NOT MOLESTED PREVENT OUTBREAK AT ANTI-CHAMBERLAIN MEETING

Winston Churchill Speaks—Denounces the Former Colonial Secretary's Fiscal Programme in Birmingham Hall. Birmingham, Eng., Nov. 12.—There was no fulfillment of the serious trouble expected at the meeting here last night addressed by Lord Hugh Cecil and Winston Churchill, M.P., in opposition to the fiscal programme of Joseph Chamberlain. It is estimated that the crowds surrounding the town hall during the progress of the meeting numbered 40,000. A few stones were thrown and some windows broken, but it is believed that the prevention of more serious disorders was due to the earnest appeal of the supporters of Mr. Chamberlain, supplemented by the advice of the local newspapers to give the "free traders" a fair hearing, as well as to the excellent police arrangements. The meeting was attended by 5,000 persons. Mr. Churchill devoted his speech to denouncing the Chamberlain's propaganda and urged the continuance of the free trade policy of Great Britain, which he said had done more to maintain the peace of the world than had been done by all the prime ministers and colonial secretaries during the past century. Every mention by Mr. Churchill of Joseph Chamberlain's name was greeted with cheers and counter cheers. His statement that Great Britain was prosperous and her trade route was received with both hisses and cheers. "Canada and Australian loyalty," said Mr. Churchill, "had already been proved on veldt and kopje. It could not be bought at two shillings per quarter." Lord Hugh Cecil followed Mr. Churchill, delivering a speech in a similar vein. A resolution denouncing the proposed tariff and admitting the right of the government to impose retaliatory duties in special cases was carried by a large majority. At the close of the meeting the great crowd outside the town hall dispersed good-naturedly, singing national songs and cheering for Joseph Chamberlain. Though the visit to Birmingham by Lord Hugh Cecil and Mr. Churchill did not result in any breach of the peace, it was feared by the police that an outbreak would occur similar to the riotous proceedings which marked the pro-Boer meeting, at which David Lloyd George, M.P., denounced Mr. Chamberlain and the South African war.

CHINA INLAND MISSIONARY Speaks of the Work in First Congregational. Mrs. Stott, of the China Inland Mission, now in this country addressed a meeting in the parlour of the First Congregational church last evening. There was a large number present, who listened with much interest to the address. Mrs. Stott gave an account of the origin of the society, through Rev. J. Hudson Taylor and the principles on which it was founded at the time of its growth in the thirty-eight years since it began. They now number some hundreds of missionaries. Their aim was to plant missions in those provinces of China which had not been entered by other societies. She gave some account of the work of the mission in which she and her husband were located. At first, and for some time, they had to endure much opposition, and the growth was slow, but afterward the growth had been rapid, so that now there are more than one thousand church members in that mission, besides many who have died in the faith of the gospel. Those who were present felt that they enjoyed a great treat, and we trust their interest in missions will be more in force than ever in the past. Mrs. Stott speaks this afternoon at "Caldwell," and to-morrow in St. Andrew's hall at 4 p.m.

Another Fire at Marlbank. The Canadian Portland Cement Co., operating mills at Marlbank and Strathcona, have been extremely unfortunate in the matter of fires, there having been two serious conflagrations at the former place, within a period of three months. In addition to these two the plant was almost entirely destroyed on September 25th, 1900, when the loss was estimated at about $50,000. The most recent fire occurred on Sunday afternoon last when damage to the grinding room and machinery to the extent of probably $3,000 was done. The fire started about 2 p.m. and is supposed to have originated in the hot clinker bin. The previous fire on August 12th, had completely gutted the same room, and it had only again been rebuilt when it was visited by fire. It is expected that the plant will be in full operation again in the course of about ten days. Change Complete To-Day. Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—One of the most important changes of aids to navigation on the lakes will be made at the Lime Kiln Crossing, Amherstburg, to-day, when Assistant United States Engineer Dixon will open the newly improved channel to the westward of the old Lime Kiln Crossing channel, and give boats one hundred and eighty feet more room and one foot greater depth of water in this locality. Mr. Dixon, notified President Livingston of the lake carriers that the change would be complete to-day.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY. Newy Paragraphs Picked up by Reporters on their Rounds.

Tub butter, 20c., potatoes, in bags, Crawford. H. P. Smith, of this city, is the architect for the new hospital to be built at Smith's Falls. Capt. R. Davis returned to day from Montreal, where he closed a deal to remodel the little steamer May. William J. Taylor, son of ex-Aberman Taylor, has gone to Warsaw, N.Y., to accept a good position with the Warsaw Hosiery company. Potatoes, in bags, tub butter, 20c. Crawford. Police Constable Craig has recovered some goods alleged to have been stolen from a Princess street clothing house by a junior clerk, and by him sold to friends. Two more members have been lost to the 14th Regimental Band, by the removal from the city of J. D. Shea, to Providence, R.I., and J. Hamilton, to Montreal. The A.O.H. held another pleasant assembly in the lodge rooms, Brock street, last evening. A very happy time was passed. Music was supplied by O'Connor's orchestra. To-day a number of summonses were issued against citizens, charged with maintaining barred wire fences along the street line. They will appear before the police magistrate to-morrow morning. Invitations are out for "Ye Old Time" dance to be held in the Whig hall next Tuesday evening, when the old-timers will be all over the act used to dance forty years ago. A good time is expected.

THE DESIRE That Is Exhibited in Fashion's Circles. The whole effect of present fashions, says a London authority, is to make a grande dame, balloon-like in skirts, with their haring, swelling lines, the sleeves to be curved with every possible shape with bags of lace, the shoulders long in the seam, so that the "victoria slope" is at present, and the trimming of folds, lace and vevers is brought down to a slope in the front of the bodice with a narrow belt, like our grandmothers' earliest dolls. The hair will be worn softly rolled round the face, but the knots are not low down at the present, and loose curves are an effect to be aimed at. Hats are all picturesque, some small toques, others large with splendid feathers and birds. Hats of shades of red, with fur crowns, are quite the latest. An interesting society engagement is that of Lady Marjorie Greville, only daughter of Lord and Lady Warwick, to Viscount Helmsley, grandson and heir of Earl Feversham. Lady Marjorie has lived a life of pastoral simplicity, devoting herself as soon as years and experience permitted to the management of model dairies, etc., on the family estates in Warwickshire and Essex. She is an ardent lover of outdoor sports, and management of a four-in-hand is child's play to her; she has been an equal prize-winning chaffinchee. Her brother, Viscount Helmsley is twenty-four years of age, and only recently was graduated from Christ Church, Oxford. As heir to his grandfather, he has in prospect, besides the Earldom of Feversham, a Yorkshire estate of 30,000 acres and a magnificent town house in Belgrave Square.

Successful Ball. Marysville, Tyndinaga, Nov. 12.—A very pretty wedding took place in the R. C. church on Monday, when Miss Sarah Farrell was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Patrick McVicker, Lonsdale. Miss Lizzie Boyd acted as bridesmaid, and Peter Farrell, brother of the bride, as best man. They will reside in Lonsdale. Mrs. John Stack visited Napanee on Monday. Miss Alice Meagher, Napanee, spent a few days of last week at the home of Mrs. Joseph Meagher, and Mrs. John Young and little son Gordon, Tweed, are the guests of her father, John Toppings. The C.M. B.A. ball, which was held last Wednesday night, in the hall, was a decided success, there being about 900. Miss Annie McAlpine, Loretta Meagher and James McAlpine, spent Sunday in Read. Miss Frankie Curry visited Napanee last Saturday. Miss Mary Toppings is slowly recovering after her recent injury. Mrs. Joseph Meagher, with her daughter Clara and son Frederick, Gravenhurst, accompanied by Miss D. Clairmont, Marmora, visited John C. Meagher on Thursday of last week. Miss Mamie Norris, Kingston, recently visited Miss Annie McAlpine. Miss Josephine Ryan spent part of last week at home. A number of Napanee sports spent Sunday in the village.

Cost of Being British Officers. The commission which has been enquiring into the question of the private expenditures of subalterns in the British army has made its report, and with its report has made several recommendations, which may or may not be adopted. It finds that, under present conditions, the initial outlay for a subaltern in a regiment of the line averages $1,000. The annual maintenance which he must meet averages $750, to meet which he has $480 to pay, leaving a balance of $300 to come out of his private income. In the cavalry these figures become, respectively, $900, $1,100 and $800, and it is pointed out, however, that in the infantry many officers reduce the initial outlay to $500, while in the cavalry it is more often $5,000. From year to year an infantry officer needs from $500 to $750 private income, and a cavalry officer needs from $800 to $1,500. Of course, some regiments, owing to the scale in which their living is pitched, are much more expensive than others. In the "crack" cavalry regiments a private income of $1,000 to $3,500 is absolutely essential to the subaltern. The commission has recommended that the War Office supply field kit, furniture for home stations, at a nominal rent, contribute toward the cost of the bands and in the cavalry supply the chargers. This would mean a saving to infantry subalterns of $250 in the initial expense and $35 to $40 a year. In the cavalry the Government's supplying chargers, saddlery, stable gear and groom would mean a saving of $1,500 a year in the initial expense and about $900 a year.

"Master of the King's Music." The London Star says that Sir Walter Parratt, who loses part of his occupation through the disbanding of the King's private orchestra, will retain his appointment as "Master of the King's Music." He is also organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, a professor at the Royal College of Music, and examiner in music to the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge and London. Born in 1841 at Huddersfield, Sir Walter's first organ appointment was at the small church of Armitage Bridge, and his first important post that of organist at Magdalen College, Oxford, which has long been famous for the beauty of the musical portion of its services. When not playing the organ Sir Walter plays chess. He is President of the Oxford University Chess Club, and was for two years captain of the eight chosen to play against Cambridge. Precocious. Her Mother—Edith, don't you think you are too old to play with little boys? Edith—No, ma; the older I get the better I like them.—Melbourne Weekly Times.

A MONUMENT THE MEMORY OF MILTON TO BE HONORED.

In Old St. Giles, Where The Poet Was Buried—An Alderman Has Made An Offer. Except for one rather serious drawback, it would be hard to find a more suitable location in London for the proposed statue to John Milton than that in which it is now intended to place it—directly in front of the ancient church of St. Giles, in Cripplegate, London. Milton is buried in St. Giles—where, by the way, his great employer, Oliver Cromwell, was married—and the poet wrote his "Paradise Lost" in a house near by, which was destroyed long ago. More-over, the entire surrounding district of Cripplegate is an historic one, and one of much literary interest. Though hundreds of Canadians find and explore it every summer, Cripplegate now is a decidedly out-of-the-way quarter of London, and, of course, the proposed statue of Milton—which will be the first in the metropolis—should have, if possible, a really prominent site. The scheme of erecting the statue in the vestry of St. Giles has been cherished for several years of making many necessary restorations to the historic church and improving considerably its surroundings. The many of London's oldest and most interesting churches, St. Giles, besides getting out of repair, gradually has become surrounded, on nearly every side, by rather homely and generally old-fashioned little shops and offices, and these the church's guardians have been anxious for a long time to tear down and afterward to extend St. Giles' churchyard so that the edifice itself may occupy the centre of an extensive open space. Soon after it was decided, recently, to ask powers from the London County Council to carry out this program, one of the deputies for the Ward of Cripplegate, named Baddery, came forward with an offer to provide the funds for the statue of the great poet so closely associated with St. Giles, for which London has been waiting for so many years, and it now seems certain that the memorial will be erected. Milton was buried in St. Giles in 1674. His remains were enclosed in a leaden coffin and there is an ugly story that when, in 1790, St. Giles was repaired to some extent, the casket was opened by ruffians and the poet's bones scattered in every direction. This tale has been denied frequently, but quite recently it has been declared by an authority to be true. St. Giles contains a bust of Milton, and the supposed location of his grave is marked by a stone. It was in 1620 that Cromwell, to whom Milton was secretary, was married in St. Giles. The old parish register also records the burial in the church of Daniel Defoe, but it is impossible to locate the grave of "Robinson Crusoe's" author. St. Giles itself was built about the end of the fourteenth century. Near by it runs what once was the "Grub street" of Poole and his contemporaries, but which now is named "Milton street." It was in the neighborhood, too, that the famous "Cock Lane ghost" was hunted by Dr. Johnson and Horace Walpole, and that the great fire of London finally burned itself out.

Likely Not Let The Czar Know About It. London, Nov. 12.—The Times publishes the text of the petition pointing out the lamentable condition in Finland, which three prominent exiled Finlanders attempted to present to the czar personally at Darmstadt. In an editorial upon the subject the Times says the uncompromising document impinges so boldly and directly on M. Plehve's version of the state of affairs in Finland that it is quite certain no pains will be spared to prevent it coming under the czar's notice.
