A Mother's Life Saved By the Use of Paine's Celery Compound

A. R. Cobb, Seaman, Man., tells of the wonders done for her by Paine's Celery Compound as follows: "Before using your valuable compound I was so crippled with rheumatism, that I had to crawl on hands and knees from one place to another. I also suffered from neuralgia and dreadful headaches, and could not get more than one or two hours of sleep each night. I often thought it would be better to die than live and endure my terrible agony. I was happily advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, and after use of six bottles the rheumatism and neuralgia are banished, and I now eat, rest and sleep well. My present state of health is due entirely to the health-giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, which has done wonders for me. My husband is now using it for dyspepsia, and it is doing wonders for him."

Paine's Celery Compound Is the Medicine That Cures When All Others Fail.

YOUNG MEN GOING WEST.

The meeting of the Methodist church in Kingston district brought out the fact most distinctly that the North-West Territories are drawing the people to them. There were many circuits which had to report losses in this respect. Farming in recent years has been good, and those who till the soil have got their rewards in a very large measure. And yet the newer country has been yielding so abundantly that young men have been flocking to it and taking part in its development. What is the net gain of $1,000 or $2,000 in a year when, with the same labour, twice that can be made in Assiniboia, in Alberta, or Saskatchewan! So the tide of travel goes westward, and with it go the young men of Ontario, of Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces. This creates a great scarcity of farm help, and only for the improved machinery, the implements that do the work of several men, the crops could not be put in or taken from the land. That times have been good for the farmers is indicated by the financial returns of the rural churches. Here and there a falling behind has taken place, because the exodus of numbers has been particularly heavy, but generally the contributions have been generous and up to the mark.

PROBLEM OF THE HOUR.

The Works department has a serious problem on hand. It is required to build walks and re-construct streets, and its appropriation is wholly inadequate. What is an amount of $10,000 for miles of streets, and for the care and maintenance of the highways? The situation is a serious one.

In recent years asphalt and granite have been largely in demand, and the property owners, in some districts, have cheerfully assented to the proposal that the work be done on the local improvement plan. This year the walks are wanted where asphalt should be used, and the committee has hesitated about laying any more wooden walks, for two reasons, (1) that the material is inordinately expensive, and (2) that its use should not be encouraged, for its life is short. The situation is made the more embarrassing because it is alleged that some of the ratepayers who are affected prefer the wooden walks.

In order to get an expression of opinion from the council, or in order to secure a settled policy, it is recommended that wooden walks be laid on the local improvement plan. The vote on Monday evening will be a decisive one.

One thing appears to be certain, that the council cannot lay many walks this season with the amount at its disposal. All the walks should be of a permanent character. Some say they should be paid for out of the general taxes. In that case the rate should be higher, probably five mills on the dollar more. And the sum already contributed by the property owners would have to be refunded.

NEW VIEW OF HEARST.

William R. Hearst, the New York journalist, editor and proprietor of nine newspapers, has been pictured as a pretentious person, as one with ever-reaching ambitions, and without the ability and morals of a representative public man. He has been referred to in most uncomplimentary terms, especially since his name has been mentioned in connection with a high office, and the general conclusion is that he has been wanting in the qualities of true citizenship and so is unworthy of the honor to which he aspires.

Colliers' Weekly, at this juncture, supplies some information with regard to Hearst. It is enlightening. It presents him in a favorable light. Arthur Brisbane, the editor of the Evening Journal, one of Hearst's papers, writes, on invitation, in respect of Hearst's characteristics, and tells that wealth, inherited, is not his greatest possession, that he has forcefulness of character, brightness of view, originality, vigour, intellectual power, and that he has been using all these, and using them well, in the furtherance of his business.

The impression so generally entertained of Hearst—that he has money and nothing else, that the work ascribed to him is performed by his hired men—is entirely erroneous. He is a live journalist, says Brisbane, with a complete knowledge of his affairs, with the skill to discuss any detail of them, and the capacity for any service in the mechanical, the business, or the editorial departments. Withal he is very modest, and shrinks from pushing himself into view and notoriety. Hearst is a member of congress because his friends saw in him the exponent of popular thought, the champion of public interests, the opponent of trusts and monopolies, the economist in the use of the people's money and property. It is the right of every American-born citizen to aspire to the highest place in the gift of the people, and it is Hearst's to look towards the White House in Washington as the scene of his highest triumphs. If he succeeds—and bring only forty-one, he has time before him, and can wait—he will use his head and not the heads of other people in the administration of his trust. If he fails he will, as heretofore, use his talents in behalf of the people whom he delights to serve.

Brisbane's article may have the effect of removing some of the misconceptions that have been current about Mr. Hearst. Public men suffer from the misrepresentation of their fellows, and Hearst has been the victim, apparently, of both slanderous tongue and pen.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The L'Original Advertiser is no more. Its owner and editor attributes his failure to the neglect and ingratitude of the conservative party. The old story.

Two legislators in Quebec exchanged courtesies inside the house, and there is a promise of them being exchanged for hostilities outside the house. Parliamentary service is peculiarly suggestive of heat and distemper.

Should bakeries be inspected? Why not? Why should the medical health officer not have access to every place where foods, in solid or liquid form, are put up and offered for sale? It is a German idea and it is good enough for Canada.

The contract for Toronto's (public) supply of coal goes to a Detroit firm. The fuel which last year cost $3.49 per ton (coarse slacked), is selling this year at $2.81 per ton. Kingston's public institution will be better served this year.

The Watertown Times says bituminous pavement is simply macadam mixed with bitumen. So it is, but the work is done according to given specifications, and the bitumen is not ordinary tar. Don't make any mistake about that, please.

The Quebec legislature has decided that "the time is not ripe" for the city of Montreal to undertake the manufacture of cheap gas. In other words the city council is crippled in its service by an irresponsible committee of the legislature.

Public ownership is a popular phrase with some members of the federal opposition, but not all. Mr. Haggart is dead against it, and he could, if he liked, tell what Sir John Macdonald and others thought of it when the government had the Intercolonial and C.P.R. on hand.

Watertown professes to lay down macadam pavements in the residential portions of the city, the property owners paying three-fourths of the costs and the city one-fourth. "Pavement" is a new name for ordinary macadam, but there is nothing like a high sounding name.

Monday is Empire day, or the day on which the school children give vent to their patriotic feelings. All honor to the men who lead them. Mr. McIntyre, at their head, has reason to be elated. In the cultivation of patriotism he is engaged in a work which deserves a crown.

A good many people have expressed themselves as satisfied that there should be a limit to the lawn sprinkling and window washing, but they ask for another hour in the afternoon. "Give us one hour more," said a lawn owner to the chairman of the water works committee, "and we're right with you."

OBSERVATIONS.

Behind In Divorces. Ottawa Journal. In this old Canada of ours we may be a trifle backward in some things. One of our backwardnesses is in the matter of divorces. Between the years 1867 and 1901 we granted 69.

Sign Of Insanity.

Exchange. Henry Watterson says W. R. Hearst is insane. Well, if Hearst is insane because he aspires to be president of the United States, there are a good many other chaps that are insane in a relative degree.

Bound To Fall In Line.

London Advertiser. It is a little late in the day to sneer at domestic science and manual training, both of which have won their place in the educational systems of every civilized country. The mossbacks in a few communities like London have kept one or both courses out of the public schools, but they will catch up with the procession by and by.

What Is In Sight.

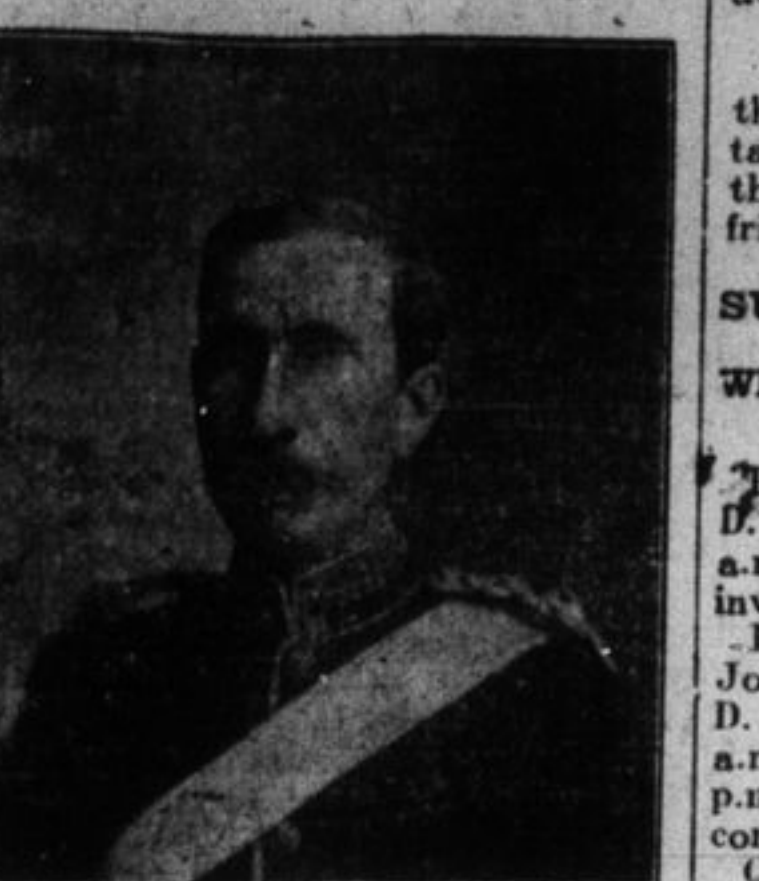

Syracuse Post-Standard. It is not Kouropatkin's reputation that is so much at stake. The complete victory of Japan would not necessarily disgrace him. The overtone of his army and a peace upon terms dictated by Japan would be just simply a melting away of Russian prestige, the fall of a craven edifice built on bluff, trickery, browbeating and pretence.

MORE MILITARY

All of Kingston's military forces have seen active service in the Fenian raids, the North-West rebellion and the Boer war. The Victoria day parade will be composed of real war veterans from Canada and the United States.

The military corps of Kingston were organized as follows: Royal Canadian Field Artillery (then the R.C.A.) 29th October, 1871; 4th Hussars, 30th April, 1875; 47th Regiment, 30th November, LIEUT.-COL. COX, Commanding the 47th Regiment.

1866; 14th Princess of Wales Own Rifles, 16th January, 1863. The Army Medical Corps and the Army Service Corps are recent creations. The 5th Kingston Field battery seems to be asleep.

The 15th Regiment, of Belleville, last visited Kingston on May 24th, 1897, along with the 13th of Hamilton. In the parade were the 13th, 14th and 15th Regiments. The 15th is now commanded by Lieut.-Col. Halliwell, Stirling, a lawyer and high up in the Orange order. This regiment was organized on January 16th, 1863, the same day as Kingston's 14th Rifles.

The first time any United States troops took part in the Queen's birthday celebrations in Canada was when the 39th Separate company of Watertown, N.Y., came to Kingston in 1898. The reception the visitors got was a magnificent one. Troops from over the border also took part in the celebrations here in 1899 and 1900. It is, therefore, four years since the "Yankees" were here. Another big reception awaits them.

The New York Central Railway company secured the permission from the United States government for the New York state troops to come over to Canada. Permission for them to land at Kingston was expected from Ottawa to-day. This permission includes the bringing along their rifles and blank ammunition for the feu-de-joie. On the occasion of the first visit of the Watertown 39th Separate company to Kingston, six years ago, they did not bring along any blank ammunition, and there was a gap in the firing line when the rifles "spoke out" the salute. On the next two visits, however, the Yankees brought powder and joined in the firing.

Col. Buchan, D.O.C., returned this morning from Ottawa, where he was called on Thursday by Lord Dundonald, concerning some important military matters.

For the military review on Tuesday morning, the troops will be formed up on the fair grounds at 10.50 o'clock. The feu-de-joie will be fired at eleven o'clock, and the troops will be ready to leave for the march down town sharp at noon.

Major Boyer, of the 4th Battalion, New York State, is to be here to command the United States' troops on Victoria Day. He was in command of the 39th Separate Company, of Watertown, N.Y., when it made its first visit to Kingston in 1898.

Lieuts. J. Sparks and W. I. Mills will not return from Stanley Barracks until Wednesday next. They will write on their examinations for captain's certificates on Monday and Tuesday.

Sergeants W. Peters and Herbert Swaine have applied for commissions in the 14th Regiment. They have both been good members of the regiment for many years and are very popular with all ranks.

Nineteen years ago to-day General Middleton's column relieved the town of Prince Albert, N.W.T., which had been practically besieged from March 18th.

Drill instructor Coffey who instructed the 14th Regiment during the fall term last year is expected to arrive in the city to-day and will again act as instructor of the regiment for four weeks. He was very much liked by the officers and men when here.

The St. Andrew's Armoury-Cadets will assemble at the Highroad at 2.15 p.m. to-morrow and will march to the Cricket Field, where they will join the Garrison parade.

The Army Service Corps had a good turnout on Monday evening and also on Wednesday. Sergt. Franklin makes a very good drill instructor.

All the corps in this military district are slated to drill this year and the camp here in June will no doubt be a large one.

Major R. Smith of Cornwall is to be brigade major of the camp in June. He is a very popular soldier and also a candidate for parliamentary honors at the next election.

Military men from this city have to thank Captain Clyde Caldwell of Ottawa, for many courtesies extended to them when in Ottawa. He is a true friend of the soldier.

SEE WEDDED ANOTHER. Man Sues For Breach Of Promise. St. Thomas, May 21.—James A. Learn, of Kingsmill, who is now fifty years of age, in February, 1898, advertised for a wife in a Chicago paper. It was replied to by Miss White, of Port Rowan, and the two became engaged. However, in April last Miss White married Edward Biddle, also of Port Rowan. Mr. Learn now sues Mrs. Biddle, who had property in her own right, for damages for breach of promise of marriage.

Woman's Auxiliary, Y.M.C.A. The Woman's Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. had a meeting on Friday afternoon. The showery weather no doubt kept many away, but still a goodly company of the faithful friends of the association, met in the parlor, for the annual thank offering and closing meeting. After the regular business routine, Mrs. Macallum read a short report of the recent international convention held in Buffalo. The president then introduced Dr. Scott, who gave a very interesting talk on the work in Ceylon and related several pleasing incidents of the good done through its agency there. A half hour social chat and a cup of tea, closed this pleasant meeting.
