Abolishes Corporal Punishment And Creates Fund For Landless Finlanders-A Stirring Declaration.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 24.-Emperor Nicholas' manifesto on the birth of an heir to the throne, the text of which is published, abolishes corporal pun-ishment among the rural classes, and for the first offences among the sea and land forces; remits arrears owing to the state for the purchases of land and other direct imposts; sets apart $1,500,000 from the state funds to form an inalienable fund for the benefit of landless people of Finland; grants amnesty to those Finlanders who emigrated without authorization; remits the fines imposed upon the rural and urban communes of Finland which refused to submit to military conscription in 1902 and 1903, and also remits the fines imposed upon the Jewish communes in the cases of Jews avoiding military service. The manifesto provides for an allround reduction in sentences for common law offences, while a general amnesty is accorded in the case of all political offences with the exception of those in which murder has been

Man Tells How He Was Officially Buried.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.-Telling a remarkable story of how he was once officially buried and recorded dead in the health office of the district of Columbia, Lewis Alexander, an electrician, of New York, declared that with documents inherited from his foster mother, Mary Aomarolia, a wealthy negress, he would force his real father, a distinguished resident of Washington, to provide for him.

"Until five years ago," said Mr. Alexander, "my father supposed that all that was mortal of me rested beneath a little white stone marked with a cherub and the name 'Lewis' Alexander Almarolia.' But all that the coffin beneath that mound contains is the remnants of what more than twenty years ago was a doll.
