Canadians Will Be Trained For Navy.

THE MINISTER

IS GOING TO CONSULT THE ADMIRALTY.

Nearly Six Million In Public Works—Expenditure Public Works Shows Slight Increase Over Previous Year.
Ottawa, March 10.—The annual report of the public works department for the past fiscal year has been issued. There was an expenditure on the department during the year of $5,390,518. This does not include an advance of $900,000 to the Montreal harbor commission. This is about the same as last year. In 1899 there was an expenditure of $5,469,000. There was $87,190 spent in dredging last year. More than half this was in Ontario. There was $288,776 spent on despoising the St. Lawrence ship channel. The expenditure on public buildings last year was $1,230,000. Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, minister of marine and fisheries, will leave for England next summer to confer with the admiralty officials for the purpose of obtaining two British war cruisers on which to train Canadians for the navy. This is in connection with the bill which the minister of marine will introduce during the coming session to establish a navy in Canada. One of the cruisers will be placed on the Atlantic and the other on the Pacific.

TO SAVE SENSITIVE RUSS.

King Edward Forbids Topical Songs.

London, March 10.—King Edward through Lord Aberdeen, has availed himself of his prerogative to put a stop to public singing of all topical songs bearing on the war, and which tend to ridicule or cast obliquely upon one or the other of the belligerents. Of course songs can be sung in private, but owing to the lord chamberlain's precautionary commands they cannot be given on any stage of any theatre or music hall, under a penalty of forfeiture of the license of the place, and of all sorts of penalties in the way of fine and imprisonment for singer, composer and management of the house. The King evidently intends that neutrality shall be strictly enforced everywhere.

THE FIGARO'S

Despatches Say Massing of Troops Goes On FOR SIX WEEKS

NOTHING SERIOUS WILL OCCUR IN MANCHURIA.

Nothing Known of Withdrawal From Port Arthur—Russian Protest is Justified by International Law—The Generosity of The Czar.
Paris, March 10.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Figaro, telegraphs an interview with Gen. Sakharoff, the minister of war, in which he said that the concentration of Russian troops in the Orient was progressing in the most satisfactory manner. The minimum number concentrated there would be 400,000. He considered that the maximum Japan would be able to land in 300,000. Russia would require a month to complete the transportation of the troops. Nothing serious could occur in Manchuria within the next six weeks. He insisted that the subject of repossessing Port Arthur and garrisons in I do not understand. He believed that Japan had landed 100,000 troops in Korea already. The general added: "The war will last until a logical and necessary conclusion has been reached. For I do not think the Russians are in a mood to stop before quite finishing. I know nothing of any plan of withdrawing the troops behind Port Arthur and leaving the place to defend itself."
The Echo de Paris publishes a telegram from Gen. Plig, Alexieff's chief of staff, sent to St. Petersburg, in which the general states that Cossacks have captured a Japanese convoy south of the Yalu, transporting provisions, cattle, and horses in the direction of Ping-Yang.
The Petit Paris has a despatch from Tokio saying that there is a rumor in high circles there that the Japanese fleet is preparing to attack Port Arthur again. It is understood that orders have been issued to block the harbor at all costs, sinking gun boats or coast defenses if necessary to effect that object. The government is fearful that the Russian fleet may intercept the Japanese transports.

He insisted that the subject of repossessing Port Arthur and garrisons in I do not understand. He believed that Japan had landed 100,000 troops in Korea already. The general added: "The war will last until a logical and necessary conclusion has been reached. For I do not think the Russians are in a mood to stop before quite finishing. I know nothing of any plan of withdrawing the troops behind Port Arthur and leaving the place to defend itself."
The Echo de Paris publishes a telegram from Gen. Plig, Alexieff's chief of staff, sent to St. Petersburg, in which the general states that Cossacks have captured a Japanese convoy south of the Yalu, transporting provisions, cattle, and
