BROADBRIM'S

Letter From Greater New York.

CHINESE HONORS

VIVID CRUELITIES PERPETRATED BY BLACK HAND.

While Murder and Arson Do Their Work Politics Are Engrossing Topic of the Hour—Dollars Replace Lineage and Achievement.

Special Correspondence, Letter, No. 1,487 New York, Nov. 10.—In a letter recently I asked the question, "How many absolute governments have we in the limits of United States?" In regard to three of these governments the question is easily answered: First comes the government of the United States, the cornerstone which was laid in the constitutional convention of 1787, a constitution which is still with some slight amendments, our safeguard and guide, the skillful and trusty pilot which has steered the ship of state through sunshine and storm in safety for over a hundred and twenty years, and which we hope to pass unimpaired to our children and our children's children down to the end of time.

The two other murderous despots are a constant menace to our prosperity and peace; since describing the relentless vengeance of the Black Hand last week and its shocking barbarities of the Chinese assassins, two events have occurred that have filled

WILLIAM M. IVINS.
The republican candidate for Mayor at the last election in New York, who made such a determined fight against the Tammany Hall machine, and the one side and the radical municipal ownership element on the other hand.

the town with horror and at last the authorities are awakened to the fact that something must be done to hunt down these murderous thugs if liberty and law are not to perish amid the ruins of the republic.

An industrious citizen who was generally respected by his neighbors had given offence to one of the most powerful of the Chinese guilds; the sentence of death was imposed on him and five thugs were named to execute the decree; they broke into the laundry at midnight and seized their victim they gagged and bound him to his ironing board; they then put out his eyes, cut off his ears and his nose, and after this shocking, barbaric slaying they left him to die. Two of the brutal assassins were caught by the police and they hope to get the others in a few days. The other crime is charged to the Black Hand. A bomb was thrown into a tenement house which was inhabited by over a hundred people; the whole front of the house was blown out, several persons were killed and a large number injured. Such is the murderous work of the week.

But while murder and arson are doing their terrible work, politics are the all-engrossing topic of the hour, and if the politicians are to be entrusted, everybody is going to win, and each of the candidates are sure of his election as if the ballots were counted and result stuck safely away in his breeches pocket; each of the candidates for mayor is in dead earnest, and is neither afraid nor ashamed to plead his own case, nor to ask for the suffrage. The stake for which they are playing is a tremendous one: the improvements now going on of bridges, tunnels, subways and other expensive improvements are costing hundreds of millions of dollars; we are growing fast, and I never knew how fast till I saw some of the ornamental work that is going to beautify one of our public buildings. The stately and noble, were magnificent beyond description. In the collection were works of art in marble, bronze and ivory; these were figures that might have consumed a lifetime of constant effort to create or challenge the cunning chisels of Phidias or Praxiteles to equal; works like these could not have been created in empires and kingdoms where millions of human beings labored all their lives for the glory and exaltation of one who had no more feeling for them than he had for the dirt beneath his feet. The question is whether such extravagances should be admitted in our public buildings, which is supposed to represent the prosperity of a republic. The colossal fortunes which, within a few years, have amazed the world, are not a healthful sign for the future. The record of history gives no account of the life of a single man, who having inherited no fortune, before he reached middle age, was able to present to his fellow men as a free gift one hundred and thirty millions of dollars, at mention of such a tremendous sum the brain reels, and the mind almost fails to grasp what the sum was, there are two men richer than he that we know of. If the computation be true the accumulation of John D. Rockefeller in twenty years will amount to one thousand millions of dollars. In the treasuries of two of the great life insurance companies are nearly nine hundred millions of dollars, and the salary of the president of the Mutual Life Insurance company is $300 a day; this points to an aristocracy where gold and silver shall represent what blood and pedigree do in other lands.

The spirit of the age is toward a desecration. Agitated features are wrecked upon the shore of experiment. Despotisms are being dashed to pieces as no longer fit for human government and Russia, the latest victim, was the cruelest of them all. A picture was represented in one of our great newspapers of a battle between the Japanese fleet and the Russian fleet. The first picture represents the sea covered with the magnificent wrecks of the Russian fleet, the other picture was like a dream of the night where the figures had vanished and melted away without even a shadow remaining. Russia is all aflame; the cry of downtrodden Poland is heard from Warsaw to the Austrian frontier; it is reaching along the mountains. The streets of Odessa are red with blood and the Kremlin at Moscow is no longer a fortress of Germany's a warship in readiness to convey the czar to a place of safety, if necessary. The Russian surf is no longer afraid of the terrible Cossack. The deadly bomb is more than a match for these sanguinary soldiers. But we must now look to our own affairs we have trouble at home. The conflict now on is one of the bitterest that New York has known for years. In an experience of honest government Mr. Ivins is unquestionably in the lead. His experience, his judgment fair, his record impeccable. Tammany enters the battle with a fair consolidation of its forces, not as in former years, with a single absolute command, but still hopeful and confident. He is a man of unquestioned victory. Mr. Hearst, who has no great public experience, looks for his support from the disoriented fragments that can be lured away from either of the old parties. It is a question asked by many if the display of real flags at this particular time will add to Mr. Hearst's offences for victory. To the average citizen who wishes for decent government and a fair protection to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," the red flag represents anarchy and everything bad in human government. The true American citizen gives all his love and devotion to that one flag that has followed on the battlefield to victory or which his dying eyes saw waving above him as he sank to death upon the soil reddened with his heart's best blood. Beneath it we are willing to live and for it we will heroically die.

Miss Alice French chose her pen name of Octave Thanet in curious fashion. Octave was the name of one of her schoolmates and was selected because it gives no hint as to whether the decreed to whom it is a man or a woman. Thanet was adopted from a passing railroad car that Miss French chanced to see and it is pronounced with the accent on the second syllable. Born and educated in New England, the writer has lived most of her mature life in the west and in the south which has made her familiar with widely varying phases of American civilization. Her first magazine story was written and accepted in 1878.

Quietly Married.
An Event at Newboro—Want Daily Mail.
Newboro, Nov. 5.—Thomas Mavity has leased the Richard Leech farm, near here, for the coming season. Dr. Cornell, Brockville, was in town, last Sunday, on professional business. Mrs. J. F. Graham, seriously ill for some time with typhoid pneumonia, is slowly recovering. Mrs. William Leves spent the past few months in Winnipeg, was called home last week owing to the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Graham, Capt. Hartwell, in charge of the tug Aileen with a cargo of wood for Perth, was in port on Saturday evening. Expressions of dissatisfaction are heard on all sides about the way the Smith's Falls Newboro mail route has been conducted during the past month. The mail only reached here three times last week, but William Scott, Portland, took charge this morning, and it is to be hoped that we will again have a daily mail to the Falls. Miss M. Dunham, who has been ill for some time with pneumonia is recovering. S. Mavity purchased the fancy Belwood, sold from R. O. Leggett on Saturday for a fancy price. Miss Lena Mulville, Westport, was the guest of Miss M. Moryarty on Sunday. Cheese sold in Brockville for 12c, Saturday.

Two of Newboro's most popular young people were quietly married in St. Mary's church, at an early hour on Wednesday last, by Rev. J. Stanton. The contracting parties were Miss Jennie, eldest daughter of James Lyons, and Arthur Hull, a prosperous young farm hand residing near here. The young couple were assisted by Miss Ida Lyons, cousin of the bride, and Samuel Fritchard. After partaking of a sumptuous wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Hull left on a short honeymoon trip to Gananoque and vicinity. On their return they will reside in town. Their many friends wish them a long and happy married life.

Mr. Melbough has rented C. Green's farm for 1906. Mrs. Henry Grothier seriously ill for some time is in a very critical condition at present. Her family were called to her home on Saturday, October 28th, at 8:15 per ton and in the hotel for $29.15 per ton. It was reported here last week that Peter Ryan, son of James Ryan, of this place, had been lost on Lake Erie. His many friends will be pleased to learn this rumor was unfounded. Mrs. Sams, Delta, is visiting Mrs. E. Chamberlain. Miss Mary Moriarty returned to town on Saturday.

Many people are subject to periodic attacks of biliousness, sick headache, stomach troubles and bowel irregularities who do not realize that the liver is especially responsible for this suffering.
