Letter From Greater New York.

NATED BY NEGRO.

Had Much To Do With Making Brooklyn-Lavish Wealth On One Side, Miserliness And Starvation On The Other.

(Letter Correspondence; No. 1,383.) H. Green, father of Greater New York, property in bank books, jewelry, had been assassinated on his door-step by a negro. There was hardly a tatives of value, altogether to the to come, his eyes pierced the gloom single exception she saw no other that surrounded the coming day, and he devoted his life to the building up she died, of absolute starvation and on millions. I would obey the shining ommand of the ancient Greek whose eart was full of the God like virtue, charity: "Write his sins in water, or tues in letters of gold." The horrible slander that the disreputable portion of the press tried to circulate will leave no smirch upon the dead man's character, he now heeds not praise or condemnation. Though his family MURDER would have preferred a private funeral, they have yielded their desire to the city's request. The funeral will take place on Tuesday; and so ends a great and useful life. "After life's fitful fever GREENE ASSASSI- he sleeps well; nor seed, nor poison, malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing can touch him further, and so, noble father of this imperial city, farewell,

At last the time came when the people were to decide, when the magnificent project of Andrew H. Green was to be realized and Greater New York. baying realized a victory, was sucessfully launched for weal or woe, life or death. Then came that phe nomonal revelation of the wonderful fortunes which have dazed and astonished the financial world. A man the working class, of no previous financial education, was announced syndicate was actually formed in Eng land for the purchase of one-half Mr. Carnegie's holdings, which were mostly in the manufacture of steel Cotton was no longer king, nor corn nor wheat, nor any other product used by man; steel was the monarch of all. It furnished the body of your steamer that plowed the ocean; the foundation of your railroads tha possible; it furnishes the skeleton o those mighty buildings that reach to wards the clouds. It did not increase the area of Manhattan Island, but there it verified the ancient claim garding real estate, that a man wh owned a patch of ground a vard square owned everything in the heav ens above, the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth. In a day the vision of Andrew H. Green was real ized, when the city of Greater New York gave out for improvements $1,-000,000,000, many millions of which was for a viaduct under the city, and many millions more for bridges, tunnels and other vast improvements. In the expenditure of these large sims Andrew H. Green had a potential voice. He was no longer comptroller, but he might have been had he chosen to hold the office. He was greater, he was the power behind the throne. His assassination was fearful; within a half an hour after his death thousands of flags were waving at half single taxers, and reformers were all alike expressing their grief. Eczema or Salt Rheum.

Eczema may develop on any part of the body, but is most likely to affect the scalp, face, ears and neck, the legs below the knees. In other cases it is scattered over the body, attacking several parts at the same time, and is likely to develop into psoriasis or chronic eczema, which seems to fasten itself upon the whole system.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is so pure and clean, so soothing and healing and leaves the skin so smooth and clear that it is a pleasure to use it. Though best known on account of its extraordinary control over the most torturing of itching skin diseases, it should ever be remembered that it will not injure the most delicate skin, but on the contrary is a food for the skin and a skin beautifier of unusual power.

A moment's consideration of the scores of uses to which this preparation can be put will convince you of its usefulness in the home, not for the old or young alone, but for every member of the family. In fact if the family medicine chest were to contain but one remedy it is doubtful if there could be found anything of greater usefulness than Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. Ann McDonald. Kingsville. Ont., states :- "For about three years I was a great sufferer from eczema. At times the patches of raw, flaming flesh would extend from my waist to my neck and from the knees to the ankles. The intense itching almost drove me crazy, and though I tried all the local physicians they could not even relieve the suffering. The flesh would crack open, and I don't believe anyone ever suffered more than I did. I was told of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but did not believe that it could help me. After the fifth application of this preparation I began to feel the benefit of its soothing, healing effects and now attribute a cure to the persistent use of this wonderful remedy. It is truly worth its weight in gold, and I never tire of recommending it to other sufferers.'

Mr. G. H. McConnell, Engineer in Fleury's Foundry. Aurora, Ont., states :- "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed into eczem, the most dreadful of skin diseases.

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until the flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment, It has cured me and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good
