From Budapest. Budapest, April 27.- A mysterious relatives of a criminal, who was beheaded some time ago and is baffling the police of the city. A young man, Richard Kozarek, who was serving giment in this city, was stabled the back the other night as he was returning to the barracks, and it has not been possible to find his assail-

The knife penetrated his spinal column, and the young man is to-day paralyzed from the hips down. He is being cared for at a military hospital, and according to the belief the surgeons, will live, but will never get the use of his legs back again. The father of the young nan, M Kozarek, has for some years been executioner in this city, and when was beheading his last criminal some one in the crowd cried out, just the head dropped into the basket : "We shall get revenge on your son for the death of this innocently condemned man."

RAMBLES IN THE DEPTHS. As Described By An English

In the previous article of this series we indulged in an imaginary journey in the air in an aerial machine such as will perhaps be in vogue a dozen years nence. Let us again give rein to the imagination, and take a tour in the

"I believe it was God that ous giant octopus, which threatens to enfold us in its great slimy tentacles; and now varied other denizens of the deep which gather round us, unwieldy sun fish, great hideous rays, and sun-dry other ungainly monsters. Happily, however, that terror of the sub marine explorer, the dreaded and savage scourge of the lower depths, the sea serpent, does not obtrude his grisly and repulsive presence. At length we descry, reflected on the

And having laded our vessel with as heavy a load of the treasure as we dare, we expell the water-ballast, open another cylinder of liquid air, and rapidly rise to the surface, well re-
