ENERGY AT LOW COST. An alderman in Buffalo is authorizing the statement that the cost of producing electric power at Niagara Falls is about $3 per horse-power. He contends further that the power can be transmitted to the city line of Buffalo at 25 per horse-power, and leaving a margin for profit, the cost then should not be over $10 per horse-power. The statisticians say that one horse-power is sufficient to run a street lamp, for which the city pays $75 per year.

The matter is only quoted in order to recall a circumstance upon which Mr. Craig dwelt at the last municipal election. He pointed out that the issue of greatest importance in Kingston was cheap power. There was no attraction to equal it. So he suggested that the men in office, in public life, should concentrate their minds upon developing energy at a rate which would make it use a great consideration.

At what cost can the power be produced? It is the question of the hour. The machinery that it drives by steam may never accomplish the desired end. The water falls can be harnessed, and the force that is going to waste may be turned to good account. These falls are near to Kingston and though there has been much talk about them they have never been valued by the city for the benefits they may confer.

There is, however, another article that, though not as common as water is cheap enough, and capable of large application in the way of power. The experiments in St. Louis should invite the attention of our aldermen, for if energy can be generated from oil at less than a cent, a kilo-watt the minimum of cost has been reached.

The city has an industrial committee and it is anxious to advertise the city. In what way? That it is a desirable place to live in, quiet, painlessly so, and free from the noise and commotion of traffic? Or that it is a place where power can be got at a price which it can be used freely in manufacturing, and the hum of business is heard on every hand. The industrial committee should take up and discuss the power question.

WHERE THE MATTER STANDS. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been presented in an arbitrary light by the correspondents who have noted his reply to Mr. Borden on the autonomy bill. The leader of the opposition has been inquisitive for political reasons. He wanted to know what the premier was doing so that he might shape his course accordingly. Sir Wilfrid has been very when questioned for doubtful effects. But he has been quite candid with those who have been seeking the truth in order that it may set them free.

It seems that he has been receiving many letters from friendly sources, and that he has replied to them and stated his position on the school question. To one, in St. Thomas, a liberal of the George Brown kind, he writes, going back to the union of the provinces, and giving the compromise that was then reached respecting the minority schools in Ontario and Quebec. It was amended afterwards, and in section 93 of the British North America Act. It provides that the legislatures shall deal exclusively with education, but that nothing in any law they may pass, shall prejudicially affect any privileges with respect to denominational schools which any class of persons have at the time of the union.

Coming to the question of to-day he asks if Alberta and Saskatchewan and Quebec and Ontario under the same circumstances? The schools in the North-West Territories are not ecclesiastical schools, but practically national schools. All teachers pass the same examinations; the schools are visited by the same inspectors; the books are chosen and approved by the same board of public instruction, and all secular matters are under its control. Tuition is in the English language. At 3:30 religious instruction is given in the separate schools, according to rules made by the trustees, but attendance at this instruction is not compulsory.

The great objection to separate schools, he said, it would divide our citizens, but if the same education is given in what is called 'separate schools,' as in all other schools, I fail to see what objection there is to such a system. I approach this subject in the same spirit as it was dealt with by the leaders of the liberal party when I was a young lawyer student in Montreal, and Confederation was discussed. Thus spoke the premier.

DEATH LIKE LIFE

Absence of Rigidity Puzzles a Medical Man.

London, March 9.—A case in which a medical man was for a time incredulous that death had taken place has occurred at Green. When her mother went into her bedroom at midnight on Saturday, she found Annie Jones looking out of the window. A moment afterwards she fell dead. A medical man was summoned. He made an examination, but so feeble was the appearance of the body that he doubted for a while whether death had really claimed the girl. The doctor explained to the coroner and the jury at the inquest yesterday that the absence of rigidity and other signs of dissection caused his doubt. The coroner said it was most remarkable, and asked the doctor, in view of the many cases where living people have been pronounced dead, whether he was quite certain now. He doubted no longer, said the medical man, and he added that he believed a chill, which induced syncope, struck the woman when she got out of bed. After the inquest the relatives asked for a further examination of the body, and the two medical men who conducted it found incontestable proofs of death.

Children Are Underfed The Result Is Weakness, Rickets, St. Vitus' Dance And Many Ills Of Childhood—The Cure Is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

"Nine-tenths of children are underfed," writes a great English scientist who made an exhaustive study of the subject.

Children require double nourishment—to enable them to grow, as well as to repair the wear and tear consequent on living.

Active exercise of mind and body, together with growth and physiological changes, consume nerve force at a tremendous rate, exhaust the supply of rich blood and leave the body weak and liable to disease.

Palpitations, weakness, weak eyes, nervousness, skin diseases, rickets, St. Vitus' Dance and constant liability to catch cold and to contract the disease of childhood are the result.

As a means of restoring the vitality of weak, puny children there is no preparation so effective as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Being mild and gentle in action and powerful as a creator of new, rich blood and nerve force, this great food cure is admirably suited to the needs of childhood, soon adds new firm flesh and tissue to the weak and emaciated body and restores the vigor of robust childhood.

There is no means by which nourishment is so directly supplied to the blood and nerves as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because this preparation is composed entirely of the elements of nature which are required to build up and restore strength to the system.

Mrs. T. Dalzell, 21 Charles street, Kingston, Ont., states: "One of my children suffered very much with headache, caused no doubt from over-study and a run-down condition of the nervous system. These attacks of headache were very trying on her and I noticed that she was gradually growing weaker and more nervous. About two months ago I got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and since she has been using this preparation we are more than pleased with the improvement which has been made in her health. She has lost one hundred per cent. better, her nerves are steadier, she is not bothered with headaches and is gradually increasing in flesh and weight."
