BARTENDERS DECIDE TO DISBAND.

Two Months Hence They May Re-Organize-Trouble Arose Over a Union Man Working in a Blacklisted Hotel.

The local union of bartenders is temporarily disorganized. A short time an "unfair" house. At a subsequent meeting the question was up for discussion. The offender stated his position, and claimed that he had not sought the job, but being out of work do that or walk the streets. He was a member of the union and in good standing. A hot discussion followed. Finally one of the members present became disgusted and asked for his withdrawal card. Several followed suit but the cards were not procurable. Finally it was decided the best way the difficulty was to disband a couple of months and then reorganize on a better basis, with only hose of the old members included who are now in good standing. It was not paid their dues, had been fined, ble time to blow over.
