A PROFESSIONAL HYPNOTIST

Was the Young Man Drowned Last Night.

Reginald Britt, a professional hypnotist, of Brownville, N.Y., was the youth drowned off the government dry-dock, last evening.

His identity was established by Dr. Sands, coroner, and Samuel Corbett, undertaker, on their trip to Collins Bay, this morning. Britt had not been working for a farmer as he believed, but had stayed at the hotel for two days, and being penniless, had left a valise and contents to pay a board bill of $1.25.

Enclosed in the valise was a diploma of graduation from a correspondence school of hypnotism in Chicago. Also a post card, which he had neglected to mail, addressed to A. Wilson, Ottawa, and signed "Your affectionate nephew, Reginald Britt, Brownville, N.Y."

Wilson and the Brownville authorities were notified by the chief of police, J. L. Whiting, but this morning it quite unlikely an inquest will be held, as there are no evidences of foul play.

A Young Lady's Visit.

A young lady, from Collins Bay, plainly deeply affected, called at Corbett's undertaking establishment on Tuesday afternoon, to identify the drowned man. She had heard, he had worked for Gateskill, a farmer, and if it was the same man he had also worked for a Collins Bay farmer, through the fact that a man from that village came to the city yesterday and tried to ship on board some steamer.

W. CAMPBELL

Has Had His Poems Signally Honored.

A SPECIAL EDITION

WILL BE PUT IN CARNEGIE LIBRARIES.

His Poems Will Now Reach People—Five Hundred Copies in Edition—By Syrian Priests Justified in Begging.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Wilfrid W. Campbell, the well-known Canadian poet has been signally honored by Andrew Carnegie, who has signified his intention of buying a complete special edition of five hundred copies, of a forthcoming volume of poems, and will present one to each of the libraries he has erected throughout the English-speaking world. This will place Mr. Campbell's poems within reach of the people, and it is doubtful if any other poet was ever so honored. The edition will be known as the Carnegie edition.

The four Syrian priests, arrested for begging, were quite justified in doing so, according to the decision of acting magistrate, Samuel Rosenthal, this morning. The credentials of Archbishop Sergius, of the Armenian church, are sufficient, under the Ottawa by-laws governing begging.

A twelve-year-old boy, who was found on the streets helplessly intoxicated, appeared in the magistrate's court yesterday. On the previous night a boy nearly as young was discovered in a drunken state in one of the city lanes, where he had been left by two men. Efforts are being made to trace the liquor dealer who furnished the boys with whiskey.

A clear surplus of $490,844 over and above the expenditure for the year is the greatest outstanding feature of Canada's postal transactions for the twelve months ending June 30th. In former years there have been surpluses but the opposition critics have claimed that it was reached by cutting the expenditure for the Yukon.

In the present statement, however, there has been so much omission; the expenditure for the Yukon and Atlantic mail services, which exceeded the revenue by $10,946, have been incorporated with the outlay for the rest of the dominion, and notwithstanding this fact and an increase of $280,963 in the expenditure owing to expansions of the service, the total receipts exceeded the total disbursements by nearly half a million dollars. This is highly creditable to the late postmaster-general, Sir William Mulock.

It looks quite farcical to advertise for a superintendent of the House of Industry when the conservatives have selected the man they will put it. A Frontenac says the conservative element have promised him the place.

The Church Militant.

On the platform of a railway station in Scarborough, a young lady recognized a man who had insulted her in a railway carriage. She pointed him out to a friend, the vicar of a neighboring parish, and the offender admitted his guilt. Thereupon the vicar gave the fellow a sound thrashing.

FRED SNOW NOT DEAD

IN SPITE OF THE PAPERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

Motorman Dean Allowed Out on Bail—Dead Body of Man Found in Shack Along Line of Temiskaming RR.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Fred Snow, who was injured by a street car on Bathurst street, yesterday, is not dead, despite the announcements in all the morning papers, to-day.

The fact that a jury has been empanelled to investigate, it has not yet been ascertained how the mistaken information was given to the police.

Motorman Dean, who is charged with manslaughter, in connection with the death of C. G. Rockwood, was released on bail, this morning, by Justice McMahon, at Osgoode Hall. The crown attorney and Police Magistrate Dennison had refused to grant bail, hence the application at Osgoode Hall, this morning. Justice McMahon looked over the papers filed by counsel, and signed bail order without comment.

Inspector Smythe, of South Essex, has made a report to the license department, on the alleged debauchery of Indians at Renwick, recently, and says that the charges seem to have been true. He satisfied himself, however, that the liquor was not supplied from his district. The department is puzzled, because Inspector Massey, of West Kent, in which Renwick is, has not yet been heard from.

On his way south on the Temiskaming railway, yesterday, Inspector Rogers, with the attorney-general's department, was notified that a man's body was in a construction shack beside the line. The train was stopped at the place, and the detective made a search of the shack. The body, which was that of a well built man, about twenty-eight years of age, in the pocket of a hunting jacket was a bill made out to William Thompson, from Mosler's hardware store at Huntsville.

MURRAH! FOR HUSKING BEES.

Lapum, Oct. 17.—Owing to the illness of our pastor, Rev. R. A. Whatnam, Mr. Coglin, principal of Wilton school, officiated at the service on Wednesday evening, last week. Now that potato digging is over, hurrah for husking bees and apple cuts.

The first husking was on Monday evening, at James McGaughey's, Maple avenue. Quite a number of the service on Wednesday evening, after a withdrawal of several months. There is a great demand for turkeys, and they are quite plentiful here. Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Adkin Snider, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Sane, Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Vandewater; Mr. and Mrs. William Boulton, Camden East, with Mr. and Mrs. Levi Brown; Mr. and Mrs. R. Carl, Yarker; Mr. Clara Lapum and Mrs. Stanley Brown, with Mr. and Mrs. George, Miss Myrtle Clady, with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Brown; Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, Hartington, with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Love.

An Old Will Case.

Eccentric during life, William Gallagher, an old money-lender, of Dubuque, Iowa, leaves behind in his will marks of his strange mind, a mind that baffles the lawyers now at work to define it.

He provides for a Roman Catholic and strong temperance advocate, it would be natural for him to appoint a member of his own creed as executor, and he would seek a man of abstemious habits, but instead of this, "Cultivator Jack," as he was familiarly called, named six members of the Methodist church as executors, and had three saloon-keepers to witness the instrument. The will gives all his property, amounting to $12,000, to a dozen priests of the Roman Catholic faith, and his relatives object.

Watch The Drain Pipes.

Look well to the ways of pipes now, that you're back in your house! Nothing else is so conditions in its harboring of general troubles, and when a little care will prevent not only unpleasant odors, but actual illness, it's mighty well worth looking to.

Go over the house every little while—every few days if there is even a suspicion of odor about them—and pour disinfectants down every drain. In the kitchen sink put a little caustic soda, and let the water carry it down; but in using caustic soda be careful not to let it touch your flesh—it will make a bad burn well into the flesh.
