THE BILL RAISER HOW HE WAS SECURED BY POLICE.

He Was Identified By Various Parties—He Could Say Little in English—Police Court Interview.

The capture, yesterday, of Giovanni Pasitello, for the passing of raised bills, was highly exciting and commendable, both for the prompt work of Litton, the Alfred street grocer, in notifying the police, and also in the quick time made by the latter in effecting the arrest.

Word came to the police station at 3.10 p.m., that an Italian had attempted to pass a raised bill at Litton's grocery—then followed the chase. Police Constable Mullinger captured a nearby horse and rig and was off. Police Constable Arnell followed in another rig and was the first to arrive on the scene of action. Spotting his man in Frontenac Park he rode straight for him, and a trifle past. Turning around to cut off his flight, Arnell and Mullinger being a little behind and on either side, he quickly "nabbed" his man.

When searched, the prisoner had only one good ten dollar bill in his possession. The question then arises, "Where did this money come from?" he obtained by working the five different sources?

Police Constable Arnell, this morning making a thorough search of the car at the outer depot, in which the Italian slept along with the gang.

The foreman of the gang declared that he gave Pasitello his time, and saw him on the car for Montreal, on Wednesday morning. He had to go there for his money. This had a tendency to throw the local police off the track, thinking their prisoner many miles away.

Six different men have identified Pasitello as being the one who tried or succeeded in passing raised bills on them. They are: Messrs. Shay, Pine Street; Williams, corner Princess and University Avenue; Gray, corner Colborne and Clergy Streets; Litton, corner of Alfred and Earl Streets; E. Baker, clerk at Haffner's Montreal street; and L. Zacks, Princess Street. When these men declared him to be the guilty party, all he would do was to shake his head and mutter, "No, no!"

L. Zacks became quite demonstrative. "Yes, oh! that's the fellow," and shaking his fist and edging nearer for further emphasis, "I could smash him," he declared. The prisoner trembled with fear and an officer stepped between to prevent trouble.

Pasitello appeared in police court this morning on the charge of passing raised bills, and was remanded until Monday morning.

The prisoner is a young man, aged about twenty years, and of medium height. He has a round clean shaven face, and black hair. He wears a dark cap, blue jersey and a "kathie" belt. He appears stupid and lets on he knows nothing, muttering, "No, no," to every question asked. If he is not really guilty he has been a clever tool.

With the exception of his deal with L. Zacks, Friday last, he has worked only groceries in his line. He was cunning enough to choose the early hours of the evening for his passing, when the somewhat subdued light of a corner grocery would not show up the bill to such advantage as day light. But the inevitable came, when he tried, yesterday afternoon to do Charles Litton.

Mrs. Gray, corner of Colborne and Clergy Streets, appeared in the police station and positively identified the prisoner as the one who bought one dozen eggs and a five-cent cigar, Wednesday about 4.30 p.m., and tendered in payment ten dollar American bill. She is out in hard cash $9.75.

In identifying the Italian, Miss Toiber, 312 Montreal street, declared him to be the man who purchased one dozen eggs and wanted a cigar, but she did not have any. She declares he can speak better English than he can be. Miss Toiber says he gave her an American ten, but she paid no further attention until this morning, when she was asked if she had been fooled. On looking she discovered her loss. In each case he is out $9.75. The losses suffered by the other buyers: L. Zacks, $7.50; Haffner, $9.75; Shay, $9.75; Williams, not known; one more is to be heard from.

Police Constable Arnell, who made a search of the car where prisoner had been sleeping, this morning found nothing of value.

Mrs. Gray paid out the bill given to her, and had it returned this morning.

ECHOES OF TRIAL.

Mr. Mabey—"How about the other five rigs? Who paid for those?"

Witness—"John Sowards."

"When did he pay you?"

"Some time before the election."

"How much did he pay you?"

"Fifty dollars."

(Mr. Sowards is president of the Macdonald Conservative Club.)

POTATOES WILL GO UP

So You Had Better Lay in Stock Now.

While the potato crop, locally, for 1905 is all but a complete failure, the market is not materially affected so far. Potatoes are a good price, but indications point to higher prices before the winter is over.

Reports from the eastern portion of the province, at least, state that blight and rot have seriously damaged the crop. On the local market but very few bags are shown each week. The farmer is at a disadvantage, and if he has any at all, is holding them in his bin until the price advances. The wise man will lay in his stock of the vegetable now.

Reports from the western portion of the province are of a more encouraging nature. The potato crop in the west is a good one, but the market is still a little unsettled. The price is now about 15c per bushel, but is likely to advance to 20c or 25c before the winter is over. The wise man will lay in his stock of the vegetable now.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

New Organization Formed — Young Ladies League.

Last night a new organization was formed in the association which is to be known as the Young Ladies' League. By unanimous consent Miss Laing was appointed president and Miss Maund secretary-treasurer. The young ladies present were safely included in their new endeavor by Mrs. R. H. Toye, president of the auxiliary. The special work of the league will be to assist in the work of the junior department in the same way as the auxiliary does for the young men. On the 23rd of this month, the league will give the twenty-ninth successful meeting of the Junior "I of 500" club a banquet.

Work of the league during winter will be to provide socials for the boys; furnish the junior rooms with books, magazines, and provide for the singers for the boys' Friday night meeting. There is a splendid opportunity for these young ladies to interest the one hundred and twenty-five boys now in our association.

A MISSIONARY TEA.

St. George's Cathedral, Juniors Were Successful.

Miss Macaulay kindly gave her house for a tea and sale of work on Thursday night. The proceeds of the sale were used to purchase a pair of shoes for the needy. Miss Macaulay is superintendent, and there was much pretty work on view. Miss Allen Rogers, the treasurer, took the money, at the door, and those who came were received by Miss Macaulay and Miss Frances Macaulay. A candy table, with most tempting good things upon it, was looked after by Miss Elsie Pense, and Miss Creighton, while the society's president, Miss Jane Stafford, and Miss Isabel Bureau were in charge of the work.

The tea table was extremely pretty with its central arrangement of white satin, with sprays of fern upon it, and a broad red satin ribbon, the auxiliary's color, winding in and out among the glass and silver. Here Miss Gladys Orford poured coffee, and Miss Laturney tea, Miss White, Miss Stevens and Miss Flaxman assisting.

A number of pretty and useful aprons, and some lovely pictures were sold by Miss Gwendolyn Orford.

WHAT FLETT SAYS MANUFACTURERS ALWAYS OPPOSE LABOR.

They Want to Get All the Gain and Let the Workmen Keep at the Old Wage—Canada is Having Good Times.

J. A. Flett, Hamilton, the labor organizer, is here this week on a fraternal endeavor to consolidate several organizations, which he thinks to be in their own interests, says there is a 1,000 labor union in Canada. There is a good demand for labor throughout the country, in fact we are enjoying the best times we have ever had, affecting all lines—in particular the unskilled labor, arising from the large construction of works of a public character.

Speaking of "the heretofore accepted fact of the mutuality of interest between labor and capital," he said, "Workers have been charged with disloyalty because they have not advocated duty on political grounds into Canada. It has been accepted as true for a long time about the mutuality of interest between capital and labor. It is all right in theory, but fails to work in practice. What the association of capital has appealed, on patriotic grounds, to purchase Canadian made articles, yet we have not participated in the benefit of tariff accruing from this special advantage of our own country. Working people are slow to observe that all the manufacturers desire is a substantial arrangement, not on one side, in which they secure free trade and labor to the exclusion of labor, but on both sides. Not only has the Canadian workmen free trade in labor but he has to compete against imported labor being brought here under guise of settlers. Some $800,000 was appropriated last year by the federal government, for this purpose. Striving to say the North American Trading company is paid £1 for a foreigner, while only seven shillings is allowed to a steamship company agent, including a British subject to this country."

"We find when Canadian labor makes a demand for better conditions we are met by hostility from the Employers' Association. Here their patriotic consciences are their mainstay to fill the pockets of their employers and the Canadian workmen's pockets."

"I believe that the Employers' Association make moves for their betterment, hence the attitude of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada on the question of tariff is that it is now being raised by the Employers' Association, and the laborer is being raised the cost of living, when he cannot participate in the benefits arising from that tariff. The Manufacturers Association, through their executive, at their last annual meeting, reported that they have been active in defeating labor demands of a legislative character. There never has been anything sought by the representatives of labor that the Employers' Association have not opposed. This does not look like mutuality of interest."

Mr. Flett addressed the trade and labor council last night.

BOTH SIDES GUILTY.

Mr. Mabey—"I think if your lordship would just give us an hour's hearing."

"I would help to facilitate matters."

"A more important enquiry is to follow, and from our point of view it will reveal an even more shocking state of affairs on the conservative side."

Justice Teetzel—"So far the evidence has shown a lavish expenditure on both sides."

AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE Quite An Excellent Play Was Presented.

"The Serio-Comic Governor," was the production at the Grand Opera House last night, and was witnessed by a medium sized audience. It is a comedy with settings in Ireland and England. Interposed are some popular musical numbers and dancing. Nellie Beaumont in the title role and Henry V. Donnelly as a music hall manager, were the clever principals.

Mrs. Beaumont's role is a difficult one, requiring marked versatility, which was certainly shown by her. Mr. Donnelly filled a loudly funny part. Both sang well, too. There were half a dozen pretty, young dancing girls and a couple of clever young clog dancers. The production was splendidly staged and provided fine entertainment.

Saturday Matinee And Night.

"Her First Step," admittedly one of the best plays of its class now before the public, will be offered at the Grand on Saturday, November 4th, matinee and night, and the announcement of its appearance will no doubt be cordially received by a numerous and loyal body of patrons. A few of the best, each one affording splendid material for the unfolding of the very interesting story, full of humor, pathos, heart interest. There are a number of good comedy scenes in "Her First Step." The play is in five acts, and the scenes are interspersed during the action of the play. A very thrilling climax of the fourth act is the drowning of a child from a den of African lions. These animals are fine specimens of the king of beasts, and are introduced in the circus scenes of the play, making one of the most novel incidents ever introduced in melodrama.

Rev. Dr. Tucker's Success.

A St. John's, Quebec, paper says: "The esteemed pastor of the Methodist church, St. John's, is to be congratulated on the result of his exertions since he assumed charge of this circuit a few months since. He has materially increased the attendance at the various church services and meetings; he has raised a spirit of enthusiasm among the members of the congregation and what is more, he has secured the cooperation of the Methodist body in St. John's and Bellevue, renovated the church externally and embellished it artistically internally. This is a work of which both minister and congregation will well feel proud. On Sunday last services were conducted for the first time in the sacred edifice since its renovation, and the exercises were of a character appropriate to the occasion. On the evening following a social gathering was held to commemorate the reopening of the programme was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number who attended. The chief speaker was Rev. J. E. Mavity, of Centenary Methodist church, Montreal, and ex-president of the conference. Rev. Dr. Tucker was also pleasantly in evidence."

Dr. Tucker was pastor of Princess Street Methodist church, Kingston, for some months previous to July last.

GROSS REFLECTION Only 8 Days More

CAST UPON THE WATER-WORKS' ENGINEER.

By the News and Times—Waterworks' Machinery in Excellent Condition—The Engineer Careful and Efficient.

Kingston, Nov. 2.—(To the Editor.) I noticed a paragraph in the Kingston News of October 24th, stating that if the water works committee would examine into the condition of the machinery at the pump house, they might find more things unsatisfactory than the "smoke consumer". Well, sir, not knowing the writer of the above paragraph, or what his abilities are to make him a competent judge to act as a critic on a plant of this kind, I will say that if the writer was a proper judge as to the working of pumping machinery and had himself personally visited the plant, and then wrote the above article, casting a reflection on the abilities of one of the most attentive engineers in this country who is keeping and has kept the Kingston water works plant so that it is a credit to himself and the city of Kingston, both in efficiency and economy, the only conclusion I can arrive at is this, that the writer of the above leading article must have had some other motive besides fault finding, or else he did not know what he was talking about.—Yours truly, ENLNEER.
