THE COUNTERFEIT TRIAL

The Wife Of Arrested Man Gives Evidence. Special to the Whig. Toronto, Sept. 19.—This morning at the trial at the session of Charles Higgins for alleged counterfeiting, Higgins wife gave evidence that when Higgins came home in May last, from Kingston, he was watched by the unknown man Quigley, from the station to his home, and that Quigley called frequently and offered him work. Hotel books produced showed that Quigley had been in the city for a month before Higgins arrived on the present charge, and C.P.R. Conductor B. McAllister swore that Quigley went east with him on the night train June 27th, the night Higgins was arrested. McAllister said he thought Quigley was a detective in Thiel's agency, Montreal, but this evidence was ruled out as not positive.

News Of Revival.

Verona, Sept. 19.—(To the Editor): It was my privilege to speak yesterday (Sunday), with Rev. Mr. Ferguson, in Verona. Mr. Ferguson is conducting special revival meetings and much good is resulting. Many have been blessedly saved, and the community is being stirred. The meetings, conducted afternoons and evenings, are being continued during this week, and probably longer. Congregations are larger and exceptionally attentive and interested. Quiet and restful Verona is being blessed and stirred into a still brighter and a purer life. Yours for right and holiness of truth, C. A. J.

Fell Dead Over Baby's Body.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 19.—"Good-bye, baby," said Jesse McDonough, last night as he stooped over his babe's crib to kiss the infant good-bye before going out for the evening. As the man stooped over a revolver fell from his hip pocket, struck the floor and exploded, sending a bullet through McDonough's heart. He fell dead across the crib, his life blood drenching the little one. His wife, standing near witnessed the tragedy. Rushing to the side of her husband, she found him dead. He had expired without a struggle.

Prof. Fiske gave many valuable presents to the university.

AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Harvest Thanksgiving—Sermon By Bishop-Elect Worrell.

To the fact that the annual harvest thanksgiving services at St. Paul's church were held a month earlier this year than last, was due the profusion of flowers with which the ladies of the congregation were enabled to beautify the structure on Sunday. The striking floral design, "The Gates Ajar," placed upon the baptismal font, a symbol of the entry afforded to the visible Church of God, through this sacred ordinance, was the courteous contribution of Thomas England, florist, as were also a portion of the other decorations so tastefully employed upon the occasion. Photographs of the church were obtained, previous to the removal of the decorations, and may be had of the wardens in behalf of the repair fund to which the offering was devoted.

Archdeacon Worrell, bishop-elect of Nova Scotia, preached at the morning service, taking his text from the third chapter of Ephesian. He referred to the splendid position of Canada and all the blessings that had come upon her. He showed her shameful neglect must be given to a personal God. Who had given whatever we have and how that thankfulness must be shown in the church by offering up ourselves to His service. He referred to the splendid thanksgiving services of the Jewish church arranged by God Himself, and to the service of thanksgiving appointed by our Lord in the Christian church as the holy eucharist. The thanksgiving must be real and liberal offerings made for the work which God has given people the means to carry on. The bishop-elect appealed to the people of St. Paul's to be true to their trust and keep their splendid heritage worthy witness of Christ in the community.

The Faith Once Delivered.

The Dean of Ontario preached at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday morning, upon "The Faith." Christianity had grown for twenty centuries, and yet many were yet groping in the truth and failing to find it in their own way. They seek it in the Scriptures alone, evolving such differing views that the great book becomes discredited, and they become irreligious. They were not realizing the all-essential fact that the faith possessed the faith and were confident and happy, in that it was "once and for all" delivered unto them. Christianity was the religion of a personality. Our Lord created a society, forming his followers into a community, and making it "upon this rock" He founded it. If this was denied, then His great mission must be denied, since through it all knowledge and power had been made known. As the New Testament did not come first, and the church be built upon it, our Lord sent men to baptize and to convert, and long after that the "councils and epistles were framed. Faith was a definite thing, and our Lord the definite object, the Bible the testament of the faith.

St. Luke's Church.

Rev. G. B. Ward, M.A., of Essex, Ont., preached in this church morning and evening. Two fine sermons were given, that in the evening on the healing of blind Bartimeus, was particularly able and scholarly. The morning sermon was on the raising of the widow of Nain's son, was most interesting and practical. The choir, under Mr. Medley's leadership, is doing excellent work. Next Sunday the harvest services will be held.

A Great Fish.

James Stratford, the local taxidermist, has on exhibition in his window a salmon trout stuffed and mounted, which is one of the largest of its kind ever seen in this locality. Very Successful Season.

The steamer Argyle arrived in the city Saturday afternoon after a very successful season on her route from Toronto and Rochester, to north and south Lake Ontario ports. The steamer is now controlled by a stock company, of which William H. Hallett of this city is president, and John Havelock, Jr., secretary treasurer. The Argyle will go into winter quarters at the dry dock slip.

Of For Ottawa.

The excursion to Ottawa on the steamer Rideau Queen, this afternoon, did not carry a very large crowd from Kingston. There were only about a dozen passengers boarded the steamer here, but it is expected that many will go from Rideau ports. The touch of cold weather experienced during the past few days has evidently dissuaded people from trips by water.

A New Device.

Premier Giolitti has postponed a journey to Raconigi, which he had intended to make for the purpose of extending his personal congratulations on the birth of the crown prince.

One person was killed and several were badly hurt in a collision with soldiers at Genoa, where the strikers prevented the departure of trains. Railway tracks were also torn up near Boverato. No trains left Milan on Sunday night."

OTTAWA GAMBLING CHARGES.

Two Arrests Made, And Other Sensational Happenings. Special to the Whig. They were to appear to-day, the expectation being that the case would be enlarged.

A resignation on the Ottawa force, a dismissal, and the rumored calling for Chief Powell's resignation, are only a few of the incidents that have arisen as a result of the famous gambling charges, brought on by Hal Walters, well known to local football players.

The men worked for some time after the accustomed hour for dinner and Green went to the house to determine the cause of the delay. He was horrified to find the lifeless body of his wife stretched out near the bell. Her head was terribly cut and her skull broken by the force of the blow.

REQUIRE 250,000 COOLIES.

This Sort Of Labor Will Not Be Detrimental.

Montreal Gazette. "There is work in the mines of the Transvaal and Orange River colonies for at least a quarter of a million of Chinese coolies, and I may add that there will be work for them for the next half century."

This statement was made yesterday by W. R. Wilson, now general manager of the Imperial Coal and Coke Company of British Columbia, but who was engaged until quite recently in South African mining operations.

Mr. Wilson appears to have on his finger ends the whole mining situation of the African land, and he disposes of the claim that the policy of importing coolie labor was detrimental to the Boers in the Transvaal, or even the colored laborers. He declares that there were at present from eighty to a hundred thousand "boys" for that is the name given to the colored people who are available to work in the mines of that country. Years ago these "boys" were employed by contract for so many years, but their habits having changed, they cannot be induced to do this now; consequently their time is irregular, for when they earn a few pounds they like to work on the land. Therefore, no more than 100,000 of these boys can be counted upon and work can be secured for coolies to the extent of a quarter of a million.

Mr. Wilson has just received a letter from a friend in South Africa saying that the first batch of three thousand coolies had been sent to work, and are giving satisfaction, hence the desire to secure more. He adds that the East Indian coolie is too frail for the underground work, and that the Chinese suit a great deal better. They are paid two shillings a day, and besides their time is regular, for when they earn a few pounds they like to work on the land. Therefore, no more than 100,000 of these boys can be counted upon and work can be secured for coolies to the extent of a quarter of a million.

Mr. Wilson says the output last year reached £17,000,000, and that the required number of coolies can be secured there is no doubt but the value of the gold output can soon be increased from £45,000,000 to £50,000,000.

"Yes," he replied, "there need be no trouble between the 'boys' and the coolies, as all the mine owners need to do is to keep them apart."

"What about the claim that the coolie importation will work to the detriment of the Boers?" "Impossible," for the reason that the Boers work as skilled white men and receive from twenty to twenty-five shillings a day."

Mr. Wilson says that to-day there are £180,000,000 invested in South African mines and mining property, about one-half being British investment. Out of the £180,000,000, some £50,000,000 are invested in mines open development and purchase of new properties, all of the latter being tied up for want of unskilled labor. Should this required unskilled labor be available by the importation of the quarter of a million coolies, there is, he said, no reason in the world why the annual output of the South African mines should not very soon reach the annual sum of £50,000,000.

Proceeding to speak of the extent of the mines, Mr. Wilson says that the present properties as now developed, will last forty or fifty years, and that the extent of fifty miles or more already described, will double the time required to work out these productive reefs. They extend north-east and south-west of Johannesburg.

A Boy And A Girl.

I saw them one eve in the twilight. Down there where the river flows; The picture was so big and now— How a lad or a lassie grow— The wee little wee towee, gir— And never a freckle above a hair. On the face of a youth who, bending his head, Gives a fair-headed maiden a rose.

I saw them again in the sunshine, And whatever you suppose? Between them and about them there rumped And clung to their clothes. A wee little wee towee, gir— And a boy with two stubbed toes. A wee little wee towee, gir— And a boy with a freckled nose.

DEED AT NANANEE.

A Well-Known Man Passed Away. Nananee, Sept. 19.—The death occurred on Saturday evening, at nine o'clock, of Zara Vanulven, father of Z. A. Vanulven, jailer of Nananee. The deceased had been ill only about two weeks of kidney trouble, and his death was a shock to his many friends. He was in his seventy-seventh year. Last spring he and his wife returned from spending two years in California with their son, Earl, and Mr. Vanulven had purchased a home on Bridge street and had the repairing about completed, where he expected to spend the remainder of his days in his native land. Mr. Vanulven taught school in his younger days and, later, he conducted a general store at Moscow, where he was known far and wide for his uprightness and obliging ways.

When he returned from California in the spring he made the remark that he was homesick for the sight of his old neighbors and friends at Moscow and could hardly wait until he was rested before going among them again. He was a man of sterling qualities, and the most hospitable of neighbors and will be mourned for a long time by friends in and around Moscow. A family of four sons survive as well as his widow. The sons are Z. A. Vanulven, Nananee; Earl, of Colton, California; and Egerton and Everton, of Moscow.

A short service was held at the home of his son Z. A. Vanulven, yesterday, at two o'clock and the remains were taken to Moscow for interment this afternoon.
