In giving satisfaction to our customers."

Lady—"I'm glad to hear it. I have a box of one of the so-called 'just as good as 2 in 1' polishes," and it is no good. It's a pleasure to deal with a house that sells what you want."

Shoe Clerk—"Well, madam, I would be very foolish to try to sell substitutes, for '2 in 1' is the best shoe polish made."

NEW YORK NEWS

A BUDGET FROM THE YANKEE METROPOLIS.

Effort To Abolish Debtors Prison—Danger To Washington's Old Headquarters At White Plains—A Prima Donna Who Stays At Home.

Special to the Whig. New York, Oct. 22.—Supported by nearly all of the leading lawyers of New York, Sheriff DeLanger will make an effort to have the next legislature abolish that relic of medievalism, the debtors' prison of New York, by repealing the law permitting arrests in civil cases. The sheriff hopes that a sufficiently strong public sentiment can be aroused in support of the measure before the present term meets into office the civil suit prisoners were treated as if they were convicted criminals. Now, they are well fed their cells, or, rather, rooms, are comfortable and neat, and they are free to come and go as they please within the boundaries of the prison. The case with which a person can be put in jail here for debt makes no man secure against the debtors' prison, and once within its walls, there is no chance of escape unless one submits to the demands of the sharp practice man and the blackmailer. It is occasionally a matter of life imprisonment for no crime.

SHE IS SIXTY. Mme. Bernhardt Has Reached Good Age.

Special to the Whig. Paris, Oct. 22.—It seems difficult to realize that Mme. Bernhardt, the "Divine Sarah," who has just returned from a most triumphant engagement in London, is three score years old. Such is the fact, however. The great actress having first seen the light of day just sixty years ago, today, at 5 Rue de L'Ecôle de Médecine, in this city. Her mother was a pupil of Prévost and Sarrasin. In two years she gained the second prize for tragedy, and the next year the same for comedy.

SCOTTISH STORIES. Some Of The Latest Ones Out.

Scottish highland retainers, when made to do duty as servants, are said to show a very stolid, matter-of-fact kind of obedience. A Mr. Campbell, a highland gentleman, visiting a country house, told Donald to bring everything out of the bedroom, meaning his personal belongings. "But five minutes later he found all its movable articles—fender, fire-irons and the like—piled up in the lobby, so literal was the poor man's sense of obedience to orders! And of this he gave a still more extraordinary proof during his sojourn in Edinburgh. When the family moved into a house there, Mrs. Campbell gave him very particular instructions regarding visitors, explaining they were to be shown into the drawing-room, and used the Scottishism, "Carry any ladies that call upstairs." The first visitors were two women who came at the same time. Donald seized one in his arm, said to the other, "Bide ye there till I come for ye," and in spite of her struggles and remonstrances ushered the terrified visitor into Mrs. Campbell's presence.

A Prince Of A Boy. Sir Walter Raleigh's chivalrous action in throwing his cloak on the ground for his queen's sake, is recalled by an instance of a small boy's generosity.

A little girl, who was standing on a very cold morning in one of the poorer districts of Edinburgh, waiting among the other poor children, to gain admittance into a hall, where a meal was to be given to them. It was bitterly cold, and the little girl shivered violently and tried in vain to keep her bare feet warm. A ragged little urchin who was standing near observed her, and taking off his cap, and laying it at her feet, said: "Here, lassie, stand on my bonnet till the door opens."

WRECKED ORGAN. Vandal Afterward Says Drink Caused Act.

London, Oct. 20.—Two extraordinary cases of sacrilege, having features in common, are reported from different parts of the country. The caretaker of Christ church, West Bromwich, hearing a noise in the organ, found a man named Arthur Coates in the interior of the instrument, surrounded by the wreckage of the mechanism. He assured the official that he had received divine instructions to do the damage. The great organ was practically stripped, and the communications between the keys and other pipes had been broken. The caretaker locked Coates in the church and went for the police.
