London, April 4.—A fierce land engagement is imminent in northern Korea. Two thousand Russian troops, including Cossacks and infantrymen, are entrenched about the gate, on the south side of Wiju, while the town is filled with the czar's soldiers ready and eager for battle. Strong Russian outposts are also entrenched at other points along the Yalu, determined to drive back the Japanese, should the latter attempt to cross the river. The Japanese army is advancing northward from Ying Yang and Chong Ju, and probably is within a few miles of the Russian lines.

That the Japanese armies have been held in the positions outlined by the military council at Tokio, is evidenced by the fact that the government has allowed the newspapers correspondent to leave the capital for the front.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Standard says that persons who have arrived from Manchuria report that the Russian forces are still inadequate to defend the country between Kirin and Port Arthur, upon which the Japanese are slowly advancing in three columns. The Russians are said to be badly fed, and to be totally lacking in the fighting spirit. The Japanese cavalry is admitted to be inferior to the Russian, but their infantry and artillery are greatly superior. The Japanese officials are in daily expectation of a serious engagement in Southern Manchuria, but no decisive attempt to capture Port Arthur will be made until the railway is effectively disabled.

With regard to the naval position, the Times correspondent says that the participants in the last attack on Port Arthur think that the harbor is blocked. Admiral Togo expressed doubt on this point. He does not blame any one, only remarking that if the harbor is open, it is for the Japanese to enter it, for the Russians to defend it.

At St. John's, Nfld., the steamer Grand Land from the ice fields reported that the sealing steamers have come in, and that the number of sealers has increased to 300,000 during April.

Fire took place in the new wing of Rideau Hall, at Ottawa. The Countess of Minto, who is laid up from her recent accident, was carried down stairs and several of the household escaped unscathed.

Dr. William A. Harcourt, Denver, Colo., has renounced all claim to a fortune of $800,000 left by his father's brother in Kilkenny, Ireland, giving his sister, of Portland, Me., all the right to the money. He says he wishes nothing he does not earn by his own efforts.

The Seoul correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a despatch dated April 1, says that the Japanese fleet is still intact and it is watching Port Arthur. Only a narrow passage into the harbor there is now left.

400 Russians Killed.

London, April 4.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Seoul, says that in the course of the engagement at Chong Ju, March 28th, there was much fighting in the town itself. It is asserted in Seoul that 400 Russians were killed and wounded, and that a number were captured. The Japanese losses are given as thirty. The Russian losses at Kasan on March 26th, are estimated at 500. A great body of Japanese troops have gone north from Chinampho and other places. Troops and stores in huge quantities are arriving at Chinampho.

News from Russian and Japanese sources were that the Japanese movement in Korea is energetic and rapid.

Chinese Hinder Russians.

London, April 4.—The Hartie correspondent cables the Chronicle a despatch, dated Saturday, which points out that every day 1,000 Chinese give an advantage to the Russian, notwithstanding the presence of Gen. Men, commanding a large Chinese force close to the China Manchurian frontier, where he can menace the rear of the Russian army, hinder the latter's attempts. It appears certain that no understanding exists between Gen. Men and the Japanese.
