SOCIAL SATURDAY NIGHT.

About one hundred and fifty invitations were issued by Mrs. S. W. Dye for an evening "At Home" on Tuesday. The guests, the majority of whom were married people, included the college people, and many of the city's foremost people, both clerical and lay. Refreshments were served in the dining-room, where Mrs. Malcolm Macgillivray, Mrs. George Y. Chown, Mrs. J. C. Connell and Miss Annie Fowler did the honors. Flowers were in profusion about the house, the dining-room, looking most inviting with its red carnations, red-shaded candles, and general air of coziness. The affair was most successful in every way. During the evening a short musical programme was given, in which Mrs. Farrell and Miss Mona Knight, Miss Constance Tandy, Miss Beatrice Tandy and Mr. Arthur Craig took part.

Mrs. J. S. R. McCann was hostess at an extremely pleasant - euvre, on Tuesday, when the prizes were won by Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. James Henderson, Dr. W. W. Sands, and Mr. William Munnell. Major Massie presented the prizes (with neat little accompanying speeches); a crystal and silver vase to the winner of first honors, amongst the ladies, a box of note-paper for the second, and a cigar case and pack of cards for the men. The pretty decorations were yellow chrysanthemums and smilax.

Flowers everywhere were the accompaniments to the delightful "At Home" given by Mrs. Robert Crawford, 24 Barrie street, on Wednesday to her numerous friends. Roses, carnations and chrysanthemums made the air redolent with perfume in her charming home. With becoming grace the hostess received in the drawing-room. With her were Mrs. G. Y. Chown and Mrs. J. G. Elliott, while in the tea-room, Mrs. R. J. Carson, Mrs. James Crawford and Miss Crothers, assisted by the Misses Birch, the Misses Martin, Miss Allen and Miss Mattie Crawford served dainty refreshments and creams. Favors of roses were bestowed upon those who aided Mrs. Crawford in her pretty reception.

"Arthur Place," Mrs. Waldron's big, comfortable house on Barrie street, was en fête at the tea hour on Thursday, when its mistress was at home to a very large number of her friends. Mrs. Waldron, who received in the reception room was assisted by Miss Ethel Waldron, while in the tea-room—a veritable rose garden—were Mrs. Richard Waldron, Miss Spangenberg, and Miss Edith Folger, and at their beck and call, were Miss Etta Richmond, Miss Florence Cunningham, Miss Frances Sullivan, Miss Margaret Madie, Miss Mabel Dalton, Miss Lorraine Dalton, Miss Beatrice Tandy, Miss Gertrude Low, Miss Marion Calvin, and Miss Lilla Herald. The table was "a dream," as some one said. In a very tall vase, which rested on a mirror, surrounded with pink satin and white chiffon, was an immense cluster of long-stemmed pink roses—a glorious mass of the queen of flowers, while single roses were in small glasses at each corner of the central arrangement. Many-branched silver candlesticks, holding pink candles, were placed diagonally upon the table and single, perfect roses were scattered here and there.

Mrs. T. C. Wilson's tea yesterday was an extremely pretty and enjoyable affair. Assisting Mrs. Wilson and her daughter in receiving were Mrs. McCann, and Mrs. Cliff, and in the tea-room, were Mrs. R. J. McKelvey, Mrs. J. Mackay, Jr., and Mrs. Clara Wright, with a bevy of bright and assiduous assistants, Miss Mabel Miller, Miss Florence Martin, Miss Jessie McCann, Miss Flo. Smith and Miss Cays. The pretty tea-table was set by a puffing of soft white silk, Dress is the ruling passion of woman. The decree is that she be in fashion or else in misery.

Miss Asseltine for the negative. The subject was: "Resolved that the women students should have representation in the Alma Mater Society." The judges, Mrs. Shortt, Miss Lois Saunders, and Miss Katie Gordon, decided in favor of the negative. A short musical programme followed.

At St. Luke's Episcopal church, New York City, on November 4th, a pretty wedding took place when Stella M. Burn, daughter of Mr. J. J. Burn, of York, was married to Arthur Perkins Bromberg, of New York. The bride, who was becomingly attired in white satin, crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, was given away by her cousin, Mr. M. H. O'Loughlin. The bridesmaid, Miss May Phillips, wore an exceedingly pretty gown of pale blue voile, and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Edward Cantine Lewis. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the residence of Mr. O'Loughlin, where a reception was held. Among the guests were: Mrs. Burn, mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bromberg, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bromberg, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. O'Loughlin, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. O'Loughlin, Mr. W. G. O'Loughlin, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Crowley (Crowley), Mrs. M. Ryan, Dr. and Mrs. Secord. The bride's going-away gown was of dark brown voile with hat to match.

Kingston people who know the charming people, who will shortly leave Stanley Barracks, Toronto, to take up their home in Kingston have been very pleased to hear of Colonel Buchanan's appointment as deputy officer commanding, and a warm welcome awaits him and his family.

The Lord Bishop of Ontario went up to Peterboro to-day, accompanied by Mrs. Robertson and Mr. H. G. Richardson will be joint hostesses.

Mrs. James Hendry entertained at a very pleasant dinner on Wednesday, in honour of Principal and Mrs. Gordon. The other guests were Prof. and Mrs. Goodwin, Prof. and Mrs. Shortt, Prof. and Mrs. Mackay, Dr. and Mrs. Connell and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Calvin. The decorations were white and green.

Mrs. Martin was hostess at a jolly little dance on Wednesday evening, given for the senior class of the H. M.C. The hop was rather a small one, as only about half a dozen civilians, and about eighteen cadets, with a corresponding number of girls were present. Dancing, fortunately, seems to be becoming more popular than it has been lately, as this, and late affairs of the kind, were hailed with expressions of the utmost joy, by the young people.

Mrs. Kent, "Somerset House," was hostess at a charming lunch on Thursday, when covers were laid for ten. The affair had quite a military aspect, as the guests were Mrs. Reade, Mrs. Drury, Mrs. Panet, Mrs. Norman Leslie, Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Roderick Mackenzie, and Mrs. W. F. Nickle.

Mrs. Roderick Mackenzie's bright little luncheon on Wednesday had for its raison d'être, Miss Norton-Taylor. The guests were Mrs. Raymond Reade, Mrs. Hunter Ogilvie, Mrs. Norman Leslie, Mrs. March, Mrs. Carruthers, and Miss Lorraine Leslie. The artistic decorations were pink roses.

Mrs. Carruthers entertained a dinner at "Annandale" on Thursday.

Mrs. St. Pierre Hughes entertained the West End Euchre Club on Thursday, when the prizes were won by Miss Etta Callaghan, and Mr. Dawson.

The girls belonging to the Levana society of Queen's had a smart and interesting debate on Wednesday afternoon, which was taken part in by Miss Buchanan and Miss Williams for the affirmative; and Miss Ostrom and
