Feature Of English Law.

There is a law in England with regard to the care of the poor, which is worthy of imitation in Canada. It enables one county to bill another for the care of any one who, because helpless and friendless, becomes a charge upon the public.

The poor law guardians have a method, at once searching and sure, by which the town or hamlet which was the home of the indigent one becomes liable for his food and shelter. And there is no eluding or escaping the responsibility. The public records are examined and in some way the evidence is forthcoming, and the habitation of the individual is fixed beyond a doubt.

Ontario is doing a great deal for the mental and physical incompetents that are admitted to the public institutions? The men who are in charge of them are using all the discoveries in medical science in administering to the care of the inmates, and where the disability results from conditions that are not susceptible to treatment, there is the application of grace and kindness, that are the distinctive characteristics of this Christian era.

Ample provision has been made for the housing of the poor and decrepit and there is a stimulation into higher attainments by the promise of substantial aid when the county undertakes to erect a modern refuge. The government should go a step further, and incorporate the feature of English law to which reference has been made into the law of the province, so that the county which is progressive will not be imposed upon, but have recourse to the county adjoining which "does not care for its own. If the neglectful public body could not escape the liability which properly belongs to it, the chances are that it would deal with the question of erecting a refuge without further delay.

Government Purchases.

The "strong man" of the Whitney cabinet is being heard from in the way of a new departmental policy. The annual assemblage of asylum superintendents in the office of the provincial secretary was not a mere earnest consultation that has been usual, but more change is likely to result. Hon. Mr. Hanna has ideas of his own to put into force at an early date. For instance, the purchasing of supplies for consumption and use in the institutions of the province has been chiefly conducted in the cities where they are located. While the prices were in nearly all cases low, on a close margin, they were welcome factors of the trade of those places. Though the late provincial secretary, one of the most capable departmental heads Canada has ever possessed, kept his hand "on the lid" so that charges were regularly controlled, the new administration declares there will be much practical economy in making purchases in bulk in Toronto, by a special officer. This remains to be demonstrated, however, as well as the difficult accomplishment of keeping distant larders and stores adequately supplied. It has two very practical recommendations, lower prices in buying in great quantities, and a better choice in a general wholesale market. On the other hand a large central stores department will be required, and if the cost of government departments at headquarters in Toronto and Ottawa be any criterion the saving on purchase may freely leak out in expense account.

The new plan, if ordered into effect, will lead to reductions in the staffs of the institutions. It is stated that the offices of steward and storekeeper at Rockwood asylum, vacated last week, and for which there has been a frantic scramble of the faithful, will not again be filled. The burzar and his assistants, when relieved of purchasing duties, will be free to manage the stores department. This will be a grievous disappointment to zealous workers in town, who have had before them the alluring bait of a life job, and have exerted themselves for the party accordingly. Liberals have no tears to shed over the new policy of centralization. They stood a bombardment on this line in several elections when it was but a cry, a shadow without substance. They can leave it to their opponents to reconcile their attitudes and enjoy results of their own policy. Then under liberal rule conservatives received considerable commercial patronage, but as liberals have been accorded no recognition whatever since the government change of hands, they can view the local losses with equanimity. It would be too much to expect sympathy for those who depended upon rich political rewards in the line of orders for goods, and are left to mourn, though the leaders who drummed them into

LAST FLAGSHIP OF NELSON

Progress Made in Naval Construction.

New York Globe, Sept. 29.—The Victory, the last of Nelson's battleships, now floating in Portsmouth harbor, at the venerable age of 140 years, was recently taken by Sir Philip Watts, director of naval construction in England, as the starting point of an interesting address on the last 100 years' progress in warship design.

This 100-gun vessel, built in 1765, was forty years old at the last great sea fight of Great Britain at Trafalgar. The length of her gun decks is 186 feet, her extreme breadth 51 feet 10 inches, and her "burthen in tons 2,162. The thickness of her oak sides of these wooden battleships above the water line in the days of Trafalgar was about two feet. The old east iron smoothbores, with their wooden trucks, then in use, had a range of 2,500 yards at eight degrees elevation (the 24 and 32 pounders). The 24-pounder was able to penetrate nearly five feet of solid oak and the 32-pounder about half this amount.

The modern British warship of today is so much more powerful that a single one of the late British battleships could, it is said, have engaged the whole of the British fleet at Trafalgar and the allied fleet thrown in.

The modern British warship of today will penetrate forty-two inches of wrought iron and even at 3,000 yards will force uncapacitated projectiles through over twelve inches of Krupp steel armor. The twelve-inch guns range and are more powerful than the Armstrongs and Vickers companies in England are said to be capable of penetrating fifty-one inches of wrought iron and will fire two rounds per minute.

According to Sir Philip Watts, the present relation between guns and armor is about what it was in the days of the cast iron smoothbores and the British warship of today has been given great advances in the positions of offence and defence in naval warfare are but little changed.

Oso Station Items.

Oso Station, Sept. 29.—The farmers are digging their potatoes and have reported a good many of them rotten. Joseph Bourk commenced threshing this week. H. Fritze has returned after spending a few weeks in Kingston. Mrs. John Chambers and family have returned after visiting friends in Ottawa. Mrs. Wilson of Lanark, is visiting Mrs. C. Bourk. Some of the young men have gone to work in the mill at Mississippi. Some from here attended the fair at McDonald's Corners, to-day.

Editorial Notes.

G. W. Little of Manchester, Eng., says Canada's butter shipments will grow, as she is now producing a magnificent article, Canada does only four per cent. of the English butter trade. Of course we'll grow or be snuffed out.

Dr. Smith, the inspector of prisons and charities, has intimated to the Westworth county council that the law passed by the English legislature some years ago, requiring the establishment of county houses of refuge, will be strictly enforced. Frontenac must get busy.

He is the right sort. Col. Denison of Toronto, has a British tolerance for the man who stands up and fights fair with his hands, but he is pitiless towards the treacherous user of a knife or a gun, or the cowardly user of a club or missile, or the one who like an animal uses his teeth.

There is food for thought in the statement of A. Campbell Swinton, an eminent English civil engineer, that sixty-eight out of 170 municipal electric light undertakings in that land, are being conducted at a loss, whilst, if proper allowance was made for depreciation, the number would be still larger.

The Peterboro council voted down a proposition to revert to the election of aldermen by the ward system, and decided to reduce the membership of the board of education from eleven to eleven members, to be elected by general vote instead of by wards, as at present. Kingston should follow suit.

Budget From Gushendall.

Gushendall, Sept. 30.—Some repairs are being made to the Methodist parsonage. Miss H. Hulston is a guest at Rev. R. Calvert's. Miss May Hunter is visiting friends in the city. Arthur Germain and Edward Peck attended Caturday fair this week. Among those who went to Lansdowne fair were Miss Gladys Weir, J. Weir and G. Hyland. J. Donaldson and wife, city, were recent guests of W. Howe Island visiting his sister, Mrs. E. Simpson. Mrs. McFarlane is the guest of her brother, Dr. McFarlane, Woods. Maser Charles Martin is at Watertown, N.Y. Much satisfaction prevails among the patrons of the cheese factory over the continued high price of cheese. Inspector Robinson visited the factory this week and found everything satisfactory under the highly competent cheesemaker, H. Groszick and his able assistants, C. Cochrane and A. Miller. J. Groszick, Shamonsville, is staying with relatives here. Miss Adda Stewart, New York, who was a guest at C. W. Trotter's, is visiting friends in Kingston and vicinity. Father Collins is preparing quite a large class for confirmation on October 16th. James Greenlee is recovering from a slight indisposition. Rev. D. Jenkins was in Cranston last week, where he performed the marriage of Miss Jackson and W. H. Brown.

News From Rockport.

Rockport, Sept. 25.—Driscoll Griffin, of Gouverneur, N.Y., is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Charles Griffin. Miss A. Harpell, of Kingston, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. M. J. Hopkins. Miss Minnie White, Alexandria Bay, will spend a few months with her mother here. Mrs. Alexander Tharret, of Club Island, is spending the week with relatives in Kingston. William Kahn's family, of Dark Island, have moved in with Mrs. W. Root for a short time. Maggie Campbell, of Club Island, has gone to Kingston to learn dressmaking.

Miss Bessie Scott, of Gouverneur, N.Y., is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cornwall. James Wallace is building an addition to his home, Leman Guild, of the Whig staff, spent Sunday at the home of Wilson Root. Mr. Dolan, of Gouverneur, N.Y., paid this place a flying visit Tuesday. Dr. and Mrs. Lefevre, of Will Wych Point, have closed their cottage and returned to New York. The doctor is having a new boat built for his handsome yacht. Miss Patricia Hollinsworth, Escott, is seriously ill.

It is said that General Traffic Passenger Agent Davis will go over to G. T. P., to be succeeded by General Ticket Agent Bell. Other promotions will be made.

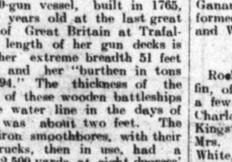

Emperor William, in addition to conferring medals to the Methodist parsonage, the Black Eagle, presented him with his portrait, framed in gold and inscribed with the emperor's own hand.

JOYS OF MATERNITY

A WOMAN'S BEST HOPES REALIZED

Mrs. Potts Tells How Women Should Prepare for Motherhood

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to childless and lonely old age. Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a displacement of the womb, a lack of strength in the generative organs.

Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

"During the early part of my married life I was delicate in both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to term. A neighbor, Vegetable Compound advised me to try it. I did so and soon felt that I was growing stronger, my headache and backaches left me. I had no more bearing-down pains, and felt like a new woman. Within a year I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of our home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a great remedy, and I wish every woman who wants to become a mother would try it."

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free to expectant or would-be mothers.

A FORTUNE AT COBALT.

Ex-Lineman From Parkhill Now Worth $500,000.

Parkhill, Ont., Oct. 2.—One year ago John Glendon, of Parkhill, went into the Cobalt district as a laborer. He worked with a surveying party superintended by Surveyors Blair, of Norfolk county, and Kerr, of Westworth. Glendon was a lineman getting $1.50 a day.

The two surveyors prospected and discovered three rich tracts of free silver. They were in the employ of the government, and could not make out claims in their own names. They picked on Glendon as the man to make out the claims. He did. Three claims were got in his name.

300,000 and Glendon's interest, one-third, is $500,000.

A TALL YOUTH.

Dies of Starvation Due to Rapid Growth.

Denver, Oct. 2.—Too rapid growth caused the death of Berthold Weinhauser, Jr., son of a Milwaukee millionaire. The lad was only fourteen years old, but had attained the stature of six feet one inch. In the last year he grew two feet one inch in height. This rapid growth injured his health, rendering it impossible for him to assimilate sufficient food to properly nourish his body, and he virtually starved to death. The boy was on his way to New Zealand for his health, accompanied by his father, mother and sister, when he died in a hotel here.
