THE REAL FACTS THEY ARE SUPPRESSED BY CONSERVATIVES.

The Statute Enactments Regarded as Desirable by all Parties—Was Done to Allow Public Business to go on.

The opposition press can make a grievance of the calling together of the legislature only by suppressing some of the facts. It would, of course, be desirable that the ultimate right of all the members to occupy their seats should be settled before the house meets. But there is something equally as important. It is equally as important that the business of the province should be transacted, and there is no chance of its being transacted in the next few months if the course recommended by the conservative press be followed. The section of the statute which provides that no election trials shall go on while the legislature is sitting is one that was regarded as desirable by all parties, and was put there expressly for such purposes as it now serves. The purpose was to prevent the legislature being embarrassed by contemporaneous proceedings in the courts.

What would happen if the course recommended by the conservative newspapers were followed? The election trials might result in rendering the standing of the two parties equal. This would be a matter of the highest importance, and would be held at once. In all probability, however, there would be appeals to the court of appeal, and during the period between the decision of the trial judges and the handing down of the judgment of the court of appeal the members affected could not take their seats. Under such circumstances it would be useless calling the house together.

By following the course taken by the government the session of the legislature can be legally and properly held, the business of the province can be expeditiously despatched and important enterprises set in motion, and subsequently the trials will go on. It would no doubt please the opposition to see an interregnum of some months during which everything would be at a standstill, but the people of the province have not the same interest in chaos. There is no violence to the constitution in holding the meeting of the legislature on the 14th of January. The candidate whom the returning officer declared to have received the majority of votes is member of the house to date until some competent authority declares otherwise, so that when the legislature meets every member of it has a statutory right to be there, and the vote of a member who might afterwards be unseated is of as much effect and force as that of any of his fellow-members. The cases in which men have sat and voted in the house while there was a petition waiting to be heard, and who were subsequently unseated, have been too frequent for any claim to be set up now that a new procedure is being resorted to.

It is not useful to remember also that it is the fault of the members whose seats are attacked that the cases have not come to trial. The elections were held a year ago, and these petitions have been hanging fire ever since, and after the period within which, according to the law, they should have been tried had expired, a postponement was procured, setting down the hearing for a time when the legislature is usually called together. Those who are objecting to the case are those who have been slow in unseating their opponents if they have any evidence against them. They have had a clear space of time since the legislature last rose, on the 27th of June, to make connections so correctly and quickly is beyond me. An hour's work on the board would, I think, drive me crazy.

The Usual Cause of Dyspepsia.

And Indigestion is Constipation and Cure Can Only Come When the Bowels, Liver and Kidneys are Regular and Active.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Digestion is not confined to the stomach, for by far the most difficult part of the process of digestion takes place in the intestines and depends on the activity of the liver in supplying bile and the regularity of the kidney and bowels in removing the waste matter.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring prompt relief and cure for dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation, because they have a direct and combined action on the kidney, liver and bowels, making those organs regular and active in their work of cleansing the system.

Instead of merely aiding digestion they have a beneficial action on the entire digestive system. They remove the cause of trouble and ensure the healthful functions of the various organs of digestion and excretion. The cures they bring about are thorough and lasting.

William Scott, Portland, Leeds County, Ont., states: "I can recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as an invaluable family medicine. We always keep them on hand for use in cases of constipation, kidney, liver and stomach troubles, and do not hesitate to say that they are the best medicine we ever used. We have also used Dr. Chase's Syrup of PAPAVERINE for the children when they have coughs and colds and found it excellent. We have unlimited confidence in these remedies of Dr. Chase and feel that we cannot recommend them too highly."

CHANGED HIS OPINION.

Regarding Telephone Girl—Merchant's Experience. Last week a Princess street merchant had some difficulty with his telephone; he thought he had a grievance because he could not secure a connection just when he wanted it, so he got real hot around the collar. Putting on his fur-lined overcoat, and donning his cap, he hastened down to the telephone exchange to enter a formal complaint with the ever-patient manager, and to express his opinion in forcible terms of the manner in which he thought the local business was conducted. That was his intention when he started out, but he returned shortly afterwards looking very thoughtful.

"I had an idea," he said, in speaking of the matter, "that the telephone girls just sat around in the office and did pretty much as they liked; always was of the opinion that they spent most of their time carrying on flirtations over the lines. I don't think so any longer."

"What brought about the change of heart?" asked the reporter. "A substitution of knowledge for ignorance. As long as I have been in business I never had occasion to view the inside of the local telephone exchange. But last week I got a little hot over my fancied grievance, and hustled down there to take a round out of the manager and everyone connected with the place; but I didn't."

"Was the manager a bigger man than you?" ventured the reporter. "I came in contact with one of the young ladies connected with the place, and learned enough from her erabistic description of the work to convince me that my conception of how a telephone exchange is conducted was all wrong."

"Just picture in your mind a dozen girls seated on high chairs, facing an exchange board that looks like an ornate, ornate cribbage-board; churr, jurr, jurr, and each hole numbered. Each girl has a transmitter strapped to her head, and works both hands as though she was typewriting against time and attempting to play a piano at the same time. Why, the girls scarcely have time to breathe, much less carry on a conversation; and in order that the girls do not become negligent, a supervisor is constantly on duty, and is constantly making connections so correctly and quickly is beyond me. An hour's work on the board would, I think, drive me crazy."

THERE IS GREAT DANGER IN CATARRH.

If Left to Run Its Course Unchecked, It Often Causes Death. Catarrh scatters its poisons throughout the entire system. The stomach and lungs are affected by the droppings that fall into the throat and become very popular during the winter. The inflammation of the stomach, bronchitis and consumption are the result. The blood also becomes contaminated and carries the poisons to all parts of the system. Frequently in the more advanced stages, the bones of the head become decayed and the air passages are a putrid mass and create a stench so foul and offensive as to be unbearable. The expression, "rotten with catarrh," is not overdrawn or exaggerated.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets strike at the root of this terrible, odious disease and eradicate it from the system. They are a constitutional remedy that cleanses the system thoroughly of all poisons and purifies the blood. Under their influence the head becomes clear, the discharges at the nose and dropping into the throat cease, the lost sense of smell is restored, the eye brightens, the foul breath becomes pure and sweet and the odious, disgusting disease is thoroughly expelled from the system.

A Cincinnati man says: "I suffered the misery and humiliation of catarrh for twelve years. My case became so aggravated that it seriously interfered with all my business relations. The disease became so offensive that I would not venture into any one's presence unless it were absolutely necessary. I tried every remedy that I could find, but as soon as I ceased taking them I would relapse into the old condition."

The quickest solvent of pain, and the most penetrating liniment on the market today is Smith's White Liniment. A positive cure for sprains, swellings, inflammation, neuralgia, rheumatism, and lumbago. Big bottles, 25c, at Wadsworth's.

Told in the Twilight.

Everyone is glad that the traditions of kindly hospitality, so inseparably connected with "Hazeldele," under the Cartwright rule, are not to be done away with, and yesterday the old house showed that it had not "forgotten" its trick of looking pretty and comfortable, and welcoming. Fires were burning in all the grates, up and downstairs, holly and mistletoe, were as about, and Mrs. Cooke gave the pleasantest of welcomes, before she passed her guests on to shake hands with Mrs. Francis Cooke, who with Miss Constance Cooke was receiving the hon. in the tea room were Mrs. Herbert Horsey, and Miss Cordelia Straubeau pouring coffee and making tea, with Miss Frances Macaulay helping the ice, Miss Isabel Cartwright, and Miss Adred Cooke assisting. The tea was limited to the unmarried, not even one stray matron being admitted, and the list of guests included: Miss Straubeau, Miss Constance Hora, Miss Annie Kelly, Miss Kathleen Grace, Mrs. Wrenshaw, Miss my McGill, Miss Florence Richmond, Miss Going, Miss Carr-Harris, Miss Wrenshaw, Miss Callahan, Miss Lilla Callahan, Miss Anna Lesslie, the Misses Mudge, Miss Alice King, Misses Parsons, Mrs. J. H. Over 200 children took part in the fancy dress ball given at Government House by her Excellency the Countess of Minto. Lady Minto wore a gown of sea green mousseline, embroidered with silver sequins. She wore crimson roses on the corsage, and a diamond tiara, collar and necklace. Miss Seymour (England) was in white and pink in Empire style, of flowered organdie, trimmed with lace.

The procession of the children followed the entry of the Vice-Royal party. First came Lady Violet Elliot as "Alice," the chief figure in the story. She was a very demure little maiden dressed in blue frock and white pinafore, her feet encased in black ankle-strapped shoes. The "White Rabbit"—Hon. Edmond Elliot—came next, and was followed by a long procession of special characters; such as the Dodo, the Gryphon, the Duchess, the Hatter, the Dormouse (Miss Beryl Maude), the Caterpillar, the Lobster, the Mock Turtle, the Walrus, the Carpenter, the Cook, the Frog Footman, the Fish Footman, the Old Frog William, the Young Man, the Cheshire Cat, etc. The first pack of cards followed, with Lady Ruby Elliot as the Knave of Hearts, and Lord Melgund as Knave of Spades, the suits being graduated from the highest cards, which were taken by the taller girls, down to the tiny tots, who represented aces. Then came the thirty-two chess pieces, led by the White Queen and King (Lady Eileen Elliot and Mr. L. Evans Sherwood), followed by the castles, knights, bishops, pawns, etc., all dressed in white or red. More special characters from "Through the Looking Glass" followed, including "The Lion and the Unicorn," "Humpty Dumpty," "The Tweedledum and Tweedledee," "The Old Woman with the Sheep's Head," and four charming flower characters, the "Rose," "Tiger Lily," "Violet," and "Daisy," and last, but not least, came the oysters and the soldiers. All the characters were wonderfully exact and perfectly dressed.
