THE CHURCHES

THANKSGIVING SERVICES IN ST. JAMES'.

Brilliant Sermon by Bishop Courtney—Gathering Of Sunday School Scholars Next Sunday—Pithy Points From Pulpits.

The harvest thanksgiving services in St. James' church yesterday were bright and attractive and brought out large congregations. The morning service was favored with the presence of two distinguished church dignitaries, Bishop Courtney of Nova Scotia—who delivered a brilliant sermon—and Bishop Mills. Rev. Mr. Masters also assisted. The pulpit, reading desk, chancel, etc., were beautifully decorated with specimens of fruits of the harvest, and bright-hued flowers, making a delightful effect.

Mrs. Williamson, the painstaking and efficient organist and choir leader, had taken considerable trouble in preparing special and appropriate music for the services. Both morning and evening harvest thanksgiving hymns were rendered. At morning service Lloyd's Te Deum was presented in a highly satisfactory manner, the soloists being Miss Bailey and Mr. Forster; the quartette was taken by Miss Bailey, Mrs. Williamson, Messrs. Forster and Dean. "Oh Worship The King," a beautiful arrangement of the well-known hymn, by Maunder, was also given with much taste and finish. Simper's evening service was presented at even song. Stainer's famous and brilliant anthem, "Lo Summer Comes Again," was pleasingly sung. During the offertory, Miss Bailey's sweet voice was heard to splendid effect in Gounod's fine composition, "Glory To Thee My God This Night." At the close of the service Stainer's Sevenfold Amen was sweetly rendered.

Bishop Courtney delivered one of the most forceful sermons ever heard in St. James' church. As a member of the congregation put it, "he struck straight from the shoulder." The bishop based his remarks upon the words found in Galations vi, 2—"Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The speaker asked why it was that thorn bushes did not bring forth figs, nor bramble bushes grapes. Some would answer by saying that it was because things were not so constituted. God ordained that there should be fruit, wheat and beasts of the field after their kind. The reason why these things are so is because of the presence of the ever-during and ever-living God. Wheat is wheat because God was in the field; grapes are grapes, because God was in the wine, etc. We should hear the voice of the Lord, heed, and walk in His way. Farmers go through the various processes of agriculture because God teaches them to do so. Look at the bountiful harvest which has been gathered in, and get out of that abominable materialism which says that things happen because they are so constituted. It is the presence of the ever-living God in our midst that makes true the words of the text. As in the material, so it is in the spiritual and moral life; if tares are sown, figs cannot be reaped. He who sows to the flesh, who lives to gratify the pleasures of the senses, will reap corruption.

The speaker dwelt for some time upon the evil of satisfying the senses, and cautioned his hearers against being "puffed up in mind," or proud. He had visited a big London hospital, and heard the many patients who came to the attending surgeons for treatment, and learned that the great majority of applicants owed their illness to sowing to the flesh. "He that soweth to the Spirit will reap life everlasting." What a horrible thing it would be if it was not so that he that soweth to the flesh would not reap corruption? Where would man's sense of sin be if it were not so?

Rev. J. O. Crisp and Canon Macmorine had charge of the evening service. The first named delivered a sermon full of thought, taking as his text Matthew vi, 34—"Take therefore no thought for to-morrow." The speaker said it was important to have an understanding of God's words to properly interpret the scriptures. The words of the text should not be taken literally, but should be accepted as meaning to be not anxious for to-morrow, as to-morrow would bring its own anxieties. The speaker cautioned his hearers to not borrow trouble, but to meet each difficulty fairly as it presented itself.

At St. George's Cathedral.

The splendid old evening service of the Church of England, which has stood the test of centuries, was most impressively rendered in all its parts, on Sunday, at the cathedral. The triumphant, yet worshipful anthem, "Praise the Lord Ye Heavens Adore Him," sung at the harvest evensong, was repeated, the solos being sung by Charles Harvey, and Sergt. Bailey.

The preacher was the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, and the text, Ps. xi. 3. "If the foundations be destroyed, what can the righteous do?" In every age has that question necessarily been asked by the thoughtful, for in every age has it seemed to the watchers that the foundations were being swept away. In the times of Moses, the Judges, the Kings, moral disorder was everywhere. Christ's coming broke the gloom of the darkest day that ever dawned on human sight. Heresies followed then the onslaughts of the Goths, and of Mahomet, the battle axe of the Lord. To-day truth's enemies proclaim with blatant voice, "There is no miracle, no inspiration, no true, unselfish emotion, no reward for right, or punishment for wrong, no life beyond." The foundations seem cast down, and what can the righteous do? Let them fall back on the general coa-science of mankind, which may take years in the forming, but sooner or later, in things of moment, comes to an unhesitating conclusion. And that general conscience decrees that right and wrong being realities, right will receive a suitable reward, and wrong adequate punishment, in so far as men act according to the light given them. Standards change with the changing ages. Ours is necessarily higher to-day, than in ages past, but we must live up to it to receive reward, or be punished if we fall short. If the chastisement which scourges as we struggle brings us nearer to God, in whom alone is rest, shall we complain because we have no crown of joy upon our brow? The glory and the joy of the universe is ours, because our Father made it. Sin blots out from our sight God's glory as revealed by creation, and His glory shown forth in all that is best in the character of our fellowmen. What hell of brimstone and fire is worse than that—sin's inevitable consequence? So the conscience of the world declares its belief in the justice and righteousness of the ruler of the world, "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" And, finally, there is the life of Jesus Christ. Though some men acknowledge Him the Incarnate God, and some, only regard Him as the perfect man, the conscience of the world fastens upon the personality—the character of the Holy life; that personality that impresses itself insensibly on all those who with willing hearts await it. "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, even Jesus Christ "and the foundation of God standeth sure." That cannot be upset.

"Where do you stand?" asked the preacher. Are you amongst those to whom these things are nothing, among those satisfied with a perfunctory church going, and a negative morality? Or are you torn by doubt? Far rather be plunged in a sea of doubt, where you are in danger of drowning, than be indifferent to sin and suffering. There is always an ear to hear the cry of him who is ready to sink, always a hand stretched out to draw him to the shore. Try to draw others to light and security—in saving others, you will yourself be saved. And in the last day you and those you have blessed will be fellow-worshippers in the Heavenly temple, and will together sing the "Holy, Holy, Holy," within "that city which hath foundations, whose Maker and Builder is God."

To Bring Back The Body.

Lewis J. Day left Saturday for Chicago to meet and escort back to Kingston the remains of his nephew, Stanley Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Houghton W. Wilson, Clergy street west. The young man had gone to California some time ago for his health. About ten days ago he was stricken with a hemorrhage, which so weakened him that he was unable to rally. He was a clever young man, a student of Queen's, having a brilliant future before him.

Charivari Party.

Thursday and Friday nights last a Cataraqui couple, recently married, were charivaried by the youths of the surrounding neighborhood. Thursday night the groom locked himself in a bedroom and refused to be seen. Friday night he was prepared for his tormentors and greeted them with fire-arms. The crowd demanded money with which to spend in drinking to the health of bride and groom, but the money was not forthcoming.

Will Remain Here.

"I see it has been announced that you are going to move your family to Toronto," said a friend to B. W. Folger to-day. "Some people assume to know more about my business and personal affairs than I do myself," was the reply. "As far as I know, I am going to remain in Kingston for the present, though there is no knowing what I may do later on—say next summer."

He Was Excited.

During the football match on the Royal Military College grounds, Saturday, a staff officer connected with the college became so excited that he ordered one of the goal judges off the grounds, and threatened to clear the field, because it was private property. When he calmed down he apologized for his hasty words.

CITY TEAM WON

THE SCORE WAS FOURTEEN TO THIRTEEN.

Cadets Had a Strong Team Against the Sturdy Limestones—Interesting Game From Spectators' Point of View.

The O.R.F.U. championship season was most auspiciously opened in Kingston Saturday afternoon, when the sturdy Limestones and Royal Military College teams met on the grounds of the latter. It was a most disagreeable day for outdoor sport, but this did not deter a very large number of admirers of each team from being on hand. The new Burnside rules were formally introduced to a Kingston audience, and proved entirely satisfactory, from the spectator's point of view, the old mass play being almost entirely done away with and more open play introduced. The back divisions were given a greater opportunity to show their punting abilities, which is bound to make football games much prettier to watch than formerly.

It was well on to 3.30 o'clock when Referee "Bees" Williams, of Queen's College, sounded his whistle for the commencement of what proved to be one of the best games of football ever seen on a local campus. When the teams lined up it was noticed that cadets were playing their strongest senior team, which they also intend playing in the intercollegiate intermediate series. Their intention, evidently was to put the Limestones out of the running. This style of doing business was not looked upon with much satisfaction by the Limestones' admirers, who had many harsh things to say regarding the cadets' ideas of sportsmanship.

College won the toss and elected to play against the wind during the first half. When play was started Limestones quickly secured possession of the ball, and taking advantage of the high wind and Betts' good punting, pressed the soldier boys' citadel very energetically. After about ten minutes play, Moxley was forced over for a try, which Bearance made a splendid effort to convert, but failed by a few feet. Limestones, 4; Cadets, 0. Play being resumed, the college boys worked hard to take advantage of Hackett's long punts, but Lemeasure, the Limestone's new "find," Betts and Bearance, stood off the military men in splendid fashion. Finally, after a long kick by Betts, the Limestones again rushed Moxley over for a try, which was converted by Betts in a splendid manner. Limestones, 10; Cadets, 0. The R. M. C. lads now began to realize that they must be up and doing, consequently, the back division of the city team was continually on the defence for the balance of this half until, after a long punt by Constantine, which, on account of the slippery condition of the ball, Full-Back O'Brien was unable to handle, the Cadets scored a try, which was not converted. Limetones, 10; Cadets, 4. Again the cadets pressed hard and tallied a rouge, although half time had been called by the time-keepers before this point was scored, and the first half ended, Limestones, 10; Cadets, 5.

The college team was quite sanguine over the small lead secured by Limestones, when they had had the advantage of a strong wind directly behind them, and were quite satisfied that they would win out by a handsome margin, but although somewhat crest-fallen over the Cadets' flukey try, which brought them dangerously close, the Limestones went in with the dogged determination to win out, so characteristic of the old Granite team.

Play being resumed in the second half, Cadets' back division succeeded in demonstrating that they were at home in the punting game. Hackett, Constantine and Harrington all showed up very strongly, Limestones being compelled to rouge twice in quick succession. Limestones, 10; Cadets, 7. Shortly after play being resumed the Cadets scored two points more, leaving the score, Limestones, 10; Cadets, 9. Things began to look disastrous for the city team, but they seemed to realize that if they wished to come out victorious they must work hard. The wing line, which had been playing a magnificent game throughout, seemed to become endowed with fresh energy, and swept the Cadets back up the field until within about twenty yards of the R.M.C. line, when the Limestones worked in the prettiest play of the day. From a pass out to Moxley, the ball was passed to Bearance, who made a marvellous sprint around the end of Cadets' line, and went over for a try, which was not converted. Limestones, 14; Cadets, 9. This apparently woke the Cadets up considerably and they pressed Limestones' goal dangerously, until finally Hackett succeeded in taking advantage of a fumble on the part of Limestones' full-back and went over for an easy try, which should have been converted, but the fates said "no," and the score stood Limestones, 14; Cadets, 13.

At this juncture the city boys made a change in their back division which undoubtedly won the game for them. Williams was sent to replace O'Brien at full-back, and the latter, who is a strong wing player, went up to his usual position on the wing line. On three distinct occasions Williams succeeded in getting the ball from behind his line when Cadets seemed almost certain of scoring. Every man on each team was working desperately to score during the last ten minutes, but there was "nothing doing" in that line, and the victory went to the Limestones by one point, the final score being Limestones 14; Cadets, 13.

For Limestones their whole back division, as finally arrayed, together with their forward line, was deserving of the highest praise. Their strong determination to win out when matters looked bad was a source of great gratification to their admirers. For Cadets Hackett, Constantine and Quarter-back Pare, played a splendid game.

Referee—"Bees" Williams of Queen's; umpire, Tupper Macdonald of Queen's; goal judges, J. Muckler and Cadet Haggerty; timer keeper, A. Shannon; line judges, S. Arniel, Martie Walsh and Cadet Mudie.

"Bees" Williams made a splendid and impartial referee. He and Tupper Macdonald made a good pair of officials.

The Limestones made a valuable find in Half-Back Lemeasure, who is on the staff of the Merchants bank. He fills up the weak spot on the half back line nicely.

Cadets will likely play the same team at Gananoque on Thanksgiving day. They should win out.

Brockville will play the Limestones here on Thanksgiving day. If the locals can defeat the eastern aggregation, they will stand a good show for the championship.

Cadets had the grounds very poorly marked out, there being no touch line along one side. This should be rectified before another game.

The game was remarkably free from rough play. Only one player, a cadet, was penalized. There was only one serious delay, when Half-Back Betts received a bad wrench, but he pluckily continued to play.

JUST ONE A DAY.

How The Coffee Crank Compromises His Health.

Some people say: "Coffee don't hurt me" and then add: "Anyway I only drink one cup a day."

If coffee really don't hurt why not drink more? There is but one answer and that is coffee does hurt them and they know it. When they drink it once a day they compromise with their enemy. There are people whom a cup of coffee a day will put in bed, if the habit be continued.

"Although warned by physicians to let coffee alone I have always been so fond of it, that I continued to use it," confesses an Ohio lady. "I compromised with myself and drank just one cup every morning until about six weeks ago.

"All the time I was drinking coffee I had heart trouble that grew steadily worse and finally I had such alarming sensations in my head (sometimes causing me to fall down) that I at last took my doctor's advice and quit coffee and began to use Postum Coffee in its place.

"The results have been all that the doctor hoped, for I have not only lost my craving for coffee and enjoy my good Postum just as well, but my heart trouble has ceased and I have no more dizzy spells in my head. I feel better in every way and consider myself a very fortunate woman to have found the truth about Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The Queen's colors now being offered for sale are not the shades they should be. They are not like the old-time colors at all. The correct shade of blue is royal blue, instead of navy. The royal blue is the Presbyterian church color.

Explanation is in order regarding the very latest of the millions of Kingston post-office troubles. The clerk in question did not disobey orders, since the postmaster cancelled those given him, as unreasonable. The effort to create a bad impression against him was improper.

QUEEN'S ALMA MATER.

Students To Occupy The "Gods" On Thursday.

Queen's Alma Mater Society met Saturday evening and transacted much routine and special business. S. E. Beckett, '05, was appointed managing editor of the University Journal to fill a vacancy. The society decided that the students would use the "gods" in the Opera House on Thursday, at the installation. They had previously been allotted the balcony, but they gave up the first two rows of that to the lady students and the remainder to the citizens.

Arrangements were made for the students' march to the opera house, Thursday afternoon. The procession will leave the college at two o'clock, headed by the A.M.S. executive. Following will be the musical clubs, graduates and years according to seniority.

There will be no parade Thursday night as at first decided. Instead, a "theatre-night" will be arranged later in the month.

AT THE GRAND.

"The Man Who Dared"—Tuesday.

Of this play the Quebec Chronicle says it possesses its sensational features, handsome costumes, gorgeous scenery and exciting situations. It is well balanced, nothing is overdone, while the staging of the piece is perfect. The story is interesting, and the vein of comedy which runs through it relieves the strain which is caused by the heavier incidents.

"Sadie Martinot"—Wednesday.

Regarding this lady here on Wednesday next, the Albany Times Union says: Sadie Martinot's "Second Mrs. Tanqueray" is the cleverest piece of work this popular actress has done in many a day. She seems to be right in her element and plays it with an ability that will surprise even her warmest friends. Her support is good.

ASSIGNING THE HOUSE.

Where the Different Bodies Will be Seated.

Vice Chancellor Whitney, of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, will attend the ceremonies in connection with the installation of Principal Gordon. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Whitney, and while in the city they will be the guests of Dean and Mrs. Smith.

The University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, has sent word that it will have a representative at the ceremonies. The delegate has not yet been named.

The first box on the right of the opera house has been assigned to Mrs. Gordon, for use of herself and guests. The other boxes will be occupied by members of the staff. The orchestra chairs will be reserved for the trustees, members of the university council, delegates and their wives, etc.

At The Police Court.

At the police court this morning two citizens were arraigned on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. One was fined $5 and costs, with the option of going to jail for one month, and the other $3 and costs or fifteen days.

TOOK A STRAW VOTE.

Interesting Experiment In a Restaurant.

An advertising agent, representing a prominent New York magazine, while on a recent western trip, was dining one evening in a Pittsburg restaurant.

While waiting for his order he glanced over his newspaper and noticed the advertisement of a well-known dyspepsia prepation, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets; as he himself was a regular user of the tablets, he began speculating as to how many of the other traveling men in the dining room were also friends of the popular remedy for indigestion.

He says: I counted twenty-three men at the tables and in the hotel office I took the trouble to interview them and was surprised to learn that nine of the twenty-three made a practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

One of them told me he had suffered so much from stomach trouble that at one time he had been obliged to quit the road, but since using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets had been entirely free from indigestion, but he continued their use, especially while travelling, on account of irregularity in meals and because like all travelling men he was often obliged to eat what he could get and not always what he wanted.

Another, who looked the picture of health, said he never ate a meal without taking a Stuart Tablet afterward because he could eat what he pleased and when he pleased without fear of a sleepless night or any other trouble.

Still another used them because he was subject to gas on stomach, causing pressure on heart and lungs, shortness of breath and distress in chest, which he no longer experienced since using the tablets regularly.

Another claimed that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was the only safe remedy he had ever found for sour stomach and acidity. He had formerly used common soda to relieve the trouble, but the tablets were much better and safer to use.

After smoking, drinking or other excesses which weaken the digestive organs, nothing restores the stomach to a healthy, wholesome condition so effectually as Stuart's Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain the natural digestives, pepsin, diastase, which every weak stomach lacks as well as nux, hydrastin and yellow parilla, and can be safely relied on a radical cure for every form of poor digestion. Sold by druggists everywhere.
