salesmen in the morning, and several matters had been discussed. One of these matters was the inspection cheese which takes place in King-ston. Some of the buyers wanted it done at the factories. Mr. Mackinnon asked what the difference was between inspection in the City and at the factories. Mr. Kurphy replied that the city inspection was better, for if there were any crooked cheesemakers they could fool the buyers by slipping in poor cheese when shipping. Inspection at Kingston made this impossible. Mr. Mackinnon pointed out that the county of Frontenac was too large for inspection to take place at the factories. Most of the salesmen expressed themselves as satisfied with the present system.

Mr. Everetts, who was in Montreal with the instructors of Eastern Ontario, this week, pointed out that there were one thing he wished to necessity of sending out their cheese their salaries boosted $200, and one, out in boxes that were two inches too low.
