Imagines She is Being Strangled

Paris, Aug. 20 - A trial at the Seine assizes vesterday revealed the story of the singular dream of Mme, Ella Boivine. She is eighty years of age and keepes a little fishing tackle shop not far from the canal at St. Denis. She resided alone in two small rooms, did a good trade, and possessed a comfortable fortune. She was not afraid of burglars, as she did not believe anybody would suspect her of having money. One morning she was not seen bustling about her little shop, where ipon one of the neighbors entered her place and roused her.

burglars had forced an entrance and had seized Mme. Boivine by the throat with the intention of strangling her, and as she fainted he believed her
