C. M. Shultz has been appointed postmaster of Hespeler.

Weeping For A Living.

Paris, May 30.—Pretty Mme. Anais Church, who appeared in a Paris police court the other day fashionably dressed, gained her livelihood in a no-dress fashion.

Dressed in deep mourning she walked up and down outside the cemetery near Pere-Lachaise, and directly she saw an expensive-looking funeral would join the mourners, mingling her sobs with theirs.

After the interment she would announce herself as the friend of the dead person in a long, distant, happy old-fashioned way, and then, in the midst of her platitudes, she would skilfully rob of the contents of their pockets.

Can't Pay The Price.

Washington, May 30.—The kidnappers of Perdicaris and his step-son Varley in Morocco have submitted terms for ransom, and the state department has decided that they are absolutely impossible of acceptance.

LOSS IS 3,000.

The Japanese Made a Big Fight.

KINCHAU FIGHT

ANOTHER TOWN CAPTURED BY JAPANESE.

The Fighting On Nanshan Hill Was One of The Fiercest And Desperate in The History of Modern Warfare—Finally Japan Swept Up The Hill.

Special to the Whig.—The commander of the army attacking Kinchau reports that a detachment of our troops, consisting of infantry, artillery and engineers, occupied Nankowling on the morning of May 27th. The enemy fled in the direction of Port Arthur, after burning a railway station at Shanshilitao, north-west of Dalny. On the 26th our troops captured fifty guns, besides many other things. The number of the enemy's dead alone and left in the field amounts to 400. Our casualties, including dead and wounded, are estimated at 3,000.

The Russians have abandoned Nankowling and have been driven from Sanchilipu, retreating towards Port Arthur. A Chinese merchant, just arrived, who left Dalny five days ago, says the Russians have vacated the town, which at the time of his departure had not been occupied by the Japanese forces. The latter were still engaged in landing troops at Kinchau Bay.

The details of the fighting at Kinchau emphasize the heroic tenacity of the Japanese in their conduct at Nanshan Hill. Nine successive times the Japanese charged the fortified heights in the face of a storm of death-dealing missiles and in their last effort they carried the forts and trenches only after a bayonet-to-bayonet conflict with the Russians. The final assault of the Japanese was marked by the most desperate hand-to-hand counter that has thus far characterized throughout the Japanese left night was exposed to an enfilading fire from the Russian infantry and gunboats on Talien Wan Bay and four nine centimeter guns posted at lengthen. At a critical moment the ammunition of the artillery ran low and it was decided to use the remaining ammunition into one final desperate assault. Fortunately, however, at the moment this decision was reached the Japanese were in Kinchau Bay had ceased bombarding when the infantry had first moved forward, suddenly resumed the shelling of Nanshan Hill. Thereupon the Japanese artillery began a heavy and accurate cannonading, the last charge was made and the breach was opened with great difficulty through which the Japanese gained the whole height, expelled the enemy and captured the guns in the fort. The enemy retreated in confusion, exploding magazine at Tachengchen.

One of the fortunate incidents in the attack was the discovery of a mine wire at the cutting of which prevented heavy loss in the attack on Nanshan Hill. The fourth division formed the right wing, the third division the left wing, and the first division the left battery of the field army and two batteries of field artillery, besides four trench artillery and marines. The trophies of battle consist of sixty-seven machine guns, rifles, and many other things. The Japanese casualties are estimated at about 3,500. The enemy left on the battlefield over 500 dead.

Fierce And Desperate.

London, May 30.—No further details of the great Japanese victory beyond what are contained in the official reports have reached Europe. It is believed that the Japanese assault on Nanshan Hill was one of the fiercest and most desperate affairs in history of modern warfare. A Tokio despatch describes how in the earlier Japanese rushes every man pitched his rifle and shot down the Russian trenches. It was necessary, therefore, to stop the charges and rake the Russian positions with artillery fire before the final assault. The supreme effort was successful owing to a Japanese detachment, more intrepid than the rest, piercing the Russian lines. Hundreds of their comrades inspired by this sprang forward and soon the whole Japanese line swept up the hill.

St. Petersburg despatches make it plain that the news of the Russian reverse was a severe shock and the fate of Port Arthur, despite the great strength of the fortress, is regarded with the utmost despondency. The Japanese victory has created a profound impression in Berlin. The military critic of the Vossische Zeitung says that the news of the battle reads like a chapter of a modern text book on tactics. The battle will become an academic example for analysis in the study of war. English experts are most enthusiastic, agreeing that the results of the victory were cheap at the price of the casualty list, heavy as it was.

400 Miles In Fortnight.

St. Petersburg, May 30.—The correspondent of the Russian Invalid, (the army organ), with Gen. Mischchenko's division of 4,000 trans-Baikal Cossacks sent to Korea to keep in touch with the enemy saw the command rode 400 miles in a fortnight, and approached the town within a day's march of Seoul. They were anxious to capture the town and were impetuously ordered to reach them to retire, and they reluctantly went back to Wiju. Gen. Mischchenko's division is now eastward of Feng Wang Cheng, threatening Kuroki's rear.

Dalmy About Evacuated.

Chfoo, May 30.—Dalny has been practically evacuated according to Sikh and Russian refugees arriving here by junk. All valuables, ammunition and most of the troops have been taken to Port Arthur. The only civilians remaining are engineers in charge of the electrical works in the harbor, and also those set to destroy docks and piers.

Dispute Every Foot.

London, May 30.—The Times correspondent at Wei-Hai-Wei learns from a fugitive Russian that Gen. Stoessel's orders are to defend every inch of the country between Port Arthur and Kinchau, because it is believed the main advance on Mukden can be delayed until Port Arthur falls. Every day is important to Kourapatkin.

Stoessel, upon receiving these orders hurriedly prepared a succession of positions.

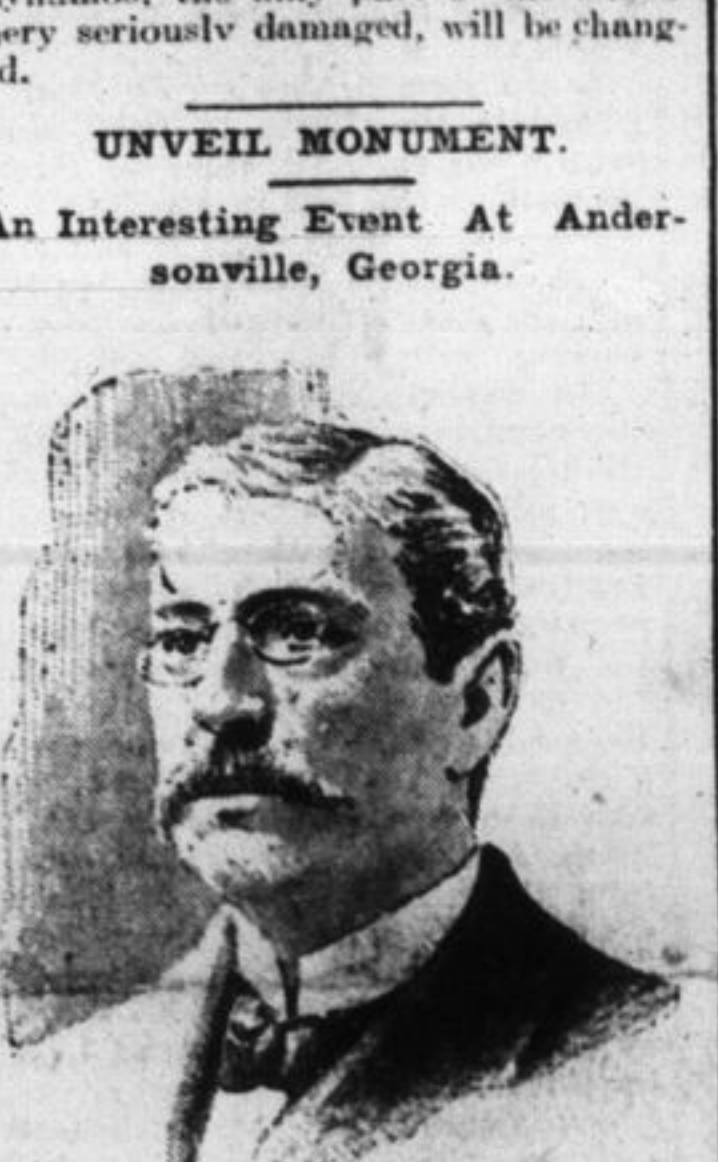

A Japanese refugee from Port Arthur is now at Chfoo chartering steamers to convey supplies to Port Arthur when it falls.

An Offensive Movement.

Paris, May 30.—A St. Petersburg telegram to the journal says that Kourapatkin has commenced an offensive movement southward. The Russian advance guard is supposed to have reached a point thirty-seven miles north of Kinchau, the Russian correspondent learns that the Baltic fleet will leave in two detachments. The first consisting of four battle-ships, is due to start June 31th. The battleship Orel has been refitted. The dynamo, the only part of the machinery seriously damaged, will be changed.

UNVEIL MONUMENT.

An Interesting Event At Andersonville, Georgia.

GOVERNOR BLISS.

Special to the Whig.—Andersonville, Ga., May 30.—The monument erected here to the memory of the Michigan soldiers who suffered in Andersonville prison during the civil war was unveiled today with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a large throng. The guests of the occasion included Governor and Mrs. A. T. Bliss of Michigan and a large party of state officials, civil war veterans and other citizens of the same state. Orations appropriate to the occasion were delivered by the governor and others and the unveiling ceremony was performed by Mrs. Bliss.

Montreal, May 30.—The C.P.R. gross earnings are $1,961,505; working expenses, $2,648,972; net profit, $1,412,533. For ten months ended April 30th, 1903, there was a net profit of $13,207,433. The decrease in net profits from the same period last year is, therefore, for April, $80,641, and from July 1st to April 30th, $1,835,905.

President At Gettysburg.

Special to the Whig.—Gettysburg, Pa., May 30.—Following the example set by President McKinley and others of his distinguished predecessors in the executive chair, President Roosevelt came to Gettysburg today and delivered the Memorial Day oration on the famous battle-field. The crowd was one of the largest that ever attended similar exercises here, and included large delegations of veterans from Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Reading and other points. Governor Pennypacker presided over the exercises and introduced the president as the chief orator of the day. The president was given an enthusiastic welcome and his address was listened to with closest attention by the large crowd.

Dream Came True.

London, May 30.—Troubled by a dreary prospect that his husband, who was engaged at a colliery, had been injured, Mrs. Morgan, of North-caw, took train to the colliery. She met her husband, who was quite well, and both laughed heartily at the dream. That very night Morgan sustained the identical injuries his wife had foreseen.

See Jap Terror.

London, May 30.—Ex-Premier Irvine, speaking at a dinner of Australian merchants in London, said should the Russo-Japanese war result in a great dominant war result in a great eastern sea British supremacy in Australia would be jeopardized and have to be faced by a united empire.
