

TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN
Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claims we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Mrs. Mary Dimmick

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and liberation of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me.—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize that she can do for herself.—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 60th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—It saved her life. Mrs. Pinkham has filed thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers alling women helpful advice.

STRIKE REACHES LAST STAGE

Return to Work Without Consulting Union. Chicago, July 21.—The strike of lumber drivers in this city has been declared off. The 600 striking employees of lumber dealers voted on the question of stopping the strike and were almost unanimously in favor of returning to their places regardless of the action of fellow strikers.

Other local unions of teamsters involved in the same struggle against the Chicago Employers' Association, will take similar action by referendum vote if the recommendations of the teamsters' joint council are carried out. The department on the question began voting yesterday on the question of calling the strike off. Railway express drivers and truck teamsters will vote on the question to-night.

Adornment of Karen Women.

Casper Whitney, in Oting. Karen women are not good to look upon, and do not improve their appearance any by the style of ornaments they affect. When very young their ears are pierced to admit a small round stick, which is gradually increased in diameter until by the time the little girls become women their ears are easily accommodate a two-inch disc of blackened bamboo. This stretches the ears hideously, as may be imagined, and when the ornament is laid aside temporarily—will picture the thin stripes of pendant cat-bowls as rule the Karen women wear their hair long, but, like the Siamese, some cut it short, and others again keep it cropped close, except on top of the head, where it is allowed to abund its natural length—which does not add to their by no means over-abundance of good looks.

PORTICO IS ALLOWED

TO BE BUILT IN FRONT OF OPERA HOUSE.

Meeting of the Board of Works—City Engineer's Charge of the Gas and Water Extensions Defined.

The board of works met yesterday afternoon with Alds. Hoag, (chairman), Ross and Sears in attendance. Manager Branigan, of the Grand Opera House, appeared in regard to A. J. Small's request for permission to build a portico over the sidewalk in front of the theatre entrance. The city engineer said that the by-laws prohibited the erection of portico over sidewalks. It would be necessary either to wink at the by-law or to repeal it.

Ald. Small pointed out that there were various infringements of the by-law. Porticos for private houses had been erected on public property when the walks were moved off.

The city engineer said that the by-law should not be allowed to interfere with a special case like this. If necessary it could be repealed.

(On motion of Ald. Ross, it was decided to grant the permission asked for by Mr. Small, a plan of the structure to be first submitted to the city engineer before it was erected.

The petition of James Compton and others against street watering on Arch street was not granted. Arch street is included in the limit of the new street watering by-law, which would have to be rescinded in order to grant such a petition.

A number of walks advertised as necessary to be built, received the sanction of the committee. One walk on the south side of Jonnston street, between King and Ontario street was postponed against, but the engineer reported that it was essential that it be built, being on a street where traffic was heavy. Accordingly, the committee decided to recommend that the city council order its construction, on a two-thirds vote.

On motion of Ald. Ross, the committee decided to recommend to the council that a committee consisting of the manager of the light and power plant, the superintendent of the water works and the engineer be appointed to collect and amass all the available information and data in the several departments in regard to the gas, water sewer mains and services, which will then be at the disposal of the city engineer to place on the plans.

This recommendation of the city engineer against, but the engineer reported that it was essential that it be built, being on a street where traffic was heavy. Accordingly, the committee decided to recommend that the city council order its construction, on a two-thirds vote.

WEALTH FROM WASTE.

Advice to Those Who Pile for Riches.

"Steady waste" products if you would get rich," said a millionaire. "Find some way of utilizing a waste that is now dreamed worthless. Set up a little plant, buy in your waste each ton with dollar's worth of iron or soap, or silk, or something. Then you will soon be rolling in money."

"There was once a poor man who made soap. A by-product of the soap business was in his day a thick, syrupy, oily liquid that ran off from the soap kettle into the sewers by hundreds of gallons daily, for it was, you see, considered valueless. But the poor man converted this syrupy liquid into glycerine. He could get all he wanted of the liquid for nothing and he could sell it, refined by distillation for twenty-five cents a pint. He gave up soap-making. He became a glycerine-maker solely. Soon too, he became a millionaire.

"Coal tar, the thick, black fluid that used to be left over from gas-making, was once thrown away. The day there is no limit to the things that coal tar gives us. It gives us saccharin, which is ninety times sweeter than sugar. It gives us scores of brilliant aniline dyes. It gives us the most beneficial medicines, antiferin and antipyrin. It gives us benzine, naphtha, creosote and carbolic acid. And each of the men who look into the ugly and vile depths of this coal tar find a new thing of value, because rich."

"Poor man became rich, not by following the old, beaten, crowded roads, but by striking out new roads for themselves. Over the masses of the world's waste it is possible, believe me, to strike out many an easy short cut to the city of success."

A Quaint Bell Tower.

Campanile or bell towers erected apart from churches, are common in Italian cities, the leading tower of Pisa being a notable example. England, however, has few such towers, and one of the most remarkable is and one of the best, in Kent. It stands in a corner of the churchyard, six feet from the old parish church dedicated to St. Augustine. It is a quaint octagonal structure, consisting of three stages, overlapping each other like a staircase. The tower is built of timber and contains a pool of five bells. This campanile rests on the ground, the legend concerning its erection being that the devil removed it in the night. It was built upon the ground and intended to be erected on a tower afterwards, but was found too heavy.

Read Character by the Cigar Test. "My observation of smokers' tests a cigar dealer, 'leads me to believe that a man's character can be read pretty accurately by the way he handles his cigar."

"I take the man who grips the butt fast between his teeth and just lets her burn any old way. He is vain, proud, and he is aggressive, bound to get what he wants and do what he pleases, regardless of the rights of others."

"His opposite is the fellow who smokes slowly and deliberately turning the cigar around and watching the smoke curl upward. He's a good fellow, I always found, easy going and true as steel."

HE SAVED HIS HAIR

USED OWN GROWTH TO MAKE MATTRESSES.

Worth a Million He Wouldn't Polish His Shoes Because 'Twould Wear Them Out. New York, July 21.—Samuel Fales Dunlap was one of the most remarkably peculiar men who ever lived, if revelations made in testimony in the court of his will before Surrogate Fitzgerald are trustworthy.

Dunlap died in March at eighty, leaving his millions to a cousin, Halburton Fales, and Rose, his housekeeper. Other cousins seek to break the will on the ground that Dunlap was mentally incompetent when he made it, and for some years prior to his death.

Mrs. Fales, yesterday, testified that Dunlap drank brandy, whiskey, champagne, claret and gin, consuming as much as a bottle of whiskey in twenty-four hours and at times four bottles of champagne in that period. She said she had seen Dunlap, who lived in a back room in the house, which was always kept at a temperature of eighty-two, and seldom went out except to buy whiskey or wine or go to the bank.

During the Spanish-American war he was sober for nine months, as he was afraid the Spaniards would blow up his house. He did not want his shoes blacked or his clothes brushed for fear of wearing them out. At times, when intoxicated, he would go to bed with his clothes on and remain there for two days.

One day he purchased a red, white and blue jockey cap for ten cents, telling Mrs. Fales he was going to wear it on the train. While riding in a carriage with him on the way to the station she dropped the cap out of the window, but he made a great fuss about it. During the summer of 1898 he ordered ice cream daily for his pet dog Jacob.

Coleridge Tidings. Coleridge, July 19.—The garden party given by the ladies' Aid of the Methodist church, in the church grounds, last Friday evening, was well attended, and in every respect a success. Miss Helen Wartman has returned from Belleville where she visited friends for the past week. Miss Norton, the guest of Charles Lee and family for the past week, has returned to her home in Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Woodruff are entertaining a young son, Mrs. Gideon Peters, who has returned from a short visit in Napanee. Mr. Kitchin, Brooklyn, is at present quite ill. We are sorry to hear of the illness of Stanley Lee, now in Toronto, who is suffering from an attack of typhoid fever. Ray Gowley, who has been away from an absconce in his head, has recovered. Visitors: Miss Youmans, Napanee, at Charles Lee's; Miss Collins, Napanee, at Miss G. Wartman's; Misses Georgia and Maud Bell, Kingston; R. G. Bell, Bozeman, Man. The Misses Bell, Centreville, at C. Ward's.

Improving the Buildings. Desert Lake, July 16.—After a lingering illness of many weeks, Mrs. A. Hopkins passed peacefully away to eternal rest, Thursday. She was an aged lady, had many surrounding friends by whom she was highly respected, and was well known to all. She was the mother of six sons and four daughters survive. The remains were interred in Verona cemetery. L. Bauer has much improved his building by enlarging his mill, by building a new dwelling. The teachers' Miss Martin and Miss Walcott are spending vacation at their homes. Farmers are busy with their haying. Raspberries are ripe, but not very plentiful. Vis- a-vis to the U. S. Orser spent a few days with her parents, D. Abrams and C. Walker, at Maple Grove. Miss Olive Snook is at home after visiting her sister, Clayton, N. Y.

Help It Along. It is more than probable that another call will be made on the citizens of Kingston, to further show their generosity and public spirit. It will be remembered that many of the citizens were kind enough to subscribe for the 14th Regimental Band, who in return have been giving a series of complimentary hand concerts in Macdonald Park. The amount collected in the neighborhood of $350. The cost of the new uniforms was $464, and of the new caps $87.50, a total of $861.50. Thus it will be seen that there is yet a deficit of over $900 against the bandmen which will have to be met in some way.
