Letter From Greater New York.

A WASTED LIFE

WHAT MAURICE BARRYMORE CAME FROM.

A Beautiful Child Deserted—Spring Has Come to Metropolis—Deep Interest in Russo-Japanese War.

Special Correspondence. Letter No. 1,453. New York, March 31.—The rumors of the coming peace between Russia and Japan have been of the most absorbing interest all the week. The war business men rush for the newspapers and ponder over every rumor of the expected peace, one might almost imagine that this country was one of the principal factors in the tremendous battles that have been going on for the last two years. The official reports from the Russian departments immediately connected with the war, is giving to the world the tremendous losses which Russia has suffered since the commencement of the war, death, disease, prisoners and desertion CHARLES FREDERICK BROOKER, who, under the reorganization of the Republican National Committee, will undoubtedly become one of the most prominent and influential members of that body. A brother has been the constant member of the national committee since 1900, and during the last campaign furnished material pecuniary aid.

represent five hundred thousand men, any nation, however great, could stand such a frightful loss and still hold a primal place among the nations of the earth? It is rumored that the acknowledgment has been made by Russia that she overrated her own strength, and underrated that of the enemy. The development of the fighting power of Japan is one of the marvels of the present age. Sixty years have scarcely passed since the gates of this nation were opened; a nation more completely sealed to the world without than China with its mighty wall. The world at large knew little or nothing of the splendid civilization enjoyed within that happy country. It was the model despotism of all generations. Three hundred years ago it opened its gates to foreign intercourse and after the experiment of a hundred years, the Japanese government became convinced that they had everything to lose and nothing to gain from the outside barbaric civilization. So, once more they closed their gates against foreign intruders, and the west came knocking at the door and asked the privilege of entering the Japanese empire. Two ports only were opened to foreign entry, but so rapid was the progress made under the material benefits which the most advanced civilization confers on mankind. Japan promises to stand beside the most advanced nations of the present, and what their future destiny may be, the wildest dream of futurism cannot tell. Russia has at last discovered that she has met a foe man worthy of her grandest effort and the historian of the future, as he tells the story of the tremendous conflict through which she has passed, will be compelled to accord to Japan a place second to no other nation in the history of the world.

Aside from the loss of nearly a half million of men, the transportation, the food, the armament and all the other expenses of the war have been piling up, and this terrible load will be a yoke upon the neck of the Russian people for generations to come, and without this tremendous debt there is no single gain. There is nothing absolutely definite in these peace rumors. The czar is an uncertain to lose a few more thousand before he can make up his mind; probably the loss of another Mikhail will bring him to his senses.

The death of Maurice Barrymore, the noted actor, at the Long Island Home in Amityville, is another and example of a wasted life, which was some fall of the most illustrious promise. He was the possessor of many talents—the proper exercise of any one of which would have given him fame and fortune, but with his ability, was mingled a curse he could never shake off and which was a stumbling block all through his professional life. His story reads like a romance; he was the son of an English officer stationed in India and his father desired that he should enter the Indian service, he entered Oxford, where he paid more attention to boxing than to mathematics or philosophy, and at one time was said to be the amateur champion of the most illustrious prize. to a heart of stone. This is one phase of our city life.

The most joyful news of the week is that spring has really come at last. We are now in the season of sack-cloth and ashes, but we see in prospective, look here and there, but the way our citizens are keeping the fact is not likely to injure their constitutions.

Acts Like Magic.

Peck's Kidney Pills are simply a wonder, they act like magic in the cure of kidney and bladder troubles. For lumbago, pain in the back, and all urinary troubles they are unequalled. They cleanse the kidneys, and allow them to purify the blood, instilling new life and vigor into the entire system. In boxes, 25c., at Ward's Drug Store. Money back if not satisfactory.

Harry M. Wilson, formerly of Kingston, has secured his connection with the C. B. and D.P.M. railway, at Detroit and has accepted a position as traveling salesman for the Bay State Milling Co. of Winoona, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wadde and children, who have resided near New York city for several years, have returned to Gananoque. The former has rented Noah Peck's farm.

TRADE MARK RULES.

HOW INOPERATION—WHAT NEW LAW REQUIRES.

Authorizes Registration of Protection—Saves All Rights of Trademark Owner Herebefore Existing. Offers Additional Advantages.

Special to the Whig. Washington, D.C., April 1.—The new law authorizing the registration of protection, which went into operation to-day, marks the consummation of an effort on the part of business men of the United States covering a period of ten or fifteen years. For an even longer period the matter has been agitated in Congress. Since 1870 the matter of reviving and modifying the laws relating to trade-marks has been before the national legislature. Judge Peter S. Grosscup and Arthur P. Greeley, made an elaborate and exhaustive report on the subject of trade-marks, and prepared the bill which became law.

The measure, before it was submitted to Congress at the beginning of the last session, received the approval of practically all the business organizations in this country. From a commercial standpoint the new regulations are of wide interest.

The new law saves all the rights of the trademark owner as they have heretofore existed, and offers additional advantages and means of protection. (1) It permits the registration of all trademarks used in interstate commerce within the jurisdiction of United States courts; (2) it permits the registration of every trademark now in use, whether it complies with the technical rules of the patent office or not, provided the mark has been in use ten years; (3) it provides a remedy by way of injunction, actual damages, punitive damages and profits derived from infringement as well as the destruction of infringing labels, marks and packages; (4) every unlawful use of the registered trademark, whether on the very goods themselves, or on advertising matter, signs, receptacles or other vessels, will constitute an infringement; (5) the government charge for registration of each trademark is $10.

HARD TO COLLECT FEE Earned by a Secretary of the Treasury.

Special to the Whig. April 1.—Former Secretary of War John C. Carlisle has had much difficulty in collecting one of the large fees earned by him since coming to this city. In the case in which he was engaged to test the constitutionality of the law relating to duties on goods imported from Porto Rico and the law under which duties were levied on goods entering Porto Rico from other parts of the United States that the supreme division of the supreme court gave Mr. Carlisle a verdict for $23,549. His original bill was $25,000. His clients had refused to pay the fee, claiming it was excessive.

A VALUABLE BARTENDER

Is He Who Can Invent Characteristic Drink.

Special to the Whig. April 1.—The bartender who can invent a really characteristic drink is worth many dollars to his employer, especially if a bartender in the financial district of the "Millionaire's Cocktail" is now regarded with great favor, since even those who have failed to score on the market can comfortably imagine themselves to be wealthy after a second or third. Its foundation is a martini, but syrup and lime juice, the complete feature. Unlike most mixed drinks it is not to be taken slowly, but gulped down, the peculiar after taste giving it special merit.

Oscar Wilde's Last Word.

There have been two rather interesting papers on Oscar Wilde's last years in Paris published in the St. James' Gazette of late. There is a remarkable passage about the last hours of his life, when, after a long period of unconsciousness, he roused and said to the friend by his bedside, "I dream that I dined with the dead." The friend quickly replied, "Then I am sure you were the life and soul of the party." "Really," you are sometimes very witty," replied the dying man, and these are the last recorded words of a man who now is said to have left writings behind him which will outlast those of Talleyrand. Certainly, some of the new editions of Oscar Wilde's works which have come before the public of late are really brilliant examples of Irish wit and humor.

Must Pay Dr. G. W. Bell

The city council has now two veterinary doctors for the fire department, and will have to pay both. It cannot dismiss Dr. Bell without just cause, and there is none. The latter can claim his salary at the end of the year, and intends doing so. The council has made a beautiful blunder. The motion that was passed simply stated that Dr. Nichols be appointed veterinarian. It did not mention that Dr. Bell was to be dismissed. Each veterinarian can have a station to attend. Another piece of extravagance by the party that rigges in the council.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure

Right now. It is guaranteed to cure. It has cured many thousands.

Biliousness

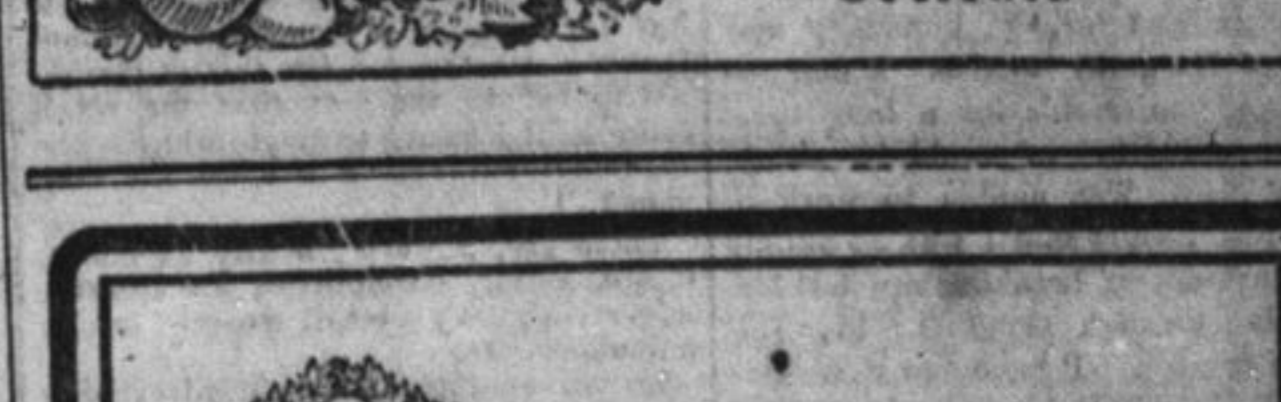

You can't cure Biliousness with calomel, liver pills, or "purely vegetable" purgatives. They "stir up" the liver, but after their effects are gone, the trouble returns worse than ever.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices in tablet form. The corrective and curative effects are, however, increased many times by the secret method of making them. They tone up the liver—enable it to give out more bile—and help it to get strong and well. While "Fruit-a-tives" are curing the Biliousness, they set the stomach to rights, prevent Constipation and relieve all Kidney Diseases.

Put up only in 50 cents boxes. At all druggists.

on the walls will produce finer effects, and make you feel better satisfied with the work and with yourself than anything else that can be used.

ALABASTINE is a cement coating that hardens with age. Kalsomine preparations, under whatever name or claims, are only temporary, always rubbing and scaling off. Wallpaper, with its mouldy paste on the back, and arsenical poisonous coloring and finish on the face, impregnate the air of a room with disease germs. The walls of hospitals are never papered—the reason is obvious. Sanitariums endorse ALABASTINE. Hardware and Paint Dealers everywhere sell it.
