Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C.S.A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ill peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, Mrs. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky. $2000 forrest original.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN. Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham. She will understand your case perfectly, and will treat you with kindness. Her advice is free, and the address is Lynn, Mass. No woman ever regretted having written her, and she has helped thousands.

THAT PEKIN EPISODE.

Was Really Only Robbery of Ordnance Stores. Pekin, Oct. 21.—The recent episode at the British legation in Pekin, which has been described as an attempt to blow up the legation magazine during a military ball, was in reality the robbery of certain ordnance stores, supposed by Chinese servants, who carried the gun fittings and other portable articles away with them, but left the detonating apparatus outside the magazine, apparently finding difficulty in carrying it. All the property has been recovered from junk stores, where it was sold by the thieves.

Ohio's Battle Monument. Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 21.—The monument erected by the state of Ohio to the soldiers from that state who fought and fell in the battle of Missionary Ridge, was formally dedicated today in the presence of a large and distinguished delegation. The principal oration was delivered by Gen. Charles F. Manderson, former United States senator from Nebraska. The monument occupies a conspicuous site. It consists of a colossal obelisk, eighty feet in height, with four bronze figures at the base, representing the infantry, artillery and cavalry branches and a drummer boy.

National Baseball Meeting. Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21.—Pursuant to the call of August Herrmann, chairman of the National baseball commission, the chief officials of the major and minor leagues gathered in conference today at the St. Nicholas Hotel. The principal work of the meeting is to decide a number of important cases of importance. The magnates met behind closed doors and no statement of the proceedings was issued.

Missouri's Official Trial. Washington, D.C., Oct. 21.—The navy department is awaiting with interest the results of the official trial of the battleship Missouri, which takes place today over the New England course. Experts who have inspected the ship express confidence in her ability to more than meet the speed requirement of eighteen and one-half knots.

Weds German Attache. Washington, D.C., Oct. 21.—Miss Edith Maud Kirkby, a prominent figure in Washington society, was married today to Charles F. Flathe, assistant chancellor of the German embassy. Mr. and Mrs. Flathe will sail tomorrow for Germany to visit the bridegroom's parents.

FOOT PEDDLING WRITER DEFENDS THE POOR FOOT PEDDLER

The Farmer Wants Him—The City Retailer The Only One Who Kicks—A Sensible Law Required.

Kingston, Oct. 21.—(To the Editor): Allow me to call your county readers' attention to another effort on the part of interested persons to prevail on the county council to stop 'foot peddling'. So far the council has made a sorry mess of the peddling question. About two years ago the council stopped issuing licenses to foot peddlers and declared by a by-law that no more licenses should be issued. This deprived the county of about $500 a year in license fees, without stopping the foot peddler from peddling. Because the law was one without a penalty and only prevented the foot peddler getting a license, but did not stop him from peddling. In the past two years the county of Frontenac has lost at least $1,000 in license fees that might have been paid into its treasury and applied in relieving the load of taxation that weighs so heavily on the hard toiling farmer. It is evident the farmer does not want to rid himself of the peddler with whom he is pleasant and with whom he so frequently trades. There is only one man interested in his destruction and that is the 'retail dealer' of the city. The retailers have an association and this concern is perpetually agitating the death of the peddler. County councillors are button-holed in the city by the retailer, and importuned to stop peddling. So far the whole affair has been a fiddling fiasco and the county has suffered as a consequence listening to the song of the city siren.

THE SINCERE PRAYER

Of Catholic Newspaper For The Success Of Queen's.

The Kingston Freeman has another fine editorial voicing the Roman Catholic attitude towards Queen's University. It says: 'The installation of Principal Gordon as head of Queen's University was an event of exceptional interest for the city of Kingston. Men of emprise and distinction assembled from near and far to do honor to the man and to the occasion. Even the old seats of learning beyond the seas contributed their share to the galaxy of assembled greatness. The great interest manifested in the event emphasizes again the high place Queen's occupies in the world of letters. For beyond question Kingston's seat of learning has contributed largely to the higher educational life of Canada.'

MRS. G. H. GILBERT. The Grand Old Woman of the Stage, as she looks at eighty-three. She celebrated her birthday to-day, and is still on the stage.

From out of the halls of Queen's have gone forth an array of men, not endowed with material resources, it is true, but with the imperishable possession of a mind pure, undefiled, and well trained for life's battles; from the head of this college a great man has passed away—Principal Grant was indeed a great man.

To the head of this college another great man has been called, and the address of Principal Gordon on the day of his installation could only be delivered by a man who realizes the responsibilities, the functions of a university, and who has at the same time the energy, the ability, the determination to carry his work to a happy and glorious fruition. That his rule will be liberal and just to all classes, we feel assured, for greatness and liberality are characteristics of the men from 'down by the sea.' That success may crown his every effort he earnestly wishes, and that Queen's University may day by day grow in influence, preserving her glorious traditions, increasing her gifts to humanity, widening her sphere of influence, making men and women high minded, noble, chivalrous and good is the Freeman's sincere prayer for Principal Gordon and for Queen's.

MISUNDERSTANDING.

The Blame Laid To Queen's For The Whole Affair. Montreal Star. Since the intercollegiate sports on the M.A.A.A. grounds last Friday, a certain amount of agitation has been raised at Kingston and here on account of Queen's University men announcing that they were not invited to take part in the sports. On enquiry it is found that last April, the secretary of the McGill University A.A.A. wrote to the Queen's University A.A.A., asking whether they intended to enter any men for the annual intercollegiate sports, and requested that these entries (if any) be sent in a week before the sports. To this letter the McGill secretary received no answer; so he concluded that Queen's wished to enter no men for any of the events.

On Tuesday the secretary of the McGill Association saw an item in the Star stating that Queen's was sending three men to Montreal to compete in the sports. He sent this item to the secretary of the Queen's Association asking if this was correct. On Wednesday he received an affirmative answer, and immediately telegraphed to Varsity to find out if they would agree to Queen's entries. The entry of contestants for the sports from any college is subject to the approval of the Collegiate Association already entered. Varsity said that they were agreeable. So the secretary of the McGill Association immediately telegraphed to the printers, and had the Queen's entries put on the programme. On Friday afternoon two Queen's men put in an appearance at the M.A.A.A. grounds; but refused to compete. This is a simple statement of the bare facts; and from it one can easily gather that the regrettable misunderstanding arose from the Queen's Association neglecting to originally inform the secretary of the McGill Association of their intention to enter men for the sports, and they had been requested to do so.

Mrs. John Harris. Ottawa Free Press. The funeral took place this afternoon of Annie M. Harris, widow of Regimental Q.M. Sgt. John Harris, R.C.F.A., of the department of militia and defence. Her death occurred Saturday, after a lengthy illness. The late Mrs. Harris came to Ottawa with her husband and family about seven years ago and although since then through illness she had suffered a great deal, her mind remained clear and unimpaired. She had endeared her life to a large circle of friends who deeply regret her death. She leaves a husband and seven children. Two sisters and a brother reside in Kingston.

DEVERY TALKS

HON. BILL SAYS DOWIE'S A FUNNY GUY

Went Over to The Gardens on the Quiet to Have a Chat With 'The Prophet—Thinks He's Too Late.

New York, Oct. 21.—A news correspondent had an interview with the Hon. Bill Devery yesterday on Dowie, and in his characteristic manner he spoke as follows: 'Say, young feller,' said Devery, standing nonchalantly with one foot on the nose of his pump, 'that fellow Dowie can give points to lots of people. I had a talk with him and, I know, I'm going to meet him in public but I wanted to see him on the quiet an' get a line on his game, so I went over to the Gardens, and by jove, some without even telling 'Eddie' Say, you'd think that when two men was meetin' they'd shake hands, wouldn't you? but it was the glad smile an' no handshake for mine. I says, 'Howdy, Lige,' and Lige he says, 'Peace be with you, brother. I says, 'No piece for mine, Lige,' an' I says, 'I want half o' nothing.' Then Lige said somethin' about sinners an' wanted to know if I was a follower. An' I says, 'Not on your life, Lige, I'm a leader, only the Fourteenth street gang skinned me out of it.'

'An' Lige says, 'He says you're doing the good work?' An' I says, 'Sure, I'm doin' the tiger an' the elephant to a crisp. If that ain't good work then what is it?' 'Then Lige says, 'Brother, behold this baptismal fountain.' Descend into it with me three times an' you'll see. Say, I don't know the words he used, but 'twas somethin' about my duckin' under the water three times an' when I come up I'd be all right, an' I says, 'Nothin' doin', Lige; I've been on the water wagon two years an' I just come from a Turkish bath at that.' Then he says a whole lot about may be he'd come over to see me.

'Sure,' says I, 'come ahead over. The Nint' is free to all an' the only thing wrong you'll find is the scars left by the Fourteenth street gang when they fought to rob us.' He says he'd come over sure an' I told him the address of the William S. Devery Association.

'You come too late to help us with votes,' says I. 'You ain't legal resident an' if I catch any of 'em tryin' to register I'll have 'em pinched.' An' Lige says, 'Politics wasn't his game. He said the Fourteenth street gang'd have nothin' to do with his comin'. Say, I don't know what his game is, but he's a cagey old guy an' will bear watchin'. He may be on the level at that. If he starts in on a reformin' stunt an' goes at it in the right way I'll help him. But if I see any monkey business between him an' Fourteenth street, it'll be back to Chicago for his in the box car. I'm sorry his wife got robbed of jewelry, but what can he expect, comin' here a stranger in a reform administration? If they had a few men who know how to run the police business those things wouldn't happen in public places, an' if they did, thief an' swag would have been at headquarters long before this.'

Hays, manager of the G.T.R., with a view to discussing the advisability of bringing the main line of the railway into the city and establishing a station up town.
