The approaching baseball season o 1904, will inaugurate the twenty-ninth consecutive renewal of championship race of the National League Professi onal Baseball Clubs of America. The National League was born February 2nd, 1876, in New York.

Upon that eventful occasion professional baseball was put upon a sound foundation, and so well did the builders of this pioneer organization do their work that time has only served to strengthen the structure. Baseball is truly a national game of America, for it is universally participated in by all classes from the lantic to the Pacific. There is hardly a city in the country that does not possess a professional team, and no hamlet is so small as to be without an amateur nine. Baseball has, followed the flag to Hawaii and Manila. In Manila at the present time there is a regularly organized baseball organization called
