Says Phenomenal Power of Panopathic Professor Brought Her Back to Life-- Body Felt Dead and Lifeless.

HUMAN HEART MADE TO BEAT AS BEFORE

Hundreds Healed by This Man Who Restores Health to Hopeless Invalids Given Up to Die by Doctors.

NO DISEASE HE MAY NOT CURE

If Treatment is Taken in Time—Yet He Offers Services and a Course of Treatment, Free of Charge, to All Who Are Sick and Afflicted—Cures Them in Their Own Homes—Believes it His Duty to Help All Who Stand in Need.

New York, Aug. 17.—(Special Correspondence)—The seeming marvels of healing performed by that famous scientist of this city, Dr. Wallace Hadley, his startling cures of men and women who say they were given up to die by doctors, have been so wonderful in both methods and results that they have awakened widespread praise, astonishment and wonder among all who are aware of the facts.

In the face of doctors' verdicts and apparent impossibilities this man has taken invalids who say they were pronounced hopelessly incurable and restored them to health and strength when all other means apparently had failed.

Considerable curiosity has been aroused by these phenomenal cures, both because they are so wonderful in themselves and also that this worker of wonders proclaims the fact that he has perfected a method of treatment which, by repeated and extensive tests in thousands of cases, has been proven to be most successful in overcoming human ailments. And it is evident beyond doubt that this method gives him an advantage over disease un-surpassed by any school or theory of medical practice.

So certain is he of his ability that he claims and offers to prove that if timely treated there is no disease he may not cure. As astounding as that assertion appears to be, there is plenty of evidence to support it. In one case, if not in more, it is stated by the patient herself that he made the human heart beat as before, reviving the flickering spark of life when all but extinguished, and curing diseases that she says baffled the skill of the best doctors and specialists. Those whom he has cured credit him with having mastery over the hydra-headed monster, disease, under whatever form or name it may be known.

Yet strange as it may seem in this day and age, with all this wonderful power and command over the ills that human flesh is heir to, he gladly and freely gives his services, saying: "I believe it is my duty to help all who are afflicted. I believe my knowledge of the cause and cure of disease was given to me that I might be an instrument to cure the sick and suffering. This being my earnest belief, I feel that I must give freely of my services to all who are ill. Just think of that! That means that I am able to say that there is no disease that I cannot cure if treatment is taken in time. Just think of what a message of hope and salvation that is to hundreds and thousands of invalids throughout the length and breadth of the land, who have given up hope of ever being well again!"

"I do not care what doctors may say. I do not care what the disease is called, I am just as ready and anxious to make the deaf hear, the lame walk, to treat consumption, cancer, tumors, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, Bright's disease, organic weakness, any of the incurable ailments of men and women, as I am stomach trouble, blood disorders, rheumatism, catarrh or any other ill that human flesh is heir to. I do not care what you want to know how much or how little money a man has, but only that he has been attacked by disease in any one of its many forms. No matter what it may cost me, I mean to go on treating anyone who asks me for any disease they may have, just as long as I am able. When I have the ability to save lives and restore health, I could not let men and women, human beings like myself, go on suffering and dying for the want of that which I have to give. I know what I can do, because my method of treatment has been tested in thousands of cases."

"One case, a 'miraculous cure,' of the patient himself called it, was that of a Harry Williams, of Traverse City, Mich. He had a terrible disease that threatened to rot his bones, make his teeth and hair fall out, destroy sight, taste, smell and hearing, and cover his body with ulcerous sores; a disease that makes a man a living corpse. He also failed to get

OUR FASHION NOTES

CASHMERE AMONG AUTUMN MATERIALS.

Three-Piece Suits the Rage—Simple Lines for Evening Gowns—Princess Style in Vogue—Girdles Smaller.

Special in the way. Predictions for the autumn styles are many and varied. Cashmere is among the materials which will be worn this fall and there are runners that the three piece costume consisting of skirt, short coat and bodice will be the thing for those who wish to be in the swim. Bodices of the same material as the skirt do not seem to be very popular with the gentler sex so Dame Fashion has decreed that they shall be mostly of lace with touches of the material here and there.

The latest fad in the ever popular line is saffron or which is very handsome on a green lawn. This one disadvantage that of being conspicuous.

An attractive and novel costume for the early fall days is made of crepe de chine of a soft pastel shade combined with white and trimmed with heavy lace. The tendency of trimmings is toward the narrow effect some costumes being trimmed with frills of lace overlapping the other.

A very popular material for dinner and party gowns is mousseline in white and pale colors. One gown was made quite plain with a deep hem above which were embroidered bunches of flowers.

The most conspicuous thing in the evening bodies of the season is their extreme simplicity as compared with those of previous seasons. The lines of the figure are followed more closely the blouse effect having almost entirely disappeared. This vagary of fashion is making it so difficult for the modistes as it is not an easy matter to make a gown severely simple in its lines and yet concealing the defects of the figure and accentuating its good points.

In whatever form the sleeve of the evening bodice is made it must be small. It may be a puff or a bit of lace or be separate from the shoulder strap.

A very graceful style of dress for those who can wear it effectively is the princess. The material is tucked or shirred around the neck. This style requires a certain poise to look well, but if properly worn there is nothing more charming.

One very beautiful, but seemingly simple bodice was made of ivory shade chiffon satin with jeweled bowknots as the sole trimming. The chiffon satin was put on quite plain and made with a pointed front. It fastened down the middle of the back. The seam down the middle of the front was stitched with three large graduated bowknots of rhinestones on a foundation of tulle. The décolletage was trimmed with bowknots of the same style on a band of shirred tulle and also edged with a ruffle of cream colored lace. Over the bodice was a shaped flounce of cream colored lace quite long in the back and caught up on each side.

Girdles are getting smaller. Sometimes they are part of the bodice or are replaced by sashes and ribbon belts with smart little bows in the back. When the belt is separate it must be of a contrasting material to that of the bodice. Generally it is some soft silk made three inches wide in front and one inch in the back where it is finished by a bow consisting of a rule of two upright ends with two longer ones hanging below the belt.

Baby comes in for his share of fashion's attention this year. His clothes are no longer elaborate, befrilled and befringed confections of former seasons, but in their simplicity and fineness of quality are far more attractive. What is lacking in trimming is made up in quality of goods and careful workmanship. The dresses must be of the finest material and the trimming must be applied by hand.

A simple and pretty dress is of fine white lingerie stuff with a yoke of hand run tucks; the only trimming being frills of valenciennes lace at the throat and wrists joined to the material by narrow beading.

Hand embroidered and scalloped or buttonhole frills are also used to trim the baby's dresses and coats.

Linen seems to have elapsed all other materials even in the world of boys' fashions. This year is essentially a white season for the boys as well as the girl. White suits for boys are as popular as ever, but for every day hard wear the linens in the dull blues and khaki colors are the most sensible.

The Russian smock suit is the thing for the small boy who has not yet graduated into real knickerbockers and it has also the advantage of being easily laundered and offering comfort with beauty. The Russian blouses for boys no longer close on the side but are arranged in various ways with collar and revers or a long sloping smoker collar turning back from a shield and crossing at the belt or slightly above it. Collar and cuffs are sometimes trimmed with the ever popular broderie Anglaise which is especially effective on the suits of the small boy just out of babyhood.

Some very pretty suits are in a narrow stripe of white and blue or white and red with plain white collar trimmed with narrow stitched bands of the color and a scarf of the same.

Dark blue and white mohair are also made up in Russian blouse suits and are trimmed in a variety of ways, with white or light blue braid, gold buttons, etc. The smartest suits of

EARLY FALL PLOWING.

Profitable Results Follow This Commendable Practice.

Fall plowing is the next work to occupy the farmer's attention. This should be done as soon as possible after the harvest season is over and before the lousy work of the fall begins. There are good reasons for advancing early fall plowing. The main reason is to conserve the soil moisture and prevent its escape from the use of the fall-sown crop. When cultivation ceases there is a crust formed on the soil that aids evaporation if the moisture is to be kept where it is needed. Plowing breaks this crust and forms a sort of mulch on the surface which holds the moisture in.

When there are weeds and grass plowed under it gives them a longer time to decay before the fall crop is sown.

Plowing early and then keeping the surface loose and fine by an occasional harrowing will make a better seed bed and crop than to wait until later.

How She Regarded It.

The former head of a large private school in Cleveland, was a gentleman of dignified bearing, refined, and correct always in manner and speech. By birth and early rearing he was a Vermont, and doubtless of strict Puritan extraction. One day in his boyhood his mother called him in from the yard where he was playing with some other boys to say to him, in a tone suggestive of mingled sadness and severity:

"Noble, my son, I never thought to hear you use a swear word!"

"Why, mother," said the boy, "I didn't use any swear word; I only said the devil. Nobody thinks that swearing."

"I don't care," cried the mother, quickly; "it's making light of sacred things."

Good Casters

The caster on a metal or brass bed is important. An imperfect caster is liable to injure carpets or rugs while on polished floors it always leaves marks.

Ives' Brass Beds have a double wheel ball bearing caster. The double wheel divides the weight and its wide face does not mark the floor, while it turns so easily to the motion of the bed that it never injures carpets.

It is attention to important small things that makes Ives' beds the finest in America.

Ask to see an Ives Brass Bed and examine it closely.
