WORKED POST OFFICE.

Burglars Entered The Store At Westbrook.

The Kingston police have been notified of a daring robbery which took place some time between Thursday night and Friday morning at Westbrook. The postoffice was broken into some time during the night and the cash drawer, which contained between sixty and seventy dollars, was cleaned out.

Postmaster Smith, who lives in the building, was not awakened by the thieves. It is also believed that the room in which he was sleeping was entered by the prowlers, as a pair of trousers, which he had left in his room, were afterwards found out in the hall.

In fact, this fact was what led to the discovery of the robbery. There was another sum of money, amounting to about ninety dollars, hidden in another part of the office, and this was overlooked by the thieves. Although the case is not within the jurisdiction of the local police, they are keeping a close lookout and hope to land the criminals.

GOOD REVIEW.

LORD AYLMER WAS THE INSPECTING OFFICER.

He Was Well Pleased With The Camp-The Sports Were Full Of Interest-General Camp Tidings.

Yesterday was a day which could in no way be termed a holiday for the two thousand men in camp at Harristown. The force in camp paraded at 8:15 a.m. in review order for inspection by Colonel, the Right Hon. Lord Aylmer, acting G.O.C. The inspection was held on the eastern drill field, after which Lord Aylmer rode through the camp lines, where everything was in the best of order.

The force then marched to the city, their route being over to Earl street to Barrie, down Barrie to King, and thence past the market square, where they were reviewed by Lord Aylmer. The order of march was as follows: Cavalry brigade, artillery brigade and infantry brigade, and the men made a very creditable showing, considering the short time they have been in camp.

The march was a long and trying one, and it was a tired lot of men who returned to camp about twelve o'clock. Before Lord Aylmer left for Ottawa, at one o'clock, he told the Whig that he was highly pleased with the camp, its situation and the conduct of the men. After only being under canvas for three days he was quite surprised to find them so steady on parade. The review was quite fascinating. He found the rations excellent and the quality of the horses in cavalry and artillery was really fine. He would have liked to have spent some days with the volunteers, but the many camps to be inspected prevented.

TWO JAP DISASTERS IN TA-JEN-WAN BAY, NEAR DALNY.

When Admiral Togo determined to clear the port of Dalny as a naval base for the Japanese fleets, he did not fail to realize the great risks to be run before the numerous mine fields placed by the Russians could be moved. During this apparently peaceful operation the battleship Hatuse was sunk, the armoured cruiser Yoshino rammed and two torpedo-boat destroyers blown into smithereens by contact mines.

It rather surprised the men that we can grow such a fine figure of a lord on our own soil. It seemed to give point to the cry for goods made in Canada. Here was a Canadian lord apparently quite as desirable as the imported article. To the unprejudiced he looked as much the soldier as Dundonald. The muscular figure, the calm, piercing eyes, the bronzed cheek, the firm seat in the saddle, the air of command—all these qualifications Lord Aylmer showed that he possessed. He was the real thing, and the militia was inclined to feel proud of him. Also they were gratified to reflect that we have peers of the realm in the civil service at Ottawa, and such presentable ones at that.

In the afternoon, a very fine programme of field sports was run off, many of the contests being very spirited, the members of each regiment cheering their representatives on to victory. The weather was ideal and many hundreds of people from the city took advantage of the holiday to visit the soldiers in camp. The sports were held on the eastern drill field and although the ground was somewhat rough for the running races, and boxing contests, this detracted nothing from the excellence of the sport provided. The boxing contests were especially good and the different competitors were cheered to the echo by their enthusiastic backers.

In the evening a camp-fire and concert was given by the soldiers and a large crowd from the city were present to enjoy the excellent programme provided by the talented ones from the different regiments.

During the day good music was given by the 49th and 47th Regimental bands. After the conclusion of the evening programme most of the men were perfectly willing to crawl into their tents and all admitted that a soldier's life in camp is not all "beer and skittles."

KILLED HIS LANDLADY.

A Chicago Pole's Revenge—Rescued In Time. Chicago, July 2.—After killing his former landlady, Mrs. Annie Wacławski, Stephen Wacławski was pursued for blocks by scores of foreigners and rescued when badly bruised in the conflict. Wacławski lived at Mrs. Wacławski's house until a few weeks ago, when the woman forced him to leave because of his intemperance. He knocked at the door last night, and when she opened it he rushed into the vestibule, drew his revolver and fired twice. Both bullets struck the woman in the right arm. She ran to the kitchen shouting for help. He shot again. The bullet struck Mrs. Wacławski just below the right shoulder. The woman leaped against the screen of an open window; it gave way, and she fell eight feet to the ground, dying shortly afterwards. The assailant rushed out of the house and fled, pursued by hundreds of people, mostly foreigners. They had surrounded Wacławski when the police came. Mrs. Wacławski was twenty-seven years old, and left a husband and two children.

PERMISSION RECEIVED

For The 14th Regiment To Go To Syracuse. Lieut.-Col. Kent just received word at noon that permission had been granted by the governor-general for the 14th Regiment to go to Syracuse, N.Y. All morning, the telephone and telegraph were busy between here and Ottawa, over the matter, as the application had in some way been overlooked. Lieut.-Col. Kent states that to Hon. Mr. Hartly the regiment owes much, as only for him there would have been no trip across the line to-morrow. Mr. Hartly brought all his influence to bear and finally got a wire to Sir Frederick Borden, who had just returned from Halifax. At 12:30 o'clock, a telephone message from Col. Pinaud, announced that the permission had just been signed by the governor-general. The United States' government's permission allowing the 14th Regiment to enter that country with arms was received at noon.

The Hell of Theosophy.

Philadelphia Record. "Life After Death" formed the subject of an interesting lecture last evening by C. W. Leadbeater, the English theosophist, at 1502 Chestnut street. In part he said: "When man lays down his physical body at death he is not therefore bodiless, but finds himself inhabiting another vehicle of fine matter—spoken of as the astral body. This body is the vehicle of desires and passions and motives, and the length of the man's life in this stage depends upon the amount of such feeling still existing within his nature. If these desires are gross and physical, as is that of the drunkard or sensualist, then—since he has lost the physical body through which alone they could be satisfied—his continued desire will be a torment to him until in process of time it gradually wears itself out."

A Lawn Social.

The lawn social held at the home of W. H. Reid, Victoria street, under the auspices of St. Luke's church, on Thursday evening, was a decided success financially and otherwise. The proceeds of the affair netted about $100, about $50 being taken in at the different refreshment booths. Routley's orchestra played good music for the young people, who danced on a large platform placed on the beautiful lawn. The affair broke up shortly after eleven o'clock.
