THE SAFE WAS WRECKED BY DYNAMITE.

There Were Three Burglars in The Bunch—They Made an Attack on Other Banks—They Were Fired on and Fled.

Woodstock, Ont., Feb. 12.—Burglars blew open the safe of the private bank of Col. James Munro, M.P.P., at Embro, last night, and got away with a large sum of money. The safe was completely wrecked by dynamite and the office furniture was demolished. The burglars, three in number, first visited the Traders' bank, but finding two clerks on guard, they departed after being fired at. Half an hour later an explosion was heard at Col. Munro's bank. The clerks of the Traders rushed to the street, and saw three men drive away in a cutter.

A SHOCKING STORY.

Incident of The Iroquois Theatre Catastrophe.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—The long search of Frank R. Greenwald, for the body of his wife, who lost her life in the Iroquois fire, has been rewarded. He has found the body buried at Elmwood as that of another woman.

Mr. Greenwald identified the body by the membrane connecting the first and second toes of the feet, and by two rings that were still on the hand. The body was burned beyond recognition of the features. A deliberate attempt to get possession of the body to obtain the money found on it is suspected.

Mrs. Greenwald's body was taken to an undertaking establishment where it was numbered thirty-four. The number was a duplicate, and on the other body numbered thirty-four was $500. A man who said he came from Montreal, Canada, claimed body number thirty-four, stating that $500 would be found on it. He secured a permit to take away this body.

He claimed it as the body of his aunt, a woman fifty years of age. When he brought the permit to remove the body he had been identified as that of Mrs. Helen Miller, twenty-three years of age.

When he found he could not get the body of his aunt, he was identified as that of Mrs. Greenwald. He called for an undertaker to care for the body and bury it. He explained his circumstances and promised to give wealthy relatives would come to Chicago, he obtained not only credit for the expense of the interest, but also the loan of a considerable sum from the undertaker. After both the bodies had been buried the Montreal man continued to trouble the Miller family, seeking the effects that were on the body which they had identified. Although Mrs. Greenwald's presence of the two rings leads the police to believe that the remaining pieces were taken by some one else, and not by the man who identified the body. No money was found on the body.

The police have a good description of the Montreal man and his arrest is expected soon.

Mr. Greenwald's son also had been wrongly identified. He had been placed in a vault as Vernon Cortin. This mistake was discovered by Mr. Greenwald ten days after the fire.

SUICIDE OF A PRINCESS.

Another Tragedy of the Unhappy Hapsburgs.

New York, Feb. 12.—Princess Elizabeth of Windisch-Graetz, grand-daughter of Emperor Francis Joseph, who was reported on December 6th, to have shot the actress Gertrude Seidel, whom the princess discovered in the apartments of her husband, Prince Otto, has committed suicide, according to a persistent rumor here.

The castle at Prague is named as the place where the princess turned her hand against herself.

The princess, it is said, was suffering from a form of insanity which manifested itself in fits of jealousy. When suffering thus she sought to kill those whom she suspected of causing her despair. Her jealous fury alternated with periods of acute melancholy, during which she is reported to have attempted her life several times.

Japan Has Gone Into War With

Cleached Teeth—Alexieff Re-

proached—War Decided Upon

In December.

London, Feb. 12.—The Times Tokyo special says: No one who has watched the rapid development of the Japanese military mobilization during the past week, has been surprised at the naval news given out here to-day. Although the present time is still inopportune to refer to the ultimate object of the present mobilization, yet the promptitude with which the Japanese opened hostilities, and the scene of the naval conflicts, are significant. If the mobilization of the army were for home defence alone, it could have been more expeditious. In such town centres where divisional headquarters have been instituted, units have been mobilized almost without demonstration. Rich and poor, peer and pauper, alike, have found their billets. The railway stations perhaps show some sign of national patriotism, but a few flags, and occasional street orators and students have been the only apparent safety valves of national emotion. But there exists a deep determination which is not demonstrative. The Japanese have entered the struggle with clenched teeth.

The military developments will come as rapidly as the naval ones. The quiet reserve of all classes in the presence of the present great news is most impressive.

The Times Peking correspondent in a despatch dated Wednesday says: Never since it came to China have I witnessed such excitement among all classes of Chinese and foreigners as I witnessed in Peking to-day. In the evening the Japanese distributed bulletins on the street corners, which were read eagerly by thousands of people. The news of the sinking of the Variaz and Korietz was received with enthusiasm. We are still awaiting the official report of the naval battle of Port Arthur, particularly as the discrepancy in the versions of that fight are irreconcilable.

The Times correspondent at St. Petersburg says: The Russian minister of marine, and particularly the Grand Duke Mikhailovitch, are much annoyed that the admiral commanding the Russian Pacific squadron, should have allowed himself to be surprised by the Japanese Admiral Alexieff's fleet in a harbor of approach.

A Times Wellington (New Zealand) special says: Personal letters from Japanese naval officers show that the details of the attack upon Port Arthur were planned, as early as December. One officer wrote: "War is inevitable. We know that we can destroy the Russian fleet. I am already determined to proceed to Port Arthur on the outbreak of the war, and destroy the Russian battleships with my fish torpedoes."

A Times Russian correspondent says: Sober public opinion continues to view the war with apprehension. Prince Ukhtomsky says the opinion of thousands upon thousands of Russians, is that war with Japan will be useless, without result, and of advantage to the west European powers. The public generally displays anxiety, but confidence reigns in military circles.

The Times Russian correspondent at St. Petersburg, in such town centres determined to call out 40,000 reservists. The situation in the Caucasus shows no sign of improvement, and further disorders are reported. Nine thousand soldiers, and 22,000 tons of military stores are waiting at Sebastopol for transportation to the far east.

The Times correspondent at Paris says: Probabilities of approaching troubles in the near east have not diminished. A rupture between Turkey and Bulgaria is not improbable. The situation in the Balkan peninsula is bound to influence certain of the great powers of Europe.

The Times correspondent at Tokyo says: The Japanese fleet has not been seen since noon Tuesday. The injured battleships, Cossrovitch and Rotvian, have been floated, but the cruiser Pallada is still on the beach. It has been ascertained that the Japanese shells did not injure the forts at Port Arthur in Tuesday's engagement. Shots directed towards the disabled battleships went over them and entered the town.

Russians Killed.

New York, Feb. 12.—A special cable from Tokyo, to the World says: Further details of the naval engagement at Chemulpo, on Monday, show that about 200 men of the Russian crews were killed or drowned. The Russian gunboat Vicharyug, the British cruiser Talbot, the French cruiser Pascal and the Italian cruiser Elba witnessed the engagement and saluted the victorious flag.

Japan Is Leader.

Rome, Feb. 12.—Admiral Cadenara, who accompanied the Italian squadron in the far east during the Chinese-Japanese war, and who is considered a most competent judge of the present situation said in an interview: "I believe Port Arthur to be lost to the Russians, and their fleet is destined to be gradually destroyed excepting the few ships taking refuge at Vladivostok. I believe Russia can bring together 150,000 men on land and it would be difficult to increase this number, while Japan can concentrate 300,000 troops in Korea, where she would be supported by local sympathizers."

Gave Fair Warning.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 12.—Prof. T. S. Woolsey, of the Yale law school as an authority on international law, gave it as his opinion that in breaking off diplomatic relations the Japanese government gave a perfectly fair warning to Russia that war was at hand.

There Is Melancholia.

London, Feb. 12.—The Morning Post's St. Petersburg despatches state that the Russian court is much depressed, especially the emperor. The dull tone of the imperial proclamation is generally noticed, and it is attributed to his majesty's dislike for war, a feeling of unpreparedness and fear of international troubles.

Maple syrup. Crawford's.

Will Be Allowed Grace.

Tokio, Feb. 12.—An imperial decree announces that a period of grace until February 14th is allowed Russia in merchant ships, loading and unloading at Japanese ports, and which may perform the return voyage by a direct route unimpeded. It is added that Russian ships leaving for Japan before February 16th will be allowed to complete the outward and homeward

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 12, (10:30 a.m.) Fair and cold. Saturday, fair, and a little more moderate.

YALU RIVER.

Lined With Picked Troops On South Bank.

New York, Feb. 12.—The Japanese troops, landed at Genden, are intended to cooperate with the troops that have now been successfully landed at Peng Yang, on the opposite side of the Korean peninsula, says a World despatch from Kobe, Japan. "These two forces constitute Japan's second line of defence against the Russians, who are marching over the Yalu river into Corea. A first line of defence has been arranged. It is composed of picked troops, who are lined up along the south bank of the Yalu. It is however, considered most unlikely, that this army will reach its destination in time to intercept the invading Russians. The second line may fail to hold the invaders, in which case it is expected that a land battle would take place not far from Seoul. In any case the Japanese preparations are made with a view of closing in any body of Russian troops that succeed in forging its way into the interior of Corea. Mobilization of the army has been effected without hitch. The transportation of soldiers and supplies by means of a railway from the interior to the coast, proceeded with great precision."

British In Communication.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 12.—Private official despatches received here by Commodore Gederich, commanding the British north Pacific squadron, confirm previous advices from the east of war, as to the number of vessels disabled and in all important particulars. The British commander is in constant communication with the admiralty London, as to the course of the war.

Dynamite And Detonators.

Liverpool, Feb. 12.—The customs officials this morning, found eighteen pounds of dynamite and 3,300 detonators in the possession of an Austrian emigrant, on board the White Star line steamer Majestic, which left New York, February 3rd, and arrived here yesterday. The Austrian's trunk had a false bottom, in which the dynam
