The deciding game in the Beechgrove trophy series was played at Lockwood rink last night, between the Y.M.C.A. team and Young Rockwoods. The game was a good, clean exhibition of hockey, and only two men, one from each side, were ruled off by Referee Vanhorn. The game was witnessed by a fairly large crowd of spectators. A feature of the game was the work of Goodwin, in goal for the Y.M.C.A., who stopped many dangerous shots. Potter and A. Davidson did the most of the scoring for the winners. Metcalfe and Munnell were the most effective for the losing team. The half time score was 2 to 0 for Rockwoods, but in the second half the play was more even, and both teams scored two more goals. The trophy will be presented to the winning team at a meeting of the league executive which will probably be held next week. The first season of the Beechgrove trophy series was won by the Y.M.C.A. team.

Mr. Travers addressed the merchants on the objects of the association. There were now over 50 branches. The organization was one that retailers could not afford to be without. Their interests required to be protected, just as those of other classes. The speaker showed the beneficial legislation the manufacturers had got by being organized. The farmers still more. But what had the retailers got in eighteen years? Practically nothing, and because they kept their money in circulation and built up the local trade. This was not the case in Canada. Mr. Travers spoke of municipal taxation and of trading stamps. The latter were opposed by the Retail Association, and next Thursday a deputation of 500 merchants from all over Canada would interview Sir Wilfrid Laurier to ask that trading stamps be made illegal. Then the retailers in the division court. Kingston merchants are very eager for this change. Other laws that the retailers wanted were the Transient Traders and Peddlers Act, which was unfair, and also to have the fees taken off of Weights and Measures inspection. The retailers had been the sufferers from the latter law. They had suffered for a long time. By working together could they get their rights.

"Pretty Peggy," Monday Night.

This play here on Monday night deals with the interesting love romance of Peg Woffington and David Garrick, beginning at the time when Peg, scarcely more than a child, was "Swaged" (theatrical) London. Miss Corcoran, herself but just a "bit of a teen," is admirably fitted to the part of the young actress. Her success in the part has been most pronounced. The supporting company includes Andrew Robinson and a number of other prominent players.

Dr. Munnell stated that the body when examined by him was closely wrapped in two overcoats which had been removed. In the inside pocket of his undercoat were found pieces of shattered flask which had evidently been broken in the accident. The contents of the flask was evident by the fact that it was empty. It was known as to this. The two overcoats, which both overcoats were closely buttoned would not suggest that the deceased had been drinking from the flask. The jury adjourned to the police court room, where further evidence was submitted.

Mr. Travers dealt with various questions affecting the retailers. He showed how it was impossible to keep a town shop by home and not abroad as many retailers got in eighteen years? Practically nothing, and because they kept their money in circulation and built up the local trade. This was not the case in Canada. Mr. Travers spoke of municipal taxation and of trading stamps. The latter were opposed by the Retail Association, and next Thursday a deputation of 500 merchants from all over Canada would interview Sir Wilfrid Laurier to ask that trading stamps be made illegal. Then the retailers in the division court. Kingston merchants are very eager for this change. Other laws that the retailers wanted were the Transient Traders and Peddlers Act, which was unfair, and also to have the fees taken off of Weights and Measures inspection. The retailers had been the sufferers from the latter law. They had suffered for a long time. By working together could they get their rights.

Thomas Hughes gave evidence as to seeing Dobbs several times during the day of the accident, and stated that he had left his machine shop on his way home, shortly after four o'clock. There was nothing wrong with the man when he last saw him. The weight of the machinery in the sleigh, the high snow banks at the crossing said the witness, would prevent a person seeing an approaching train.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Kingston, March 4.—(To the Editor): Would you please insert the following for the benefit of those interested in Bible reading, and to those who are poor, it will occupy some of their time to go to the library. I probably start them reading the Bible instead of doing things that they should not do. These are the questions—

Who was the man that found the mules in the wilderness when he was feeding his father's asses, and what was his father's name?
What was the name of the Philistine who said to King David: Am I a dog?
On what mountain did Aaron die?
Who was Moses when he died?
A FRIEND.
