THE CHURCH SUPPER.

"Ding-dong!" said the big church bell, "A supper to-night and things to sell; Ding-dong! I do declare, Here I'm rung in on a vestry fair."

"I've a mind to stick and refuse to ring, For I wasn't donated for such a thing. But my, oh, my! How sweet that smells! I wish that coffee were good for bells!"

For at every pull the sexton gave The bell swung out above the pews, And at every swing he got the scent, And on he swung the bell, all content.

Said down below good pastor Pipp, Fingers tapping, tip to tip, "I have been asked by all who're here To buy unto the sister dear."

Who brought the coffee here to-night, That we consider it her right To thus be thanked in public wise— She finds great favor in our eyes.

THE LAST OF NINE

HEROES SUCCEMDED AFTER BRAVE DEEDS.

Eight Brothers Fell on the Civil War Battle Fields—A Unique Record.

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—The last of nine brothers, eight of whom gave their lives to their country, on the battlefields of the civil war, Nathaniel W. Failing, was buried recently, his death in St. Anthony's hospital being indirectly caused by terrible wounds he received while fighting with his brothers at bloody Chickamauga.

It is probable there was no other Union or Confederate soldier who had a record like that of Nathaniel Failing. Born at Little Washington, Pa., in 1836, he, with eight brothers, enlisted in the Union army on the same day in April, 1861, at Mechanicsburg, Ohio, where Nathaniel was employed at the cooper trade. The ages of the brothers ranged from nineteen to forty-five years. William, the eldest, was the father of thirteen children.

The brothers gave up their lives in the following battles: John, at Fort Donelson, Tenn., in February, 1862; James, at Pea Ridge, Ark., March, 1862; Daniel, at Shiloh, April, 1862; Louis, at Corinth, Miss., October, 1862; Henry, at Gettysburg, July, 1863; Morris, Joel and William, at Chickamauga, September, 1863.

A few days before his death Mr. Failing, in an interview, told the story of his life. He suffered great bodily pain, but his mind was as clear as to dates of battles as if the occurrences he related happened but a week ago.

"There was no other family that sent nine brothers to the war of the rebellion," he said. "At least I never heard of any. I have talked with hundreds of old comrades whom I met at Grand Army reunions, and none of them ever heard of any more brothers being killed in the war. At the battle of Chickamauga, where Thomas, Joel and William were killed, I was at their side when they fell. It was terribly wonderful, there, both legs being pierced by bullets, also both hips, the right shoulder and right hand. I lay on the field for a day and a night, praying that I might die and be relieved of my suffering."

"On March 13th, 1864, I was ordered to leave the hospital at Nashville, and I was sent to the hospital at Columbus, Ohio, where I stayed until I was mustered out in June, 1865. I went back to the old home in Mechanicsburg, from where the boys enlisted, only to find that my father had moved to a little mining town near McKeesport, Pa., called River. He was living with one of his daughters, Mrs. William Hart. My mother had died, I was told, before father moved away.

"I was still walking on crutches when I reached my sister's home. Father was sitting in a rocker when I hobbled in, a wreck of my former self. I was so changed that he did not know me. My sister went out. Giving me my first cup of coffee, she asked me what regiment I was with. When I told him of the battle of Chickamauga he sprang to his feet and wanted to know if I had met his four sons—Morris, Joel, William and Daniel. He had mourned us all as dead, having read the list of killed, in which our names were included. When I made myself known to him he wept for joy."

"Returning to Mechanicsburg, I was married in March, 1866, and lived there three years, working at the cooper's trade. I then moved to Elm Grove, Dewitt county, Ill. From there I went to Chicago, where I then moved to Springfield in 1881. I lived in Springfield until two years ago, I worked for the Illinois Central railroad company for twenty-five years."

Besides the battle of Chickamauga, Mr. Failing took part in the battles of Bull Run, the five days' siege at Murfreesboro, and at Carnifax Ferry. He enlisted in the 2nd Ohio Infantry, and after three months' service, was transferred to company "C," 13th Ohio.

He is survived by one son, Bert Failing, of Springfield, and two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Foster, of Edwardsville, and Mrs. E. H. Niesmeyer, 1475 Flournoy street, Chicago.

There was a good attendance. Charles McDonald, who has been enjoying a week's fishing with a party of friends in the Bay of Quinte district, has returned home.

The Whig is by far the most popular of all the public libraries here. As the people all know that what they read in the Whig can be received as unvarnished truth.

The Lord's Day Alliance or some one else ought to look into the matter of allowing the people of the town and even in the churches, to be annoyed by the noise of unloading a boat load of steel on the Sabbath day.

Rev. H. Gracey preached this morning from Romans x, 2, dealing with the question in an exceptionally able and interesting manner, showing that most people who believe themselves to be in reality commandment keepers are commandment breakers.

A MARRIAGE TANGLE. Here's a Family Situation That is a Puzzle.

Toledo, O., Sept. 18.—One of the most remarkable marriage angles ever known was presented to the authorities in probate court this morning when Edward and Fred Metzger, twins, made application to marry sisters. This in itself was strange enough, but when the clerk was preparing the papers it was learned that an elder brother of the twins had married a sister of the two prospective brides of the twins.

A look at the entry journal showed that in 1891, Robert Metzger, a twin, had married Ida Miller, the third sister. While the people in the court were having a good laugh at this Edward spoke up and said: "Let me tell you something that will set you to thinking deeper. One father is the husband of the girl's mother."

Lewis C. Metzger married Mrs. Christina Miller Metzger and had three sons two of them twins. Mrs. Miller had become the bride of the three sons. In other words, Metzger is the father-in-law of his stepdaughters and Mrs. Metzger is the mother-in-law of the stepsons.

Mrs. Metzger was married four times. Her second marriage was to the brother of her present husband, but by that union she had no children. Here are some of the puzzles to work out: If your two brothers married sisters of your wife, what relation would your children be to your brother's children, or what would they be if your and your brother's father look for his second wife the mother of the girls who are now the wives of the three sons?

The boys have stopped figuring on the puzzle, saying that when they have children the relationship will be so mixed as to be baffling. In spite of it all, the complication is entirely legal, because there is no blood relationship between the contracting parties.

Gave His Wife A Million. New York, Sept. 18.—It is learned that previous to his departure for Concord, last July, E. H. Whitney gave his telephone bride, Anna Bennett, a million dollars. The shadow of death was upon him then.

"No contest can take this from you," he said: "It's yours, beyond reach of law."

SCOURING YOUR SCALP. Will Remove the Loose Dandruff Scales But It Won't Cure Dandruff.

If your hair is brittle and thinning, you have dandruff. The mere scouring of the scalp of the loose scales, won't bring but scales of scalp being thrown up by a pestiferous little germ in burrowing its way to the root of the hair where it saps the vitality, causing falling hair and, in time, baldness. Now, if you can't stop dandruff nor falling hair, nor prevent baldness unless you destroy that germ; and the only preparation that can do it is the new scientific discovery, Newbro's Herpicide. In fact no other hair preparation claims to kill the dandruff germ— all of them will clean the scalp; soap and water will do that, but only Newbro's Herpicide gets at the root of the trouble and kills the dandruff germ. Sold by leading druggists, Sec. Inc. in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. G. W. Mahood, special agent.
