MICHAEL MURPHY NEVER RALLIED FROM STROKE.

Quarterly Service Largely Attended—Mrs. Finkle's Fine "At Home"—Epworth League Annual—Many Visitors.

Newburgh, May 3.—Quick indeed was the summons that came to Michael Murphy, a much respected resident of our village, on Wednesday afternoon, about four o'clock. He was engaged in some work at Stickey's foundry, when with hardly a moment's warning, he was stricken to the earth with a stroke of paralysis, rendering his right side useless, and himself unconscious. Seven men lifted him into a buggy and he was taken to his home. He did not rally, and yesterday morning his spirit took its flight to that land whence no traveller returns.

The late Michael Murphy was sixty-two years of age, and had worked in Stickey's foundry for thirty-four years, his chief work being the selling of the machines throughout the country. He leaves a widow and six children. Mrs. Foot of Kingston; John of Ottawa; Mrs. Costello, Archie and James of Newburgh, and Thomas of Spokane, Wash. The funeral will take place at the Roman Catholic cemetery on Wednesday morning.

Quarterly service was held in the Methodist church on Sunday morning and was largely attended. Rev. R. W. Whittam preached from "Who loved me and gave himself for me." During the offertory, Mrs. G. B. Thomas and H. S. Mott rendered a very beautiful duet, "Jesus, I am Trusting, Trusting in the Joy of What Thou Art." T. D. Scriver was summoned to the bedside of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Low, in Toronto, on Thursday. He returned yesterday, the doctors now thinking that Mrs. Low will recover. Miss Florence Johnston, and Miss Prayn, Nanaimo, called at Dr. Beaman's on Monday. Percy Madden, and F. G. Miller, B.A., spent Sunday afternoon and evening in Centerville.

The social event of the season took place on Friday evening when Mrs. C. H. Finkle was "At Home." The guests numbered one hundred, a special train bringing the guests from Napanee. Crosby and Thornton's orchestra, of Kingston, furnished music for dancing.

John Shorey is able to be out again after a severe illness. Henry Paul and James Holmes have moved into Stanley Chant's house, and Robert Hope is moving into the house vacated by Henry Paul, and purchased along with the store by Mr. Ryan. Mr. Ryan intends to place his hardware department in his new store.

At the annual meeting of the Epworth League, held in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Hon. president, Rev. J. F. Mears; president, Miss Annie Beaman; first vice-president, Mrs. F. D. Moore; second vice-president, Miss Emma Shorey; third vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Courtney; fourth vice-president, Mrs. J. K. Sharpe; recording secretary, Roy Farley; corresponding secretary, Fraser Paul; treasurer, Miss F. McKim; organist, Mrs. J. W. Courtney.

The weather of Sunday and yesterday, is certainly the kind we have been looking for. House cleaning is now in order, and lucky is he who can gather enough for his meals, while the women are turning the house upside down. H. A. McKim, of the Dental College, Toronto, is spending a few weeks at his home here. Rev. and Mrs. Chant attended the nuptials of their niece, Miss Gardner, Kingston, last week. G. E. Berwick, Deseronto, spent Wednesday evening at John Shorey's.

Canadians Over the Line. Hamilton Spectator. There are over 30,000 Canadian-born residents in Detroit, and with their children they make up about 60,000. Detroit has a population of over 225,000 of which one-sixth, at least is of Canadian origin. Buffalo census shows a Canadian-born population of 18,000. Cleveland 10,000, and Chicago figures up 35,000 or more. Canada is the third largest consumer of United States products, Great Britain being first and Germany second.

Household Hint. After washing lace ties, etc., rinse them in milk instead of starching them. Let the lace dry, then damp with iron and you will find it looking quite new again.

Now is the Time To use Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. It is an antiseptic, healing dressing, applied directly to the diseased surface by the patient himself, who blows the powder through a tube into his nostrils. The cure dates from the first puff.

You needn't snuffle from colds or hay fever if you have the catarrhal powder in the house. Cures a headache in ten minutes.

Dr. Agnew's Pills costing 10 cents for forty doses, cures the price of other first-class pills, first cleanse and then cure the bowels and liver forever.

RUSSIANS NEVER WON.

A Victory Unless They Were In Overwhelming Numbers.

In a letter to the Canadian Military Gazette, Henry J. Woodside, of Dawson, Yukon, has this to say about the Russians: I must differ from you in your estimate of the Russian soldier and officer, whom I consider about the poorest in Europe, and have yet to see proof to the contrary; nor does his Russian furnish any. I never remember of reading of their winning a victory with equal or inferior numbers against an enemy of equal or superior numbers.

The Swedes used to thrash them when there was one Swede to from three to six Russians in the fight (see campaigns of Charles XII of Sweden). The Russians managed eventually to win the battle of Poltava by means of their superior numbers and the sagacity of an Irish marshal (Lacy), who taught the Russians to hold their fire until the Swedes were close upon their heavy masses.

The Russians had to pour over whirling numbers into Poland to crush that brave people with their small but heroic armies. It required the united efforts of Austria, Russia and Prussia with vast armies to subjugate the raw veterans of Hungary in the '40's. But it was about two hundred thousand soldiers that Russia had to pour in of her whistled panjurs and her fierce Hussars before she could teach Huns that five Russians were equal to one Hungarian.

The memory of that splendid struggle should be taught to Canadian boys as a lesson in defending their country, no matter how numerous the invaders may be. Thank goodness we have some Hun colonies in Canada. May they retain their fighting quality and hatred of Russian tyranny.

Of the Russo-Turkish war of about 1854, preceding the landing of the allies in the Crimea, the Turks alone had driven the Russian invaders back across the Bosphorus. Turkey was a very poor ally to have, but it was a check to two evils for the British statesman. About the same time a noble Canadian named Sir Fenwick Williams threw himself, with a few thousand volunteers, into a dilapidated fortress called Karak, and there for months defied the power of whole Russian armies. It was only when his men were ready to drop from famine and sickness that Williams consented to surrender. He refused to sign the conditions offered, and replied that he would burn every cannon, blow up the magazines, and the Russians could work their will on the unfinished band. It was then that the British general, taunted by bloody repulses, granted the heroic Canadian and his little garrison all the honors of war, and strange to say of a Russian, kept his word.

The British veteran of the Crimea remembers the Muscovite with a sort of contempt. At the Alma, when a Russian says, the Highlanders swept up the hillside, like dark cloud shadows up their native hills, while regiments of musketeers and dragoons followed, they heard the bagpipes, and exulted themselves by saying they thought it was a regiment of centaurs neighing in a headlong charge against them.

At Balaclava, old Sir Colin Campbell had a cavalry regiment of British cavalry that he thought the best cavalry of "Ninety Two," drawn up in line two deep, was good enough to meet and scatter such foes. This, too, he remembered was on the same day that the "Scarlet" masses of "Iron" (heavy brigade) rode up hill and literally "rode down" two or three times their number of the elite of the Russian cavalry. And again a few hours after that a few weak squadrons of British horse, about 600 in all, nearly routed a Russian army in position, with guns in front and on each flank, also regiments of cavalry and infantry just behind the guns, through all of which the British were to pass like "hot iron" through "pasteboard." And "strenuous" was their action, Kinglake tells us, that Russian infantry regiments a mile and a half away on the slope of the hill were thrown into squares to resist the demon cavalry.

At Inkerman about 40,000 Russians with many batteries of artillery, attempted by a surprise attack in the misty morning to oust 3,000 British troops from a poorly defended camp on Shell Hill, but were foiled even before the steady British reinforcements arrived. In this same battle, two British guns engaged the whole field of Russian guns, and drove them one by one over the crest of the hill, which had been rained by the surprise attack. (See Kinglake).

The writer proceeds to point out the state of corruption which exists in the Russian army, and then this corruption is unfortunately this corruption and inefficiency will greatly help the Japanese, and illustrates to a great extent how the Japanese fleet has been able with such ease to virtually wipe out the Russian Asiatic fleet. There are always instances of bravery among the Russian army, but the average Russian is not in my estimation to be put anywhere near the same class as the average Britisher.
