Told in the Twilight

The week has been very eventful with "At Home" and tea. Every day has brought its function large or small, and the social season has made a very bright beginning.

With its French windows thrown wide, and its rooms flower-filled, "Otterburn" was on its feet, on Thursday, when Mrs. Allaire Shortt was "At Home" between the hours of five and seven. A very happy thought it is of this pleasant Staten Island woman, whom Kingston welcomes every summer, to open her house to all those who have called upon her, instead of acknowledging the courtesy by the perfunctory returning of visits, and its much appreciated departure from stereotyped custom. Receiving with Mrs. Shortt, were her mother, Mrs. Low, and Mr. Allaire Shortt's mother, Mrs. William Shortt of Sarnia. The Rev. William Shortt, was also present, and another member of the family present to make the affair go off pleasantly, was Mrs. Atkinson, also of Sarnia. Mrs. Allaire Shortt's cousin, Miss Annie Archer, a clever New York artist, may be counted on, as one of the receiving group, and her paintings, of many a bit about Kingston, which were in the hall and in both dining-room and drawing-room, received much admiring attention. In the tea-room were Miss Gair, and Miss Hattie Crisp, in charge of the tea and coffee, with Miss Constance Cooke enconced in a corner, cutting loaves. Besides the men, who were indefatigable in waiting upon everyone, were Miss Muckleston, Miss Annie Muckleston, Miss Elizabeth Loucks, Miss Frances Macaulay, and Miss Mildred Cooke, assisting the principals. The tea table was centred by an arrangement of pink and white asters, and there was, besides many handsome dahlias, a very artistic combination in the drawing room—Black-eyed Susans, in a vase of deep bronze.

Among the guests were: Canon and Mrs. Loucks, Canon and Mrs. Groat, the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Groat, Delhi, N.Y., Canon and Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. Herbert Horsey, Miss Mildred Cooke, Mr. Alfred Cooke, the Rev. J. O. Crisp, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker, Mrs. Bates, Miss Bates, Mrs. Betts, Mr. Clive Betts, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremy Taylor, Mr. R. Vashon Rogers, Miss Rogers, Mrs. Brownfield, Miss Mabel Brownfield, Mrs. John Magillivray, Mrs. Hiram Calvin, Miss Marion Calvin, Mrs. Voigt, Mrs. Clarke Hamilton, Mrs. Broadwell, New York; Mrs. Pense, Miss Macaulay, the Misses Macpherson, Mrs. Bank, Mrs. Skinner, Miss Skinner, Mrs. Howard Folger, Mrs. F. W. Albro, Mrs. James Gildersleeve, Miss Gildersleeve, Miss Mabel Gildersleeve, Mrs. Alexander Kirkpatrick, Miss Etta and Miss Kathleen Kirkpatrick, Miss Louise Kirkpatrick, Miss Annie Daly, the Misses Gibson, Mrs. Richard Waldron, Sr., the Misses Waldron, Mrs. W. St. Pierre Hughes, Mrs. Wrenshall, the Misses Wrenshall, Mrs. Herbert Spencer, Miss Mona Knight, the Misses Fairlie, Dr. and Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. Chamberlain Irwin, Miss Katie Wilson, Miss Ada Temple, Toronto; Mrs. Gamsby, Miss Gertrude Strange, Miss Crocker, Miss Katie and Miss Minnie Gordon, Mrs. W. F. Nickle, Miss Agnes Macmorine, Miss Marion Arnoldi, Toronto; Miss Madeline Lyman, Mr. R. F. Harvey and Mr. Edward Dobbs, and Mr. Edward Birkett.

Mrs. Robert Sears and Mrs. Winthrop Sears gave a very delightful "At Home" at lovely "Heathfield," yesterday. The very bad weather, which looked all afternoon as if it might be worse prevented many people from being present, and caused them much disappointment. The house was a garden with its wealth of flowers. All the rooms downstairs were thrown open, and every available spot had its blaze of color, or its restful bit of green. The hall was done with delicate greens and white, the drawing-room was pink, pink asters, pink dahlias, pink-shaded lights, being used in carrying out the color scheme. But the dining-room glowing with its welcoming, and white, with its test place of all. Salvia, in a huge bowl, centred the table, and red-shaded candles and other scarlet flowers made the room very beautiful. Virginia creeper, and other vines trailed hither and thither, and added careless grace to the warmth of glowing color. In the drawing-room the guests were received by Mrs. Robert Sears, who wore a handsome black satin; Mrs. Winthrop Sears, wearing black net, with jet, and the guest of honor, Miss Campbell, of Baltimore, in white tulle silk, with pink rosebuds. Mrs. Waller, Mrs. Winthrop Sears' mother, pointed coffee in the dining-room, and Mrs. George

Sears served the salad. Miss Cummins Drennan was in charge of the claret cup, and those assisting, besides the men, were: Miss Emily Sears, Miss Alice Sears, and Miss Minnie Moore. Among the guests were: Mrs. William Skinner, Mrs. E. H. Marvin, Syracuse; Mrs. Howard Folger, Miss Mabel Brownfield, Mrs. Waldron, the Misses Waldron, the Misses Minnes, Miss Mullie, Mr. Paul four Mudies, Dr. John Shannon, Mr. Albert Shannon, and Mr. James Swift, Jr. People will be glad to know that Mrs. Waller, and Mrs. Winthrop Sears will spend the winter at "Heathfield."

Mrs. Robert Fraser entertained at a very pleasant tea, on Thursday, in honor of her mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Large, of Prince Edward Island, who have been her guests for about a fortnight. In the tea-room, Miss Booth, and Miss Bessie Robertson, served refreshments, assisted by the Misses Fraser, Pink and white asters and pink shaded lights made the rooms look very pretty and festive.
