WERE IN KINGSTON. COUPLE ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY TO MURDER.

Stayed at British-American Hotel Last Month for Several Weeks—They Did Not Register Under Their Proper Names. J. Morgan Smith and wife, who have been arrested in Cincinnati in connection with the sensational case of Nan Patterson, the actress, charged with murdering Caesar Young, the bookmaker in New York, spent two weeks at the British-American Hotel, Kingston. They registered at that hotel as "W. A. Adams and wife, London, Eng."

It was Smith who was said to have purchased the revolver with which Nan Patterson shot Young, and as soon as the revolver was identified, Smith left New York, and came to Montreal. District Attorney Jerome, of New York, sent detectives all over the continent in an effort to locate the missing witness, but the case came to trial last December without his presence.

It was then decided to redouble their efforts to locate Smith, and a few weeks ago there was a rumor that he was in Canada. Just where, no one ventured to say, but it was finally determined to put the case in the hands of the Third Detective company, and E. R. Carrington, the Montreal manager, was entrusted with the work. A rumor spread some time ago, that a man who had been at Princeton College with Smith, had seen him at the La Corona Hotel, Montreal, and that he had been addressed as "Adams."

Terms Acceptable. A Remarkable Record. The business men of to-day demand that young men and women who intend entering into the mercantile world shall educate themselves specially for it. The new Frontenac Business College, corner of Barrie and Clergy streets, has made a remarkable record for itself as a business training institution. Ask any of our students as to the merits of our school. In practical, up-to-date methods, character and modern equipment, we take the lead. New classes are beginning each week. The Bill That Failed. A list of names of the people who attempted to pick up the imitation ten-dollar bill in front of the Randolph hotel today made an interesting reading. The bill was stuck to a grating, and many a person who forgot that this was All Fools' day, and then went away sheepishly.

Thorough Business Training. The thoroughness of the training imparted at the Kingston Business College, head of Queen street, is well accomplished in the success of its graduates. Another Blunder in Alderman Walkem's Motion. Dr. G. W. Bell, when asked if the position of veterinary to the fire department was a sinecure, replied that he had not found it so. It was more of an honorary position so far as salary was concerned. He got thirty-five dollars a year for performing the work. In 1901, he made sixty-eight visits, equal to 888, and it cost him $42.75 to supply medicines, making in all, $110.75. This amount does not include examination of horses purchased. So far this year, or in a period of three months, medicines for the department have cost $19 and his visits would equal $21.

Another blunder in Alderman Walkem's motion concerning the appointment of Dr. Nicholls as veterinary has been pointed out by the press. It reads that Dr. Nicholls shall be appointed for the year 1905 at his offer. That is, Dr. Nicholls is to receive a year's salary for nine months' work. So, after all, the city council has made no saving whatever.
