysborough Co., N.S., writes: "I was bad with bleeding piles for about four years and could get no help. Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me in a very short time, and I cannot praise it too highly for this cure." Mrs. Thomas Smith was troubled with erysipelas in the feet and legs and was all swollen up. I gave her some of the ointment, which took out the swelling and healed all the sores. She had tried many treatments before, but none seemed to do her any good I am telling my friends about the wonderful cures which Dr. Chase's Ointment made for Mrs. Smith and myself, and would say that it is only a pleasure for me to recommend so excellent a preparation."
Wherever there is irritation, inflammation, ulceration or itching of the skin Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring quick relief and will ultimately heal and cure. On this account it is useful in scores of ways in every home for the cure of eczema, salt rheum, tetter, scald head, chafing, itching peculiar to women, pin worms, piles and all sorts of skin diseases and eruptions.
Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box of his remedies.
James Elliott, Gananoque, Ont., states: "My wife was greatly troubled with piles, and put in an awful time of it. She could not get relief from the terrible itching and burning sensations. I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and on the first application she obtained relief. After using the one box she was cured of piles, and I can fully and heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all who suffer from piles."

FAMILIAR SONGS.

The Bridge.

The words of this song were written by Longfellow, one of America's greatest poets. It has been set to music by several different composers, "The" popular and familiar air being the composition of William R. Dempster, who made musical setting for many of Tennyson's songs. "The Bridge" has a musical swing even without the notes, making a recitation very effective in the mouth of a good speaker:

I stood on the bridge at midnight,
As the clock was striking the hour,
And the moon rose o'er the city,
Behind the dark church tower;
And, like the waters rushing
Among the wooden piers,
A flood of thoughts came o'er me,
That filled my eyes with tears—
How often, oh! how often,
In the days that had gone by,
I had stood on that bridge at midnight,
And gazed at that wave and sky!
How often, oh! how often,
In the days that had gone by,
I had stood on that bridge at midnight,
And gazed at that wave and sky!
How often, oh! how often,
I had wished that the ebbing tide
Would bear me away on its bosom,
O'er the ocean wild and wide!

For my heart was hot and restless,
And my life was full of care;
And the burden laid upon me
Seemed greater than I could bear;
But now it has fallen from me
It is buried in the sea,
And only the sorrow of others
Throws its shadow over me.
Yet, whenever I cross the river,
On its bridge with wooden piers,
Like the odor of brine from the ocean
Come the thoughts of other years;
And for ever and for ever,
As long as the river flows,
As long as the heart has passions,
As long as life has woes,
The moon and its broken reflection,
And its shadows shall appear
As the symbol of love in heaven,
And its wavering image here.

FINDS FORTUNE

IN CAVE AND OCCUPIES AN ISLAND

Italian Named Darco Tells Curious Story Of How He Came To Hold The Isle Of Galita, Near Tunis.

London, Oct. 6.—The islet of Galita, off the north coast of Tunis, after having been long neglected by the French government, has been visited by a representative of the governor-general of Tunis, who was surprised to find there an Italian named Darco with a large family.

Darco tells a curious story of how he fled from Italy in 1850, after killing a man in an affray. He went by boat to Galita and there in a cave found a considerable sum of money in Spanish doubloons and piasters, and gold and silver coins of various countries, which were supposed to have been left there by the corsairs who once infested the Mediterranean.

Returning with this money to Naples he changed it into current coin of the realm. Two young men, relatives of his, joined him and they went to La Calle, Algeria. Here Darco married an Italian woman. He bought agricultural implements, carpenters' tools, provisions, etc., and the party then went to Galita, where they now compose a large and prosperous family.

Darco, who is still a vigorous man, refuses to accept French nationality or acknowledge the jurisdiction of the resident general of Tunis. He went to Rome recently to try to induce the Italian government to take up his case, but got the cold shoulder. He is now applying to the pope for some sort of protection.

SUNDAY STUDY.

God's Covenant With David—The Practical Thoughts.

The International Sunday school lesson for October 11th is found in II. Samuel, vii., 4-16. The golden text is the last verse of the lesson. The historical setting is presented briefly:

What—God speaking to a king.
Where—In the palace at Jerusalem.
When—B.C. 1042.
Who—To David by Nathan.
Why—To change David's plan.

In connection with the lesson proper, read chapters xiii. and x. of II. Samuel and I. Chronicles, xvii. The key phrase of the lesson is, "Thy kingdom shall be established." It will be seen that God made covenant with His people, the Nathans and Davids being the agents.

1. A spiritual covenant, verses 5-7; (a) Not numbers, but quality; (b) not wealth, but devotion; (c) not a temple, but a church.

2. By early choice, purpose, providence, verses 8-9; (a) David; (b) Abraham; (c) from before creation; (d) in the heart of God.

3. Of transforming power, verses 10-12, (a) transient to permanent; (b) individual to national; (c) sectional to worldwide; (d) earthly to spiritual.

4. Of perpetual mercy, verses 13-15. Every true believer is in the line of Davidic blessing.

5. Of final and glorious triumph, verse 16. (a) By the working of grace; (b) by the power of Christ.

The practical thoughts are: (1) The work may be a good one, but the time may not be ripe nor the right leader at hand, verses 4-5. (2) David's particular request is denied, but a large spiritual promise is made. (3) Diversity of works and workers. (4) The Holy Spirit may guide His people by favoring their plans or by defeating them. (5) Divine changes of the believer's plans are always for the better.

A Rabbi On The Sabbath.

Church Record.

The following language, used by Rabbi Emil Hirsch, of Chicago, in a recent sermon, indicates the extent to which the Jewish leaders have departed from the fundamental Jewish belief: "The Sabbath of the Jews is dead. Let us bury it. God never ordained the Sabbath day. It is an institution of man. Only millionaires and peddlars can observe the Jewish Sabbath in these days of activity. Sunday to all intents and purposes already has become our day of rest. The inspiration of the Sabbath can be restored only by participating in the flood of life about us, and recognizing as our day of rest the day set apart by the nations in which we live."

The Canadian Pacific railway authorities have received letters from the editors of the British newspapers who recently visited the dominion, that, though their trip across the Atlantic was a little unpleasant, so pleased were they with Canada that several of them express their determination to repeat their pleasant experiences on the Canadian Pacific railway.

How Iron-ox Tablets Improved a London Boy's Health.
January 31, 1903.
I am glad to tell you of the good effects of Iron-ox Tablets. We first got them for our boy, two-and-a-half years old, who was very cross and had no appetite. Your remedy soon made him as bright as ever. My husband uses them for headache and sluggish liver. While certainly effective, they cause neither pain nor inconvenience. We have a box in the house always now.

MANITOBAN VOICE.

Boom Reports Are Far From Actualities.

Selkirk, Man., Oct. 1.—Your readers are perhaps curious to know the actual state of this land of promise. It is a hard, stern country, which is true of life anywhere on this globe for that matter. But if people would see common sense they would easily understand a country into which are pouring thousands of penniless, stranded, often misguided and unfit persons, together with gently bred men and women unused to struggle, hardship and rigorous climate, with the refinements and conveniences of life nil. There must be privations, struggles, strenuous labor, and in many cases, failure. Ontario, with its magnificent water supply, its comfortable farm houses; Quebec, with its noble St. Lawrence and the most limpid and delicious water in the whole dominion, and its clever French population, with their handicraft and obliging and gentle manners, where the refinements of life, can be had so easily; England, with its mild climate, pleasures, cultivation, and prestige, have been left behind, and we have set our faces to the prairies, and as a people we shall conquer the waste places, and, in the meantime, live in the bright future which we have come to build. And if some of us do go under, well, we have only one life to give any way.

When we go into a home where in the face of the new, strange difficulties and lack of accustomed comforts, the mother is weeping in chill discouragement, possibly the baby has died, perhaps the hail or frost has destroyed the crop, upon the prospect of which the money for the very seed had been borrowed, then we have to brace ourselves and look on the bright side, and we steel our hearts and say something like this, "Now, what is the meaning of all this grief? Sorry you ever came to this country? But, why sorry? Supposing you had gone on till old age writing in that office in London, or working in that factory, or gardening for that nobleman, or fish-hawking, what would you have at the end of it all? Would not you have had had to send Tommie, and Harry, and Mary, and Jane off to Australia or Canada or Africa and would you not have in all probability the workhouse for your declining days while your heart was being torn between Africa and Canada, where your children were scattered? But here you have horses in your stable, you are milking three, four, six cows or so. Look at your sweet butter, your white, light bread, and all in your own home, where your boys and girls may stay till they see you pass away; yes, and where perhaps some day they will be in wealth and honor as the owners of valuable land, and, at the least, where no one can turn them off. And so the smile breaks out, the sun shines once more, and it's up again and at it to conquer. Men who had only learned to handle a horse as the servant of some old country gentleman, now owning their own horses even if they have to hire them out sometimes, their little dressmaker wife having to feed pigs, haul water, and work with the cows, realize in spite of difficulties the dignity of ownership and landlordship. Where in this world would they find a chance to struggle so unfettered? I do not wish to cry down the advantages of the west, but I would speak strongly against the false idea universally entertained in the east. We see gently born ladies here, who have finished their education abroad, with their hands scarred and seamed with toil, but yet with a British pride and fortitude, showing the optimistic spirit, not even allowing a chance for sympathy or commiseration.

One thing here that strikes one in meeting the people in streams in the city, or in any gathering, is the expression of determination, of aliveness, that animates faces. And they are a kind, helpful people. To the easterners, I must say that the first thing that impresses us on a return to your cities, is the chill realization of the coldness and selfishness that prevails. The westerner's door has the latch always on the outside, and if there is only potatoes and salt, it is kindly and cheerfully shared with the casual visitor. In one of the large eastern cities, we had occasion to call, a sojourner in the big expensive town, upon one of the city clergy. The time was the lunch hour, the house was large, two servants—all supported by a large city stipend—but no hospitality was offered, and owing to the evident preparedness of the meal, with a feeling of embarrassment we hurried through the business, to go without food till night, as we were too late for hotel or boarding house dinners. Immediately upon our return to our western home a member of that same family came to our village, walked into our house, stayed till dinner was ready, and walked to the dinner table, as soon as the meal was announced, partook of our limited bill of fare, and made comfortable, without even an invitation, so happily had advantage been taken of the hospitable spirit that abounds. We wish in our hearts that some people who are willing to talk a lot of religion, or indeed also some who never talk it at all, could learn a little kindness. We have had some very cold weather, and to the south of us there has been two feet of snow. We get the weather first, and when we have taken the worst wickedness out of it, we pass it on to you.

Didn't Know 'Twas Loaded.

Chatham and neighborhood is more honeycombed with underground passages and hidden oubliettes, than any other town in England. It was in one of these last-named that a ton of dynamite was mislaid in 1882, and so completely forgotten that it was only re-discovered fifteen years later. The officer who stored it went off to the Soudan, and was killed. The vouchers which might have revealed it were destroyed in a fire, and the existence of the dangerous stuff and its hiding place were alike unknown to any living creature. Eventually a gardener dug into the chamber, notified the authorities of his discovery, and brought on considerable consternation. It is doubtful if Chatham generally is aware to this day of the terrible danger so narrowly escaped.

Pandora Range
OVEN THERMOMETER. NO "BAD LUCK" BAKING DAYS.)
Twenty degrees difference in the temperature of an oven is sufficient to make "Good Luck" or "Bad Luck" in baking many kinds of food.
The heat in the oven of a range not fitted with a thermometer, or worse, fitted with a poor instrument, will easily vary twenty degrees—result is unpalatable, burned or half-baked food, a cross cook and a disappointed family at meal time.
Thermometer fitted in oven door of "Pandora" range has been a proven success for fifteen years, and every instrument is carefully adjusted, and tested by heat, before sending out—the first, best and only thermometer which is of any real value to those who do baking.
"Pandora" range is handsome, economical on fuel and a perfect baker.

FASHION'S FORM.

Quite An Attractive Afternoon Frock.

This simple little afternoon frock is made of white dull-finished crepe de chine, or if one wishes a cheaper frock, woollen crepe may be used.

It is made entirely free from lining, and can be worn over a taffeta slip of white or any color one has chanced to have during the summer. The yoke and tops of sleeves are finely tucked to give the proper fullness. The frock is trimmed with a creamy German Valenciennes lace, of which it takes two pieces.

The crepe should be cut from under the lace. A frock of this description can be cleaned over and over again, and even, if carefully done, can be laundered at home. The plain, full flounce on the skirt is finely tucked at the top.

Sir Charles Tupper sails for Canada on October 15th.
