Bazaars have been time again held by St. Andrew's, Chalmers, St. Mary's and churches in the hall, and none of the thought the rent was exorbitant, and neither it is. I hope the city council will not take any heed of archdeacon's plea until there is more general protest. They might. however, raise the rental for outside organizations.-CITIZEN.

Mr. Kirkpatrick Inconsistent. Kingston, March 21 .- (To the Edit er) : Is Prof. A. K. Kirkpatrick not ouncil to allow him to tender for milding the granolithic walks? When he was city engineer he always advised the city not to have its per-manent walks built by contract. He might have given the board of works some explanation of his new attitude.-MERCHANT.

A Test Question. Kingston, March 25 .- (To the Editr): During a recent school case, in which a teacher's ability was under consideration, the teacher often referred to the pupils reaching the colle-giate from our public schools unpre-pared in arithmetic. While he admitted that many pupils were quite proficient in working problems, by a given rule, they could not solve anything where the pupils had to reason it out for themselves.

A parent bearing this statement often, and taking no stock in it, was knocked out when his own child, in the senior fourth (entrance) class, brought home, last Friday, a simple question which she could not do. The question which she could not do. The parent then gave it to a pupil attending the collegiate, but she could not work it. The question is given herewith; let some of the parents make a test with their children:
