NEW YORK NEWS.

A BUDGET OF THE LATEST EPISODES

A Trite Old Saying—The Hair Crop Of The Country—Senator Hill's Patience And Good Nature.

It is the old saying "Out of sight, out of mind." It is difficult for those who remember the illustrious power in New York city, who by "Rich and Croker" in very few years ago, to realize the almost utter indifference with which he has been received the news that he is coming back to New York shortly after the election. Ever since Mr. Croker abdicated as chief of the Tammany society, it has been the hope of the city that he would return to New York and exercise control of the organization. When he retired there was general speculation that he was sincere in his stated intention to abandon politics for good, but as the repeated rumors of his intended return failed miserably, the city leaders of Tammany, who chafed under his iron rule, have gained courage to seek, at the old boss without fear of being lashed for their disloyalty. Leaders of all parties and politicians are now convinced that Mr. Croker has no intention of taking command of the city, and the authoritative announcement from Mayor Van Wyck, who is one of the ex-chiefs' closest friends, that Mr. Croker will visit New York, caused hardly a ripple in the language of the city. Mr. Croker is a "has been" in politics, and it is considered extremely doubtful that he could gain control of Tammany again, even if he made the effort. The fact that he is not coming until after the election indicates that he has no intention of taking part in politics. Mr. Croker paid his last visit to America about three years ago, when he remained for only a few months. It was during the exciting municipal campaign and he engineered the fight against Low. When that campaign was over Mr. Croker returned to England, where he has a fine estate and is leading the life of a country gentleman.

The residents of Riverside Drive, who have had the walls of their houses cracked and the foundations settle under the almost constant vibration of the ground due to the blasting across the river, have generally contributed to a fund being raised by the West End association to abate the noise, blasting and chemical fumes nuisance to which Riverside Drive has been subjected for years by individuals and corporations doing business on the Jersey street of the Hudson, opposite 104th street. Three attorneys have been retained, and the papers are now being made ready in an action at law, to be heard in the courts of New Jersey. The marble of Grant's tomb and of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument is turning black from the soot of the Jersey soot coal smoke, and the individual subscribers to the West End association fund are of the opinion that the city authorities should get in concert with the association in order to put an end to the defacing of these public monuments and the deterioration of the park as a garden spot and playground.

The largest dealers in human hair in New York, who practically supply the hair crop for the entire country, are authority for the statement that the demand for this commodity was never as great as it is at present. The result is that the price of all shades of styles of human hair is rapidly soaring. There has been an advance in the price of finest hair of from thirty to fifty per cent, within the last three months. The present indications are, judging from the size of the crop being imported, that there will be a still further advance in prices during the winter months. One dealer said this week that it is almost impossible to supply the demand for first-class gray hair. A wig of gray human hair of fine quality is worth its weight in silver, or perhaps even in gold.

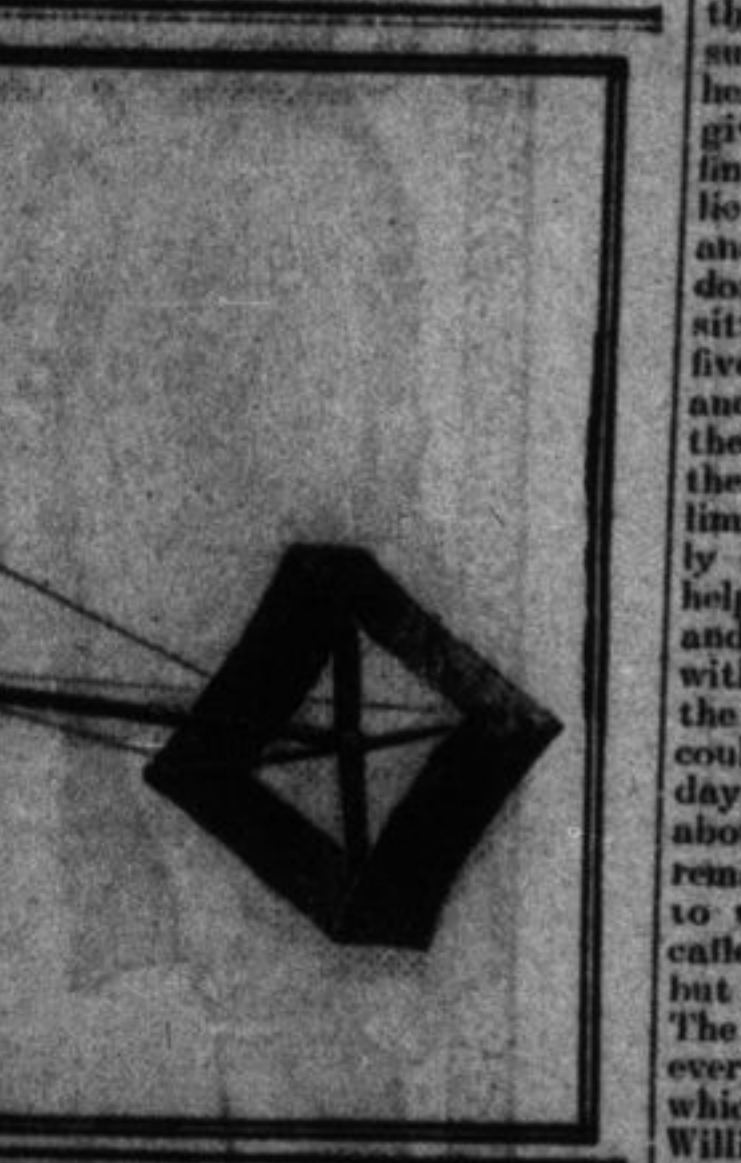

Former Senator Hill's political methods may be open to criticism, but he must be given credit for patience and good nature, in view of the lack of resentment he shows for the numerous baseless stories that have been published about him of late. Not long ago Mr. Hill had the misfortune of having an entire speech written for him by an up-state reporter, in which he was represented as having called President Roosevelt a "fraud." The speech and the sentiments attributed to Mr. Hill were both factitious. But long ago a letter to an organization of commercial travelers, purporting to come from Mr. Hill, was published. This letter misrepresented Mr. Hill's attitude, and he was compelled to deny it. Then came the story that he was to "wed" Miss May Irwin, the actress, and a few days later the papers carried an illustrated story that Mr. Hill had been annoyed the previous evening while attending the theatre by a woman with a "theatre hat," who sat in front of him, and obstructed his view of the stage. He said there was no truth in the report. He does not betray any resentment against the authors of the papers, which have been imposed upon, but he is surprised at the number of inventions and the fertility of the inventors.

The race meeting now in progress is perhaps the last to be held at the famous Morris Park course. The work on Belmont Park is progressing rapidly, and it is positively stated that this year's magnificent race course, the finest in the world, will be ready for a spring meeting next year. When the dates are allotted, the Jockey Club will, it is said, give Belmont Park an assignment that will be a large, if not larger, than the one formerly enjoyed by the Westchester track. With this fact assured, naturally the question arises, "Will Morris Park receive dates from the Jockey Club for the usual spring and fall meetings?"

New York druggists are saying unkind things about a local magistrate who decided that a Third Avenue pharmacist had no right to charge $1 for his trouble in arising from his bed in the middle of the night and supplying a customer with five cents worth of mustard and the use of the telephone may station. It is argued that if physicians charge higher rates for after- bedtime service, druggists should have the same right.

The Army and Navy Club has bought two plots of ground on West Forty-third street as a site for a new clubhouse. When the building is finished the club will have a structure with a twenty-five or thirty sleeping rooms, a large cafe, living room, billiard room and bowling alleys. This will be the fourth move made necessary by the increasing membership of this organization during its fifteen years of existence.

MUCH PLEASED.

With His New Flying Machine.
Paris, Oct. 8.—Sir Hiram Maxim is greatly pleased with his newest of flying machines. Metcalf Wood's daring experiment on Maxim's latest invention, the aeroplane, makes one more step in the world's history. The perfection of this machine means aerial flight for human beings, which will be of incalculable use in war and for scouting. The speed of Mr. Wood's first flight during several moments was one hundred miles an hour at a height of from seventy to ninety feet in the air. When two journeys had been safely accomplished Sir Hiram Maxim attached a steering handle, connected by rope to the kite-like rubber, to the aeroplane, and Mr. Wood was able to direct his own course as a bird's flight is steered by the angle of the wings.

Great Find For Russia.

At this critical time, when Russia is straining herself to bear the enormous expenses of the war, the discovery of laboriously rich radium mines in Siberia comes like a godsend. The radium was found by a number of scientists sent out by the government to explore the district of Nerchinsk, on the other side of Lake Baikal. The mines are located near the village of Urochskaya, are valued at many hundred millions of roubles, and as they are located on land belonging to the government they may bring enough to pay the cost of the war.

B. A. Bongard, second officer of the steamer Corona, of the Niagara River line, was surprised at the close of the season by the officers and crew presenting him with a valuable gold watch. Mr. Bongard has been on the Corona for five years.

ABOUT THAT COAT

You wear a coat. Why? To keep the cold out? No; to keep the warmth in. What of the body that has no warmth—the thin, poor body that lacks the healthy flesh and fat it needs? For such we say that Scott's Emulsion provides the right kind of a coat. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion builds firm, solid flesh and supplies just enough fat to fill nature's requirements—no more. That means bodily warmth.

JOY SUCCEEDS DESPAIR

IN THE HOME OF JOSEPH HILTON, THOROLD, ONT.

His Daughter, Florence, Was All But Dead From Dropsy—Her Doctor Had Given Her Up—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Were Then Used, And To-Day She Is Well And Strong.

From the Post, Thorold, Ont.
Everybody believes in a dramatic sort of recovery from dropsy, and wisely advertised medicine, when the recorded cases of restored health are at a distance; but when a case comes up in the home town, when the patient is known to everyone, and when the cure is not only positive but marvellous, the efficacy of the medicine becomes a fact—a decided thing. For many years the Post has advertised Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People; large quantities of them have been sold by the local drug stores, and many remarkable cures have been effected. One of these attracted the attention of our reporter and he investigated.

Success Certain.
The government is going to be sustained in the election. It is only a question of majority. Every vote has shown also that it is Frontenac's friend. Shibley should be returned by a substantial majority.

Attention of our reporter and he investigated. Miss Florence Hilton, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Joseph and Mrs. Hilton, living in the west part of the town, was taken ill early last summer with dropsy, coupled with heart trouble. She was compelled to give up one duty after another, and finally became unable to walk or lie down. Her suffering was intense and medical skill did all that could be done. Florence, however, grew worse, sitting in her chair day and night for five long months. At last, however, the doctor gave her up and said she could not live till morning. But to-day she is alive and well, moving about among her young companions a remarkable and miraculous contrast to what she then was. The reporter called one evening at the Hilton home, but Miss Florence was out visiting. The father and mother were in, however, and freely told him of the cure, which they attribute entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The first box was brought to her by her grandmother, who used the same. Then Mrs. Hilton herself remembered and she had the previous winter been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills of a slight attack of dropsy, and also remembered the many cures advertised in the Post. She bought two boxes and Florence took them, three pills at a dose. In two weeks she felt a decrease in the pain in her limbs, and more pills were procured. For five months—five long pain-laden months—the weary girl had sat day and night in her chair, but now she began to feel the pain leaving her, and to see her limbs resume their natural size. Fourteen boxes of the pills were taken and at last her perseverance was rewarded. She rose from her chair; her strength gradually came back; one by one her household duties were taken up again; and when the Post representative called he was met by beaming faces and thankful hearts and a grateful readiness to give to the world the facts that had saved a bright young life and had brought joy instead of grief to a Thorold home.

First Love.

The cause is all. And life, indeed, is not.
The thing we planned it out 'ere hope was
And then we women cannot choose our lot.
Much must be borne, which it is hard to bear.
Much given away, which it were sweet to keep.
God help us all! who need, indeed, His care.
And yet I know the Shepherd loves his sheep.
Upon my knee his earliest infant prayer;
My little boy begins to babble now.
He has his father's eyes, and I, I know.
And, they say, too, his mother's sunny hair.

But when he sleeps and smiles upon my knee,
And I can feel his light breath come and go,
I think of one—Heaven help and pity me.
Who loved me, and whom I loved long ago.

Who might have been—ah, what, I dare not think.
We all are changed, God judgeth for the best.
God help us to do our duty and not shrink.
And trust in Heaven humbly for the rest.
But blame us women not if some appear
Too cold at times and some too gay and light.
Some grieve, and some are hard to please,
Who know the past, and who can judge the right?

A CURE OF THE People's Price.
My kidneys bothered me for some time. I was unable to do any work. I tried many pills, but they did not help me. I then bought Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills, and after taking a few boxes I was cured. I can now do my work as usual. I am very grateful to you for the discovery of these pills. JOHN D. MAIN, 125 St. James St., Montreal.

JEWEL OF A SEXTON.

A Popular Brooklyn Church Possesses The Lady.

"A. Hewes, Sexton," is upon a card affixed to one of the doors of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., a picturesque, ivy-grown edifice in the Hiss section. Inquire for the sexton and a tall Scotchwoman appears. Women are making their way in nearly every profession and trade in the big cities, from lawyer to carpenter; but the woman sexton is a novelty. But the spotless church, the strength and reliability stamped on the face of this sexton impress the visitor, and the well brushed pew cushions, the dustless book-racks, clean tiled pavement and shining windows prove that she is capable and industrious.

"Ye can see the buttons, can't ye?" she asked in broad Scotch, as the visitor's eye glanced down admiringly at the pew cushions. "That's what some people say about my cushions; it is nae that ye can't see the buttons for the dust, I feel as if I was just in my glory in this church; I love it, and I love to take care of it. This is a big church, for all people call it 'the Little Church on Pacific street.' There's a lot of people in it, a fine church, for a wedding party. It sort of decorates itself, and then it has such a fine aisle for the pearly to walk it. Do I stay around by the door when the wedding parties come in? Eh, of course. A woman can do many things for a wedding party, such as setting the bride's train right, just as she goes up the aisle. How do I do with funerals? I'm here, just the same. Sometimes it is funerals and weddings the same day. A sight o' trouble some of the weddings make when the jardins must be brought in—the 'dishes' I call 'em—and some of the flowers come with water. I dinna forget the first time I cleaned this pavement," she said, indicating the marble floor of the chancel, "how those who carry up the collection stood and looked down at it. They could see me, and they were in the church, too, yet never had seen the pattern before."

Through wide halls and vestibules, into infant school and adult children's Sunday school rooms, auxiliary guild, rolling and choir rooms, and parlor's study, the sexton led the way, and every place was as clean as Spotless Town. St. Bartholomew's Church and annex are seldom unattended. Sunday services and Sunday schools, choir rehearsals and altar guild meetings, saint day services, weddings and funerals, rehearsals for weddings, early morning communion services, fairs and vestry meetings follow each other closely. Yet the woman sexton is equal to the demands made upon her. "I use an initial instead of my Christian name," she said, "because nobody can tell by looking whether the name is meant for Anna or Andrew, and some folks have not yet become used to a woman sexton."
