

A PROMINENT MERCHANT OF MONTREAL Says: "I Believe Pe-ru-na Has No Equal."

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Catarrh Remedy, Especially Valuable to the Declining Powers of the Older People.

In old age the mucous membranes become thickened and partly lose their function.

This leads to partial loss of hearing, smell and taste, as well as digestive disturbances.

Pe-ru-na corrects all this by its specific operation on all the mucous membranes of the body.

One bottle will convince any one. Once used and Pe-ru-na becomes a life-long stand-by with old and young.

Mr. Charles F. Benetton, Truesdell, Mo., writes: "I have followed your instructions for the past month and am now as well as I can be at the age of eighty-four years."

I thank you for your valuable instructions and advice. I first used Pe-ru-na fourteen years ago when my health was so bad that I had no hope of staying many days, and after using it I began to pick up. It has helped me ever since. I feel well, but will always have Pe-ru-na as my companion."

Charles F. Benetton.

Pe-ru-na Proved a Life-Saver.

Mr. Louis Byrens, auctioneer, commission merchant and business broker, 48 1/2 Richmond street, London, Ont., writes:

"I had been a sufferer with what physicians diagnosed as chronic catarrh. I thereby lost the necessary speaking facilities, which almost caused me to discontinue the business of auctioneer."

"After spending several hundred dollars for various medicines and doctor bills without avail, your wonderful remedy, Pe-ru-na, was recommended to me."

"After using several bottles of this life-saver, I found relief, and I am again capable of conducting my auction sales. I wish to convince others, likewise afflicted, of the merits of your great remedy."

Louis Byrens.

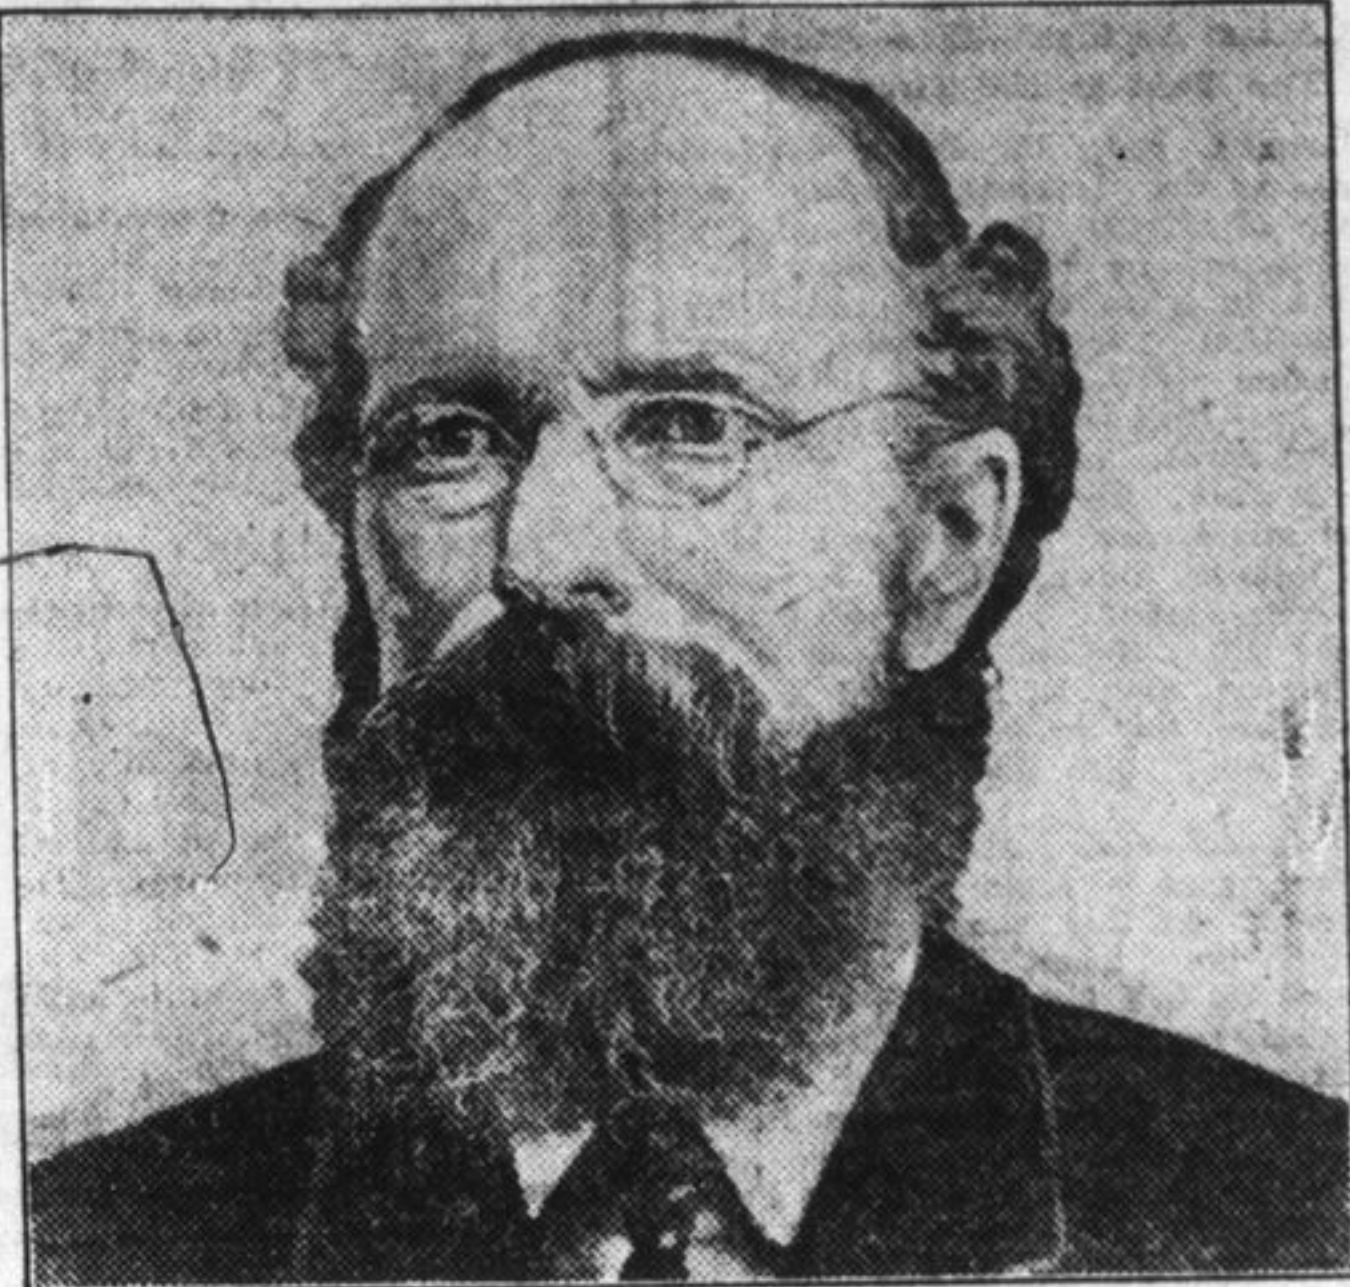

Happy Results Follow Use of Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Alex McKenzie, Montreal, Ont., bookkeeper for the Jewelry and Importing Co. and Scribe for the I. O. O. F., Jeanne of Arc Court No. 160, writes:

"As I have used Pe-ru-na with happy results, I am glad to endorse it. My system is at times an easy subject to catarrhal colds. Especially if I am out in inclement weather or become suddenly chilled."

"When I get a cold I take Pe-ru-na, and it is only a question of a day or two until I am fully restored."

Alex McKenzie.

JAMES CURRIE.

Mr. James Currie, a prominent merchant of Montreal, Can., writes from 1808 Notre Dame street, as follows:

"I have used your Pe-ru-na for catarrh and find it an excellent remedy for coughs and colds. I believe it has no equal. My wife has used several bottles and she recommends it very highly. We keep it in the house constantly for family use and would not be without it at twice its cost."

James Currie.

A Valuable Medicine for Coughs and Colds.

Mr. Louis Monpetit, 251 St. Elizabeth Ave., St. Henry, Montreal, is President of the St. John Baptist Society and a leading merchant on the St. Lawrence Market. He writes as follows:

"I would consider myself very ungrateful if I did not acknowledge the great merit of your wonderful medicine, Pe-ru-na."

"I contracted a severe cold by remaining too long in my ice house, and became so afflicted with a bad cough that I was obliged to remain indoors for a time."

"A friend brought me a bottle of Pe-ru-na. I began taking it and immediately received benefit from it. In a very short time my cold and cough were gone and I was restored to my usual health."

"I attribute my speedy recovery to the use of Pe-ru-na and I have no hesitation in saying I believe Pe-ru-na to be a valuable medicine for coughs and colds, and would cheerfully recommend it."

Louis Monpetit.

Pe-ru-na can be purchased of all first class druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

HE RECOVERED $50 THE CLOSE OF THE WOLFE ISLAND CASE.

Judge Held That the Captain Had a Contract and Was Limited to One Month's Salary if Discharged.

The celebrated Crawford case was resumed at 2:15 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, the defence taking the stand. Thomas Briceland, reeve of Wolfe Island, went into the box. On the 25th day of May, last, he went to the foot of the island to see after the freight. They started to load cheese at Wolfe Island. The captain saw after storing away of the cargo. "I said, captain, why not have three trucks instead of two." He said he was tired. I didn't ask him to handle truck, I said I am here to see that you see that this work is done, if you don't I will have to get some one else. He said he didn't want thirty minutes notice. I didn't discharge him. He said, "If you say so I'll go, I made no reply. As manager my duty was to see that the work was done, but not to hire or dismiss men. As soon as the boat got in Kingston I stepped off going plank. He met me and said, "I'm really for my money now." I said I'd give him a cheque when I went to the island. We walked up town and when parting I said, "captain as you are leaving I'm going to get another captain." His reply was, "Go to—get whom you like." I got Winborne, who was collecting tolls on market. I had not previously spoken to him. I knew not whom I'd get. After a walk up town I came down to see steamer Wolfe Island go over to G.T.R. wharf. I had nothing to say between the 25th May and council meeting on June 5th to Crawford.

To Rigney—At council I started to give my report of the fracas, but Crawford interrupted me "to have his say." This was the only report I made. Crawford said he wouldn't stay if I remained as manager. He was discharged by the minutes of council. "I deny I asked him to run a truck. I said captain you could have three trucks as well as two. I didn't tell you on the trip over that the captain was discharged. I, as reeve, have full power over the entire crew of steamer."

I never told the captain I was appointed manager. How it happened I went to Beakley's Bay that Thursday. The previous week we had the third deck-hand which some said was not necessary. It was suggested by Crawford I go down. It was an average load. They didn't need an extra deck-hand. There is one now and we let him stay, though it's hardly necessary. I received a letter from you and no minute was made in council of its receipt.

Stuart Armstrong, councillor—He seconded the engagement of Crawford as captain. First heard of the now celebrated incident, next day. Crawford came with Flynn shortly after I heard news. I asked captain, "Did the reeve dismiss you?" and the answer came "No Sir, he ordered me to run a truck and I would not take his lip." He said, "I intend to collect my season's pay, but if you put out Briceland I'll go back on steamer. I said I'd try and fix up the matter. He said the boat was not safe. Flynn and I talked it over, and we decided to advise him to go on with his work, but he said, "I don't wish to go on her now." Crawford said he'd go back if Winborne was put off. I said I didn't think I could do that for I didn't know what agreement had been made with Winborne. Crawford, spoke at council, June 5th, and offered to go back, if management was changed. I said he'd have to agree with reeve if he wanted to go back. To Rigney—I was in favor of Crawford returning to boat. The ferry has no right to dismiss him. There was no resolution of the board of dismissal. No agreement was made with Winborne, as with Crawford. D. J. Leslie, engineer of ferry—I did not hear dispute, Crawford said "I've quit." I said "you're fooling." To Rigney—I swear he said "I've quit." Crawford, re-called—I deny saying the words, "I've quit." I swear Armstrong invited me to council meeting. J. L. Whiting in addressing the jury said the case might be called a "Tempest in a teapot." In this case his damages are limited by one month's wages. The only question to be dealt with is, "Was he discharged by the municipality or did he chuck up his job?" The difficulty arose over running the third truck. The ferry has to be run as economically as possible. It was one of those times when employees are supposed to exert a little effort to "make hay while the sun shines." Briceland did not ask the captain to put his hand to the truck; the mate was there and could have done it. The captain said, "If you say so, I'll go now." It was plainly a waiving of all his rights, he apparently did not want a thirty day's notice. Even after a chance to cool off, coming over from Wolfe Island, he left of his own free will. He simply got mad and chucked his job. But this is an action against the township, not against me. The reeve had no right to discharge him. Crawford says himself that Briceland had no right to discharge him. Crawford should have gone to council and said "Briceland and I have had a difference, and want you to re-adjust it," instead he goes and says, he won't work unless Briceland is dismissed. He wasn't discharged by council. I submit Briceland didn't discharge him, he simply walked off, of his own account. On the evidence you will have to find he was not unlawfully dismissed. T. J. Rigney said: We started out to prove Capt. Crawford was wrongfully dismissed and fix the damages. The facts dwindle down to whether or not he was discharged. There is a receipt of evidence. Briceland says he merely suggested a third truck might be put on, whereas Crawford says Briceland asked "Aren't you going to run a truck?" You have evidence of an old mariner, Coleman Hinkley, who says it is out of a paper-boat's station to run a truck. If we

SHE POSED AS MAN

COLORADO WOMAN LEAD A REMARKABLE LIFE.

She Had Filled Many Positions—Started Out Well Equipped for Life—Reads Like Page of Fiction. Trinidad, Col., Oct. 11.—For forty years masquerading as a man, Charles F. Vanburgh has been discovered to be a woman. In that time she has been a clerk, bank cashier, and a score of similar things, but for the past twenty-one years has been a sheep herder in Las Animas county. Well educated, reading and writing half a dozen different languages, she started out well equipped for life, but was unable to get anything to do as a woman, so she turned man. Her true sex was discovered for the first time by Dr. J. T. Forhan, while examining her at the San Raphael hospital, where she had been sent for the infirmities of old age. She is now eighty-four years old.

The story related by Miss Vanburgh, for she has never married, reads like a page from fiction. She was born in Marseilles, France, of well-to-do parents, and was educated in that country, studying medicine. When twenty-three years old she came to this country in a sailing vessel, found it impossible to get work, donned male attire and had lived a man's life ever since.

In Times Of Stress.

Amusing, indeed, are some of the devices employed by bankers to gain time and inspire confidence. On one occasion, the excited depositors at a bank, much to their indignation, were only able to enter the doors one by one, except at the cost of spoiled coats, as the manager, in an inspired moment, had had the door posts freshly painted.

Another bank prevented a crisis in its affairs by exhibiting in the windows large tubs apparently brimful of sovereigns. These tubs, however, were simply upside down, and only a small quantity of gold was piled on the bottoms.

But perhaps the most ingenious dodge of all was successfully carried out in an American bank recently. There was a run, and for several days depositors besieged the premises, withdrawing money and placing it in another bank on the opposite side of the road.

It happened, however, that these two institutions had a private understanding, and as fast as the "safe" bank received the deposits they were returned to the "unsafe" one by an underground passage, with the result that everyone marvelled at its continued ability to meet the demand made upon it.
