

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD. THEIR BUNCO GAME

Neglected Colds Lead to Consumption.

PE-RU-NA CURES COLDS AND COUGHS.

How Pretty Miss Powell Was Restored to Health by Pe-Ru-Na.

How Consumption Develops. Nine cases of consumption out of ten occur in this way. A person catches cold. The cold is not properly cured, and another cold is caught. This cold is dilly-dallied with, either by no treatment whatever or some treatment that is ineffectual, and the cold continues. Then another cold is caught and a cough develops. Cough syrups are resorted to, but they give only temporary relief. By and by the patient gets tired of taking medicines and cough syrups and gives up in despair. The cold continues to develop and the cough grows worse. Then the doctor is called in, only to discover that the patient is in the first stages of consumption. It was just in this way that Miss Powell, of Aurora, Ind., became sick. She caught a cold, and not considering it serious, neglected it, thinking as many others do, that it would "wear off."

Miss Lillian Powell, Aurora, Ind., writes: "Last spring I caught a severe cold from getting my feet wet and being out in the rain, and in a day I had a most miserable cold, but I neglected it, thinking it would soon leave me. But it hung to me for two weeks, when I felt something must be done, as my condition was serious. I had heard so much about Pe-Ru-Na and in its praise that I bought a bottle and began taking it regularly. I was gratified to find that in a week the cold and cough was broken up, and three weeks' treatment completely restored my usual good health."

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women

They are the prescription of a specialist. This is an age of specialists,—men who give all their time, study, and practice to some particular branch of medicine. There are specialists of the eye, specialists in diseases of the lungs, specialists in diseases of women. It costs something to get a prescription from a specialist, but it is worth all it costs, when you get it. Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women are the prescription of Dr. Hugo, of Paris, a specialist of forty years' experience in diseases of women. It embraces the latest medical discoveries of the other skilled physicians in the world. It might be called a compound prescription of the world's best specialists. No ordinary physician can prescribe such a remedy. The better the physician, the nearer will be his prescription to that of Dr. Hugo. Thousands of women in Europe have paid $50 for a consultation with Dr. Hugo and got the same remedy. Considering the benefit they received from it, it was worth $50, but it costs women now only 50c. for six dozen tablets—enough for an extended treatment. It is a compound remedy containing all the tonics and alteratives that any woman can need, no matter what her condition. For women suffering from a run-down condition, or any weakness peculiar to her sex, it is now acknowledged to be beyond doubt or question the best remedy available to-day. It makes healthy women.

HYMEN AT YARKER

A Wedding of the True Church Order. In St. Anthony's church, Yarker, Dr. Hugo Beattie, of Dobbs' Ferry, New York, was married to Miss Annie M. Baxter, eldest daughter of Arthur Baxter, of Yarker. The altar and sanctuary were lovely in festive attire with vases of cut flowers and stately palms. The vested choir, presided by the cross bearer, wearing a bouquet of roses, followed by the rector, Rev. C. E. S. Radcliffe, escorted the bride and her father and bridesmaid up the centre aisle to the chancel steps, singing the hymn, old, but always new and realistic, 359 A. & M. After the marriage prayer was concluded the bride and bridesmaid followed the rector to the altar railings whilst the choir chanted the "Deus Misericordiae." The prayers and benediction and a short address were here said and given. On returning to the church the bride and groom were again led down the aisle, the organ playing the wedding march from Lohengrin and rigging of the church bell the happy couple drove to the Baxter house, where a reception was held and refreshments served. The bride looked very charming in her going-away costume of rich blue with hat to match. The organist, Miss Gertrude Connolly, and the choir, as stated by F. G. Millar, of Newburgh, conducted the musical portions of the service admirably. Mr. and Mrs. Beattie left, by train, for an extended tour in the west of Canada, before returning to their home near New York. Judge Beattie, Mrs. Beattie, Miss Telford, Dr. Whitney, Messrs. McBride and John Beattie returned to New York. About thirty invited guests were present.

Boy Shot For A Deer

Glen Falls, N.Y., Oct. 7.—Mistaken for a deer and shot by his companions, George Mosher, Jr., twenty-one years old, is dead at his father's home in Thurman, Warren county. This is the first fatality of this kind to occur this season on the eastern Adirondack slope. Mosher, with five others of his own age, was in camp near West Stony Creek. Early last evening he went out on a trail with Duane Wood and Elmer Bondick. The boys separated, and later Wood and Bondick, who were near each other, fired at what they supposed was a deer. A human cry told them of their mistake, and hurrying to a clump of bushes, they found Mosher with an ugly bullet wound in his hip. The boy died within an hour. It is not known which of the two shot him, as both fired at the same time, and their rifles are of the same calibre.

TWO TRAVELLING PHOTO MEN BEFORE CAD.

One Gets Off and the Other Two Months in Jail—Some People Always Ready to Bite at "Something For Nothing"—Hartnell Gets Two Years in Central. Ralph Radlow and Samuel Canton were charged by Mrs. Watson with stealing one dollar. "Not guilty," answered the accused when the township Magistrate Farrell read the charge. "Call the witnesses," ordered the court. Elizabeth Watson took the oath, and related the circumstances of the case. Canton came to her place and gave the name Wilson. He asked how long Wilson had lived there, and how long she would remain. He then said he was an agent for enlarging pictures, showed a sample. If it was good, he would enlarge it without cost, her nothing, and would serve as an advertisement for his work. Witness gave him a photograph of her son. Also asked how it was such pictures could be enlarged free of charge. Wilson said it was all right as they were a large firm, and only wanted to advertise their work in Kingston. The next week Radlow came with a proof, gave his name as Moore, and showed same of his picture frames. Witness said if she took one it would have to be pretty cheap. She took one at $3.75. When they came with the frame, witness found fault, because it was not the one she had ordered. Also found fault with the eyes in the picture. Moore said she would have to take the picture. Witness said she wouldn't, and that it was not worth any more than a dollar. Moore said he would not take the picture, and witness came into the house, and witness asked for a receipt for the dollar. He wrote it, but did not sign his name. She handed it back and he signed Wilson as his name. (The receipt was produced on account of the dollar, which was handed over the dollar. Wilson still held the picture in his hand. On getting the dollar he ran away, and the other drove off. Witness then sent her daughter to telephone for the police. Late evening Moore came out to witness' home with another man to settle. Moore indulged in a few cross questions. Mrs. Watson denied that she was not the one who had the picture. Moore asked for fifty cents in advance, and was told it would be time enough when the picture was handed over. Maud Watson was present when the picture was brought in by Wilson, who was asked by her mother how much the frame was. He said $3.75. Witness' mother said she would not give $3.75 as it was not worth more than $1. Moore then told the same story as her mother regarding the receipt. Witness sustained the plaintiff's evidence regarding the grabbing the money, and both running off. Moore was going out of the house, when Wilson took the money. Witness tried to seize one of the other pictures out of the rig and Moore slapped her hands, and told her to get away. Further down the street Wilson got in the rig and both drove off. Moore took up the cross-examination, but elicited little further. He then took the stand on his own behalf. His true name was Ralph Radlow. When the witness called her name called later to submit a proof and hear any suggestions regarding it. Witness told Mrs. Watson it was an absolute necessity to have a frame to preserve the picture for a number of years. She said she could not afford an expensive one. She selected one for $3.75. Witness then told her that as a rule a deposit was required on goods selected. She replied that her circumstances did not permit her to do so, but that she was good for it. He further stated that his firm would not cut the moulding without a deposit. On returning with the frame witness stayed at the Windsor Hotel, and the next day Mrs. Watson complained it was not proper frame and witness went in to see about it. Eventually the matter was smoothed out and witness asked for the money. She gave $1 on deposit. Receiving no answer, witness walked out and got into his rig. Mrs. Watson and witness, then had a lively little cross-question. In answer to the magistrate's statement that he had registered the picture, witness said she had registered it. His firm was the Supply Portrait company, of 1249 Queen street west, Toronto. Had agreed to give Mrs. Watson the picture as an advertisement for the firm. On going there, yesterday, with the picture, she said she could not seem to think the frame was the one selected. Witness called in Radlow. Mrs. Watson got excited and did a lot of "hollering." She offered Radlow a dollar. He said she could pay that on account and get the picture at Wilson's, which accounted for the signature, Wilson, on the receipt. Radlow went out then. Mrs. Watson then gave witness the dollar. He walked out and did not run away. When he signed the receipt for one dollar in full he meant it for the dollar in full. The name Wilson he meant for the place where the picture could be secured on payment of the balance. "Yes. The whole thing is a fraud. That will do," added the magistrate after a few pointed questions. The defendants were then asked to stand up and listen to his worship's summary of the case. "At Cross Street, there are people gullible there were others out with games to defraud them. There seems no doubt that a compromise was effected by Canton with one dollar as the price of the

SUPERIOR TO BAKED BEAN.

That Was the Gushing Opinion of Kennedy. Council Bluffs, Iowa, Oct. 6.—Let- ters written by William Kennedy, a wealthy Iowa farmer, to Miss Cynthia Ferguson, of St. Louis, were read as evidence in the woman's $25,000 breach-of-promise suit. There are 108 in all. The queer mixture of business, sentiment, and appetite in the letters caused much amusement. "For Christmas," said one of the letters, "I want 105 kisses, fourteen Kentucky mince pies, blackberry cake, a peck of doughnuts, a twenty-pound turkey, and a pan of hot biscuits." In another letter Kennedy wrote: "How nice it is that you are not going to the States for me, as I can't permit her to do so, but that she was good for it. He further stated that his firm would not cut the moulding without a deposit. On returning with the frame witness stayed at the Windsor Hotel, and the next day Mrs. Watson complained it was not proper frame and witness went in to see about it. picture. Moore gets out before the actual deal takes place from motives best known to himself. Mrs. Watson, with more foresight than is generally found in people of this nature insists upon a receipt. This receipt is signed with the name Wilson. If this means the place where the picture was to be secured, then the case was one of giving a receipt with no signature. There is no doubt of an attempted fraud. The surprise is how people can be deceived by persons of this class. The game was being worked continually on Moore, who expected something on Moore's part. There was suspicion on Moore's part, but he must be given the benefit of the doubt." The court then pronounced sentence. Moore was found not guilty, and on Canton sentence was reserved. This did not finish the case, however. Mrs. Hartman was after the pair. She lives at the toll-gate and a like game was worked on her. The pair kept a picture of her deceased son and refused to give it up, because she would not buy a frame. Had called often for the picture but could not get it. The magistrate dismissed Radlow and told him to take warning by his escape. Canton did not fare as well. The court told him that his manner of stealing the dollar was as mean as any way possible. That was under cover of a sale or gift was all too common. As a punishment and as a warning to others he was sentenced two months in jail. Mrs. Watson will back her framed picture, and Mrs. Hartman her photo. The man Hartnell, remanded for sentence, on a charge of forgery was given two years less one day in Central prison.

MAY LOSE LATEST HUSBAND

Rival Plans Trouble for Woman Recently Wedded. Chicago, Oct. 7.—Three times married and the youngest grandmother in the United States, Mrs. Laura B. Latour-Milice-Lawson, may lose her latest husband, the Windsor hotel owner, if a rival claimant appears. The bride, who is only thirty-four years old, went to the altar with Harry M. Lawson, a wealthy hotel owner, of Sedalia, Mo., last Monday. All past romances and complications were forgiven and overlooked as both parties to the marriage had divores to their credit. Mrs. Nettie R. P. Skaggs-Lawson was entirely overlooked in the festivities. Mrs. Skaggs-Lawson lives at the Saratoga hotel, in this city, and when Mr. Lawson and his bride came to the Palmer House, Mrs. Skaggs-Lawson sought to mar their felicity, but was too late. She then followed them to Kansas City, Mo., where preparations were being made for legal action against Lawson. Mrs. Milice-Lawson was only fourteen years old when she first tackled matrimony and at thirty-one became the proud grandmother of a little girl born to her daughter Hazel. KELPION

The Ointment That Heals 25 Cents.

A pure, stainless iodine ointment applied to cuts, burns or bruises to subdue pain and reduce inflammation. Cancer and other malign growths often result from the slightest breakage of the skin. "Kelpion" will kill the microbe of poison and prevent infection. Private C. T. Mayes, who served through the Boer campaign with the Imperial Volunteers, has this to say of "Kelpion": "The pot of Kelpion issued to our V. I. C. Kit was one of the few things we took from Cape Town to the front with us. "It was very useful indeed; one of the finest and quickest remedies for cuts, sprains, skin diseases, wounds and bruises. "Your Kelpion surprised every one who used it, for it cured foot sores, and it ought to command a large sale in South Africa if advertised for that reason. "I have based praises from all C.I.V. and Regulars who used it, and I guarantee every C.I.V. will recommend it." WHAT KELPION WILL DO. It will cure all skin diseases and eruptions, whether of the nature of eczema, an ulcer or a cold sore. It will allay all inflammation, whether internal, as of the lungs, or due to rheumatism in the joints. It will reduce swellings, whether due to sprains and hurts or from internal enlargement. GEO.
