IN JAPAN AND RUSSIA.

How the Warring Nations Celebrat the Festival of Peace.

Every nation has its Easter. In faraway Japan this celebration of the rebirth of the year is called the Yeast of the cherry blossoms and is attended with much merrymaking and jollification. The blossoming cherry trees are Pills yourself. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1; at all dealers hung with innumerable paper lanterns, The boats on the rivers at night are similarly decorated, and there are processions of singing girls, actors, tradespeople and monks.

In Russia Easter is a festival celehouseholder, and the week immediately preceding is devoted to what has been called the "great annual Muscoan elaborate cleaning of her dwelling, and the public baths are crowded with people who deem cleanliness at this

EASTER EGG ROLLING.

A Curious Custom Confined to Our National Capital.

Egg rolling on Easter Monday is a ustom apparently peculiar to Washington. The origin of the practice has not been satisfactorily traced, but the 1785 a small company of Germans sailed up the Potomac and established below the present Georgetown a settlement which they named Hamburg, and it is possible that the custom of rolling Easter eggs owes to these pioneers its introduction into the United States. Among the settlers, perhaps, was a descendant of the Princess of Burgundy, who, according to tradition, centuries ago dipped eggs in dyes, hid them in her palace grounds and then invited poor children to search for

One who has never witnessed the sport of egg rolling cunnot realize how much enjoyment there is to be had from it. Long ago the capitol grounds were used for it. There were long. grassy terraces, and the school children gathered upon them, set the gaudy objects to rolling, then gathered themselves into a ball and followed them, to the detriment not only of their clothes, but of the grass. Some hard hearted person or persons stopped this, and after awhile one who will ever hold a sacred place in the hearts of the children suggested and obtained the "White House lot" for the annual

and the gayly colored eggs are started on their downward course, turning over and over and gaining momentum with each revolution until they have reached the bottom in safety or, having struck another in its downward flight, is broken or dashed to pieces.

The children rush away to recover the spoils, and when the egg is restored to its rightful owner the feast begins. It is an orderly crowd, and this is to be wondered at when it is taken into onsideration that not less than 15,000 children spend the day together.

The crowning joy is when the Marine band, dressed in scarlet coats, which seem to vie with the gayly colored tulips nodding in their beds-close by, strikes up a popular air and continues to play until the time to go When the strains of "Hall to the Chief!" are heard it is the signal for wild and enthusiastic cheering, for all know that the chief magistrate of the Was Much Appreciated for Her nation has come out on the portico to watch the children. He is usually accompanied by his wife and a number of his official family. The children are made happy by nods, smiles and friendly recognition with a wave of the

THE SPIRIT OF EASTER

A Psalm and a Sermon by Helen Keller, the Blind Girl.

.Oh, give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good, and his mercy endureth forever. Sing unto him a new song, for he causeth the desert to put forth blossoms, and the valleys he covereth with greenness. Out of the night he bringeth day and out of death life everlasting. On this day a new light is upon the mountains, for life and the resurrection are proclaimed forever.

Easter is the promise of the Lord that all the best and noblest in man shall be renewed, even as growth and bloom and ripening shall not cease. The teacher should come in for a sharebars of winter are broken, and the iron bands of death are riven. The bird is on the wing, and the flight of the soul shall know no weariness. The lilies lift their holy white gralls, brimmed with sunshine of God's love, for has not the Lord manifested his love in flowers and in the upspringing of green things? They are sweet interpreters of large certainties. Each year the winter cuts them down, and each spring they put forth again. Every spring is a new page in the book of revelation, wherein we read that life is an eternal genesis and its end is not, for it endureth for-

Belief in eternal life compels us to believe in good deeds and honest brated much like our Christmas, with thoughts. The good man toils not for gifts and rejoicings. Dolls and eggs today nor for tomorrow alone, but beare bought for the little ones by every cause he knows that his labor shall survive long after his hand has fallen from the plow. The good man pours himself into the world and makes it new. He vite wash." Every housewife makes is among the blessed who win sight out of blindness, order out of chaos and life out of death. Since the first Easter morning the soul of man has shone with unwasting light, for then he looked into the radiant face of the risen Christ and knew that God's universe shapes itself not to destruction, but to a yet more glorious genesis-yea, it endureth from everlasting to everlasting. -Helen Keller in Youth's Companion.

The Bermuda Lily. This is the season of the Bermuda lily, the large and very beautiful variety of that flower which is used extensively for church decoration on Easter Sunday. Bermuda supplies all the large cities of the United States with this flower, and the trade has grown to large proportions and become recognized as one of the most lucrative in which residents of the islands can engage. The soil of Bermuda is a layer of mold on a rock foundation and is generally poor for agricultural purposes, aside from the growing of vegetables and the lilies. The trade with the United States in Bermuda onions and potatoes has always been good, but in recent years the lily has become even of more importance to many of the islanders.
