

MEN OF PROMINENCE (Use Peruna for Catarrh.)

F. Y. FITZPATRICK, M. C.

Hon. F. Y. Fitzpatrick, Congressman from Kentucky, writes from the National Hotel, Washington, D. C., as follows: "At the solicitation of a friend I used your Peruna and can cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone suffering with catarrh or who needs a good tonic."

Peruna is the remedy for catarrh. Almost everybody knows that by heredity and thousands know it by experience. What can be cured in the beginning in a week or two by using Peruna, if allowed to become chronic, may require months of faithful treatment. You had better take Peruna now for by and by you may be obliged to take it for some time in order to get well. Now the warmer days are not liable to catch fresh cold and delay your cure.

Hundreds of men of dignity and prominence from all over the United States endorse Peruna. No other remedy receives such convincing testimonials. Send for free book of testimonials. If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

ON LONG TRIP TWO MEN START ON 16,000 MILE VOYAGE.

English Sailors Are Off For South Australia In Quest Of Fortune And Relative-In A Small Boat.

London, Sept. 7.—Two men and a dog started from Brighton in a nine-ton ketch rigged boat on a 16,000 mile voyage to Broom, South Australia.

The daring voyagers were Messrs. Napper and Langford, and they are seeking fortune in the far famed pearl fishery. Both men are sailors by profession. Mr. Napper, who is the son of a well-known Brighton tradesman, has a record of 340,000 miles of voyage already to his credit, while Mr. Langford's total so far is 123,000 miles.

Their little vessel is a 9.66 tonner. She is named the Brighton, is forty feet long and eleven feet broad. Provisions for three months were stowed away, while three tanks contained over 200 gallons of fresh water.

The route will take the adventurous sailors via Madeira, Cape Verde, Ascension Islands, St. Helena, Cape Town and Fremantle. During their voyage from Cape Town to Fremantle—a run of 5,000 miles—they hope to touch at the lonely islands of St. Paul and Amsterdam in the Indian ocean.

A romantic interest attaches to the proposed visits to these islands. Over a year ago Mr. Horace Langford, a younger brother of the present voyager, left Bunbury, South Australia, for East London, Cape Colony, in a barque of 1,200 tons. The voyage should have been accomplished in six weeks, but neither the ship nor its crew has ever been heard of since.

Mr. Langford, Sr., believes it possible that the ship may have been wrecked on one of these lonely islands, and it is in hope of discovering his lost brother that the visit is to be made.

The cabin of the little vessel is wonderfully comfortable and commodious. It is fitted so that not an inch of room is wasted. Captain Napper and his mate spoke hopefully of their enterprise, and said they had no idea of failure.

Thousands of people witnessed the start and heartily cheered the two men as they started on their voyage. Captain Napper's dog, a large liver and white spaniel, barked loudly in response, as he sat in the bow of the little boat.

The Brighton, with her white body and short masts flying the Union Jack and a red flag, presented a very pretty sight as she started away from the pier. Falmouth was reached, it is expected, in about a week and there the voyagers will bid a final farewell to England.
