thrown out of employment. The conflagration had its origin in the basement of the south-east corner, in a room used for the storage of paints and oils. Shortly before whistle sounded for the completion of the day's work a boy of one of the departments, carrying a lantern, entered the oil-house. In less than a minute he came running out, with his face and hands badly burned, saying that an explosion had occurred, oils in some way having become ignit-ed. The inflammable liquids were an easy prey to the flames, which spread

Scarcely anything was saved from the factory. The office books were got out, together with a few papers, beyond these and a number of wheels removed from an adjoining department everything went up in smoke: The factory was a five-storey building, built of brick. The company was bonused about fourteen years ago for $50,000 by the town, and had grown to be a thriving industry. More than 300 men are thrown out of emploment, and the loss will net about a list of the companies interested. This makes the third big industry the scene at the time of the negotia- years, the others being the Cossitt factory and the wringer works.

Everybody Must Register. The registration in October for the Dominion election does not serve for the ensuing Provincial contest. All who were not on the lists for Monday's municipal contest, and who are of age, and have lived in Ontario for a year, and want to vote, must register.
