The immense foundries and workshops required to turn out Oxford Hot Water and Steam Boilers and Oxford Radiators speak volumes for the excellence of this system of heating. These great works are the result of an everincreasing demand for perfect warming apparatus. The day of the hot air furnace is past, with its uneven, unhealthful heat and its continual distribution of dust and gas. Every thinking person wants the evenly-tempered. healthful atmosphere of steam or hot water heating as produced by and Oxford Hot Water or Steam Boilers. These combined, form the perfect heating system. Oxford Radiators are mechanically perfect. They are cast from the highest grade of iron in moulds which give an exact thickness of metal to all parts.

This is a very important point, for it is the uneven expansion of a radiator cast thick on one side and thin on the other which causes cracks and leaks.

The loops of the Oxford Radiators are connected by our Oxford Push Nipple which requires no fibre or paper washer. The Oxford Push Nipple is the easiest connection to make or take apart, requiring no special tools.

The Oxford Push Nipple, which makes the connection, ___ gives the full diameter of the pipe for the flow of steam or water.

Oxford Radiators, in connection with the Oxford Hot Water or Steam Boiler, form a perfect heating system. It is a coal and heat economizer, and is most simple and easy to control. The place which the Oxford Hot Water or Steam Boiler occupies at the head of the heating systems of the world is accentuated by the attempts of other makers to imitate its many exclusive features.

Our entire plant at Toronto Junction, covering many acres of ground, is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Oxford Hot Water and Steam Boilers and Oxford Radiators. We would like to send you some of our booklets about the Oxford Hot Water and Steam Systems of heating—they tell the whole story.
