AMERICA HELD REFUSED PERMISSION TO LAND HERE.

On Sunday Afternoon After Coming From Cape Vincent—Collector of Customs Appealed To, And He Allowed Landing To Be Made.

When the steamer America arrived back from Cape Vincent at one o'clock Sunday afternoon, after having taken the 14th Regiment over, she was refused a landing by the customs. Alford were several citizens who had taken the trip with the regiment, and among them was Henry Folger, who sent a strong objection to the collector of customs over the action taken.

Two years ago, the minister of customs gave orders that no excursion boats should land at Canadian ports on Sundays. This rule is rigidly enforced at Kingston, but at ports down the river, customs officials are negligent, and boats are allowed to land at will.

The company it seems received permission from the minister of customs to land here on Sunday. They can't stop the steamer from returning. Regular passengers from the other side, however, may land. The customs' idea is to stop any attempt at excursion trips to the Cape on Sunday, but Mr. Folger's contention is that his boat is held up in that way, similar treatment will have to be meted out to the steamer Kingston and North King, both of which carry people down the river on Sunday morning, and return there in the afternoon. It is likely, however, that the matter will be settled.

The collector allowed the few Kingston citizens to land yesterday, because they accompanied the regiment as guests of the company, and not knowing that there was any harm in so doing. Mr. Folger was privileged to land as an owner of the vessel, and the crew as employees.

BEN TALKED TRUTH

And Brockville People Thought Him Insane. Benjamin Folger, who is known as "King Ben," of Kingston, president of a big steamboat company, member of the Ontario government railway commission, ex-president of the Kingston Electric Light and Power company, boss of the Kingston Electric railway, Sir Knight of the Folger line of steamers, etc., etc., declared to the Recorder this week that he stood prepared to wager his last winter's underclothes against a box of imperial snuff that the G.T.R. shops would go from Brockville to Kingston inside of two years. Ben never drinks, and this was the only symptom of insanity he exhibited.

The Campbell Power Question.

The Campbell electric power question will be before the city council tonight. The general feeling is that a reasonable length of time should be given. Mr. Campbell says that nothing less than ninety-nine years will suffice. If he cannot get that, he will not build the proposed mill. He does not regard the permission as a franchise at all, for the power is to supply his own mills between two blocks. It is understood that many of the aldermen are satisfied to grant his request, on condition that the city have the option of purchasing the surplus power at a reasonable rate.

Passenger Travel on the Railway is Very Heavy at Present.

The performance of this week at Lake Ontario Park consists of circus acts, as well as vaudeville. The company showed last week in Buffalo and made a big hit.

The Home Drink

Hires Rootbeer. Thousands of people who should appreciate Canadian stories because they are Canadian, are unfamiliar with the names of Canadian story-writers. The July Canadian Magazine presents three leaders in this class of literature. There is a racing story by W. A. Fraser, author of several books and a resident of Georgetown, Ont., and a humorous tale by A. E. Carrmann, staff writer on the Montreal Star, the author of two novels, and a descriptive writer of experience.

SHORT SERVICE

HELD AT THE BARRIEFIELD CAMP ON SUNDAY

The Orders Issued For The Attention of Brigade Commanders—The Notes Gathered On The Field.

Yesterday was a day of comparative rest and quiet at the third divisional camp at Barriefield. The weather was ideal and many city visitors walked or drove through the camp lines during the day. The Sabbath day was observed by the holding of a divine service for the soldiers in the morning. The officers and men of the Roman Catholic faith paraded at 8 a.m., and marched to the city, where they attended the service at St. Mary's cathedral at nine o'clock.

The officers and men of the Protestant religion paraded at 9 a.m., on the grounds immediately to the east of the divisional field hospital, where a dawn-break service was conducted by Captain the Rev. A. H. Creegan, chaplain of the 16th Regiment, assisted by Captain the Rev. William Craig, chaplain of the 4th Hussars. The service was not of very long duration, as it lasted only about thirty-five minutes, but it was heartily entered into by all present. The men were supplied with printed programmes of the order of service containing the hymns, prayers and scripture lessons. The singing, which was led by the combined bands of the 6th Brigade, was especially good, the men apparently delighting in singing such beautiful martial hymns as "Fight the Good Fight," and "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name." After reading of service by Revs. Creegan and Craig, the former gave a short and very much appreciated address. His address was along military lines and it touched a responsive chord in the hearts of his hearers. He spoke of soldier life in the service of our early King and from that passed on to the devotion men should show for the King of Kings. He dealt with the life of the men in camp, and said that in most respects this present camp is an ideal one, but he mentioned swearing as the great vice of a soldier's life.

The service was brought to a close with prayer and the singing of the National Anthem. The Late Orders. Among the divisional orders issued at the camp on Saturday were the following: The band of the 45th "Victoria" regiment, which is now in camp, consisting of one N.C.O. and twenty men, will be taken on the strength of the camp from this date.

Commanding officers of batteries and regiments will be good enough to send in to their brigade commanders for transmission to the divisional office a list of the names of officers recommended by them for appointments, or promotions, now present in camp, that have not as yet been gazetted. O. C. brigades are particularly requested to take measures to see that no N.C.O. is permitted to leave camp at any time improperly or uncleanly dressed, waist belts must always be worn and without the ball pouch. Sergeants only are permitted to wear the bayonet in walking-out.

A standing medical board has been appointed during the training of the troops as under: President, Maj. Abbott, A.M.S.; members, Serg.-Lieut. Sands, 5th Field Battery, Serg.-Lieut. A. W. Richardson, A.M.S. (attached), 4th Hussars. C. cavalry and infantry brigades will be good enough to make a systematic inspection of the units of their respective commands, and forward to the divisional officer not later than Friday, 8th inst., a report showing generally the state of efficiency or otherwise of each unit, the condition of the kit, the names of the men, and such other information as they may consider desirable in the interests of the service, together with a regimental parade state in each case.

A standing veterinary board has been appointed during the training of the troops as under: President, Vet.-Maj. Ming, 4th Hussars; members, Vet.-Capt. Morgan, 5th Field Battery, and Vet.-Capt. Poole, 3rd Dragoons. The sub-target gun machine is on exhibition in camp to-day and Tuesday.

The O. C., 6th brigade will detail a regiment to commence its muckety practice on Monday morning, and continuing throughout, until the whole brigade has fired. The O. C. cavalry and artillery brigades will detail all farrier sergeants doing duty in camp to parade at the tent of the principal veterinary officer on the divisional staff lines, on Tuesday, 5th July.

The following non-commissioned officers of the Royal Canadian Regiment having reported for duty will be taken on the strength of the third divisional camp from this date: Q.M.S. Inst. E. H. Price; Q.M.S. Inst., H. R. Hopkins; Sergt. Inst. W. White; Q.M.S. Inst. C. Thompson; Q.M.S. Inst. A. B. Blake-Foster; Sergt. W. Farnsworth. The first three mentioned N. C. officers have been attached for duty to the 6th brigade, and the latter three to the 7th brigade.

Camp Notes. The strength of the camp has increased to 2,210 men and 105 horses. The Army Service Corps will hold an afternoon of sports during this week. Major Langdon, connected with the Engineers of Toronto, is in camp. He will give a course in military engineering during the week.

The 6th Brigade will hold a singing concert some evening this week. Major Snelgrove is acting for the brigade. Col. John Hughes, in arranging the programme. The Roman Catholics in the camp are excellent hurdle jumpers, and while en route to church service, gave a splendid exhibition of their skill in this respect. In order to get out of the lines of the A.S.C., they were obliged to jump a hurdle, erected across the roadway, enclosing the A.S.C. lines.

All the Roman Catholics in camp were paraded together for service Sunday morning at the cathedral. It was noticed when they were crossing the barricaded bridge that their left elbows were covered with a white substance. On enquiry at the camp the cause of this whitening was discovered. The officer in charge of the church party had marched his men through the A.S.C. lines, and in the passage they had rubbed up against the bakery.

The officers of the 47th Regiment are like one happy family, and do not feel at all annoyed at the paltry remarks of the supposed critic who is in the camp, and is taking upon himself the responsibility of finding fault with the different regiments in camp. They do, however, resent the attempted reflection upon the commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Cox, who is one of the most painstaking C. O.'s in the history of the regiment. They emphatically deny any political complexion to the affair and consider very regrettable that such remarks should be made in a camp attempt to stir in political difference in such a harmonious regiment.

At the Y.M.C.A., two services were held yesterday. In the afternoon Rev. William Craig gave an interesting talk to a number of soldiers. In the evening, Lieut.-Col. Edwards, president of the Peterboro Y.M.C.A. was the speaker. The text was well filled, a notable feature being the large attendance of officers. It was a characteristic military talk and most appropriate spiritual lessons were drawn from soldier life. For twenty minutes he held the rapt attention of the men.

At St. Mary's Cathedral. Yesterday (the sixth Sunday after Pentecost) the commemoration of Sts. Peter and Paul was observed in St. Mary's cathedral. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Traynor. The archbishop presided on the throne, assisted by Rev. Dr. Salmon and Rev. Fr. Mea. The choir rendered the Sixth Tone mass in a very spirited manner. At the offertory, Miss Sullivan sang the "Ave Marie" (Bolham) very sweetly. Rev. Fr. Gray read the gospel, Mark viii, 1-9, but did not deliver an address. The altar was prettily decorated with flowers. In the evening vesper were sung, Rev. Fr. Traynor officiating.

A former well known resident of the city was before the police magistrate this morning on a charge of being drunk. This was his second appearance in three days as he was allowed to go on the same Saturday morning. The magistrate evidently decided that if his carousal should cost him more in dollars and cents, it might have a tendency toward reform, and a fine of $3 and costs or fifteen days in jail was imposed.

One of the soldiers in camp at Barriefield appeared on a charge of being drunk and creating a nuisance near the Barriefield bridge. The latter part of the charge was explained by a couple of his comrades-in-arms who were present during the alleged offence. The magistrate accepted their explanation and allowed the young man to go.

THE LORD'S DAY

STIRRING APPEAL FOR ITS DUE OBSERVANCE.

Canon Starr Condemns Sunday Excursions—Parents Err in Bringing Up Their Children to Be Lovers of Pleasure.

In St. George's cathedral on Sunday Canon Starr preached a stirring sermon on "Thirty-Seven Years of Our National Life," from the text, Deut. iv, 32. "Ask of the days that are past," and said it was good for a nation to keep its eye upon the future. It was equally good to keep its eye upon the past. The ancient Hebrews learned no more important lesson than to profit by the days that were gone, for it enabled them to correct mistakes, to appreciate their blessings, and to understand the principles of real development. One thing they learned above all others that when God was honored the nation prospered, but when God was forgotten, evils crept in and the nation decayed. The speaker then made a parallel with Canadian history, and gave a glowing description of the country's development since confederation. The act itself showed the spirit of statesmanship. Its framers were men of faith and vision, and as a result we look on a Canada no longer vexed by questions of race and creed, with her provinces like beads upon a string, but a united people, standing shoulder to shoulder in staunch belief that we had committed to our care, half a continent that was bound to play an important part in the world's future. The speaker despised those milk and water Canadians who were aping the imported article and lamenting they were native-born.

Canadian history, short though it was, was great. The spirit of our statesmen was shown in our soldiers; the spirit of our soldiers from the days of Wolfe to the war in Africa; and no story of pluck and endurance could excel that of the early pioneers and U. E. Loyalists, who, in patience and loneliness laid the foundation of the commonwealth. He believed, as the nineteenth century stood for the making of the United States, the twentieth will stand for the greatness of Canada. There is much to be done, and there are grave problems to be dealt with, in our imperial relationship, our race problem, and relations to our brethren across the line. No time has ever called Canadians to meet their duty, like the present. It was easy to criticize governments, policies, and corrupt politicians, but more evil was being done the country by parents who were bringing up their children to be "lovers of pleasure, more than lovers of God." Righteousness alone created a nation, and the growing disregard for the Lord's day was destroying the fear of God from before our eyes. Sunday excursions were a curse to the land. The Church of England had never followed fads or fancies in the keeping of Sunday; long prayers, long faces, and long sermons were unnecessary. The church had had simply set before her children that it was the Lord's day. And He had said, "Remember My day to keep it holy." There was no more distressing sign of the times than that of Canadian parents allowing their sons and daughters to devote the day to pleasure and self-indulgence. The speaker made a strong appeal that no Lord's day should pass without His blessing upon it, not only for their own soul's sake, but for the welfare of the nation which they loved.
