HEROISM AND ITS DESERTS.

Gen. Shafter has been humiliated by his countrymen in being refused a place on the board of management of a soldiers' home. It seems that there are some people who think that he did not distinguish himself at Santiago, and desire to give expression to their feelings in a very petty manner.

The greatest of men fail to reach expectations. Buller did not take Ladysmith as he desired, and he came back to England to suffer rebuff. Lord Roberts failed to reform the war office as he expected and was replaced by another in a manner which reflects sadly upon British nobility.

Members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association are "red hot" on the fire insurance question, and there is now the prospect of their forming an insurance fund of their own. It is a case of war with the knife between the great corporations.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Trent Valley canal has been, for some time, the cause of much controversy, especially as to where its terminus should be, at Trenton or Port Hope. The canal was originally a political project, and it was charged that the expenditure upon it was meant to affect the public pulse rather than the public trade.

In the successive elections, or periods preceding them, vast sums have been expended, and the question is a serious one as to whether some definite and useful purpose cannot be secured by the canal. Incidentally Kingston has been referred to, and the charge has been made that those who endorse the Trent contention are anxious to build up Kingston at the expense of Port Hope, Hamilton, and other western places.

It is not apparent that Kingston is very much concerned about the result. The canal will not build up the trade of this port in any case. Kingston stands at the foot of lake and head of river navigation, and from it the trade east and west will come as usual.

The Trent Valley canal may be a short cut to certain points in the west, and it is a convenient cut inland in stormy weather, but it cannot amount to as much as some people allege. The Hamilton Spectator talks about the effect of the canal on the trade of Oswego, Sodus Point, Cape Vincent and other American ports "in the east half of the lake."

So far as we understand the situation, it makes precious little difference to Kingston whether the terminus is at Port Hope or Trenton.

A TIMELY EXPLANATION.

Sir Louis Jette, one of the Alaskan commissioners, recently came in for a notice which he did not like. While visiting Laval University, with which he was formerly connected as a member of the staff, he was invited to address students, and incidentally discussed the Alaskan case, explaining the points raised by each side and the effect of the award. La Presse had it that he said the issue was a diplomatic rather than a judicial one, and this left the impression that a compromise was effected for political reasons.

Sir Louis promptly corrected the error, but in the meantime the speech had been copied very largely. In consequence Sir Louis has had to write to several of the leading papers.

"I did not say," he remarks, "that the question had been negotiated in advance, but in closing my statement of the case I observed that although

TANWORTH TALES.

Alliance Lecture, Mumps, and Landscape Gardening.

Tanworth, May 4.—Rev. G. Shearer, Toronto, the secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, was in Tanworth last week. He delivered an interesting lecture in the town hall, and afterwards organized a branch of the alliance with our resident ministers as officers, and an executive committee of representative citizens. Quite a large percentage of those present gave in their names for membership.

Friday night's lecture on Windsor Castle, the Tower of London, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, etc., was much enjoyed by those present. Rev. W. H. Adams, the lecturer, was afterwards thanked for the entertainment he had furnished. One of our prominent men says that three evenings ought to be given to these splendid time-light pictures instead of one, that Mr. Adams might have time to furnish a still fuller description of the various points of interest.

THE CZAR BIDDING GOOD-BYE TO COS SACKS.

The Czar speaking from the steps of the Winter Palace at St. Petersburg. In the course of his speech he said: "I am firmly convinced that you will all uphold the honor of your ancient regiments, and that you will readily risk your lives for your dear old fatherland."

Some were of opinion that diplomatically the award was perhaps the best solution that could be reached for England. I remained convinced of the righteousness of the Canadian cause and had already the satisfaction of seeing this view now accepted by many of the leading reviews and newspapers in Great Britain.

The meaning and effect are quite different, and the eminent jurist is entitled to the explanation in support of that reputation for precision and clearness which has been his.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Oh the walks and the streets. Their condition is terrible, and they must remain in this way. The city cannot afford to rebuild many of them.

The Expositor advises the Brantford Street Car company to refrain from Sunday traffic, which the circumstances do not justify. The cars may be needed in some places on Sunday, but Brantford is not one of them.

Members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association are "red hot" on the fire insurance question, and there is now the prospect of their forming an insurance fund of their own.

In the Quebec legislature there is demand for a law which will make bye-elections occur at certain times and under certain circumstances without the initiation of the government. If good in provincial experience why not good in the federal as well?

Guelph, Goderich, Clinton and Stratford are being connected by electric railway. Gradually the whole west will be covered by a network of railways and travel made expeditious in summer. A winter like the last would tie most of the street railways up.

The Montreal Gazette regards the Kingston case as a precedent for the guidance of municipalities, which desire to acquire lighting plants. "The good will of a company which uses the streets in its business," says the Gazette, "is not likely to be henceforth much of an asset."

At the Grand, To-Night. This season Frank L. Perley is presenting Rosella Knott as a co-star with the eminent English romantic actor, Charles Dalton, in Paul Kester's dramatization of Charles Major's romance of chivalry, "When Knighthood Was In Flower," which will be the attraction at the Grand to-night. If dramatic criticism can be believed, Miss Knott has scored a veritable triumph as the willful, winsome Mary Tudor in Mr. Major's delightful play.

The Saturday Event. Mr. Reeves-Smith is coming back again in Haddon Chamber's greatest success "The Tyranny of Tears." The play as seen here before was a really splendid production and made as real as good actors could do. Everyone will go to see Reeves-Smith, and those who do not will find themselves "out of it" so far as the artistic events are concerned. Matinee and evening, Saturday.

The Brooks comet was observed by its discoverer, Dr. W. R. Brooks, at Smith's observatory, Geneva, after a long interval of cloudy weather. The comet is now on the northern border of the Constellation Hercules and moving northerly toward the head of Draco.

OBSERVATIONS.

Hasn't Been Around Lately. Hamilton Herald. The people may not always know what they want, but they generally know what they don't want.

It All Depends. Montreal Herald. Russia has paid $16,000,000 for three cruisers. The investment may not be a bad one if the new cruisers can be kept out of Japan's way.

A Sudden Shock. Toronto Star. A New York man has died of a broken heart. They must have raised his rent, increased his interest rate, and mentioned him for vice-president all in one day.

Doesn't Believe It. Belleville Intelligencer. Hamilton's fire chief says 60 per cent of the fires in that city are of incendiary origin. Fire insurance in the ambitious city must be looked upon as a get-rich-quick scheme. But we feel inclined to doubt the chief's story.

Death of Mrs. H. A. May. Ottawa Free Press. The death occurred Tuesday of an estimable lady in the person of Jane Horsey, wife of H. A. May, of the private council office. She passed away at her father's residence, 243 Daly avenue, after a short illness of pneumonia. Deceased was in her thirty-fourth year, and was a daughter of H. H. Horsey, architect. She leaves besides a husband, a young son, Eric, five years old. She is survived by a sister, Miss Amy, and a brother, Herbert Horsey, who has just arrived in the city after a long absence. The late Mrs. May was a woman of many admirable traits and her death will be regretted by a large circle of relatives and acquaintances. The remains will be taken to Kingston, where interment will be made in the family burial plot.

A Great Question. Another large audience was gathered in Bethel church, last evening, and after a bright song service, the pastor, Rev. B. N. Morden, preached from the text, "What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ?" This momentous question, said the speaker, was asked the multitude, by Pilate, and we are all familiar with the awful answer. God, not Pilate, has been asking the same question among the children of men everywhere, for over 1,900 years. He asks it at every gospel service. He is asking it here. What is your answer to God's great question? A man can be guilty of no greater sin than that of rejecting Christ. Mr. Tompkins sang during the evening, with much power and sweetness, "Almost Persuaded" and "What Will You Do With Jesus?"

May In Chicago. S. E. Kiser. Now comes the merry month of May—'Tis merry in the song—The month that makes the woodland gay—Or used to, right along—The month of hovers—or so the bard once named it, anyhow—The month—alas! it's mighty hard To hall may gladly now. For rioters are in the street, I hear them hoarsely hawl, The maver, with his muddy feet, Is tramping through the hall, The happy, happy home I had Is ripped up through and through, And, though in winter garments clad, I'm nearly frozen blue.

Nothing Loosens Up Colds. On the chest and relieves that tight feeling and hard cough like Nerviline writes E. P. Renshall, of Sutton. "I never use any other remedy but Nerviline and find it serves as a general household liniment best of all. Children's colds and inflammatory pains are quickly cured by Nerviline, and its action on colds, coughs and sore throat is unequalled by anything I ever used. Nerviline is both powerful, pleasant and reliable." Every mother should use Nerviline. Price 25c.
